HOOVER FOR DEBT REVIEW, R.O.P. CHIEFS OPPOSE IT

Notes Saying He Lacks Authority to Extend Moratorium, President Reiterates Intention to Recommend Commission.

BORAH AND SNELL CRITICISE PROPOSAL

Roosevelt Not Cordial to Idea, Either, Having Said He Considered Existing Agencies Sufficient to Handle Problem.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Despite the opposition of congressional leaders to the creation of an agency to review war debts, America's notes to three European Powers advising them to pay Dec. 15 installments, stated that President Hoover intended to recommend establishment of such a commission. All of the notes handed by Secretary Stimson to the Ambassadors of Great Britain, France and Belgium on Nov. 23—the evening after the President's conference with those congressional leaders—contain that statement.

They stated clearly, however, that Mr. Hoover could see no sufficient reason in the requests presented for granting a new moratorium; that Congress alone could make such an extension and that neither the national legislature nor the American people was in a mood to do so.

Concerning Review of Debts.

"I fully appreciate the importance of the proposal contained in the note of Nov. 10 and the seriousness of the situation upon which it is predicated," says the introductory paragraph of the note to Great Britain. "The mere fact that your government suggests the necessity of a review of the inter-governmental financial obligations now existing between our two nations presents a circumstance which must be given most serious consideration. In a matter of such importance there must be allowed no opportunity for misunderstandings or failure to reach conclusions satisfactory to both Governments and peoples.

The opening paragraph of the French note says: "I fully appreciate the importance of the situation presented by the request for an examination of the problem of the intergovernmental debts contained in the memorandum of the French government dated Nov. 10, 1932. The fact that such a suggestion is made by your Government in itself makes this a matter meriting the most careful consideration. In a matter of such importance there must be allowed no opportunity for misunderstanding or failure to reach conclusions satisfactory to both Governments and people.

Urges Payment Dec. 15.

In the British note—those to France and Belgium were almost identical, differing only in details—Simson said the President had no authority to extend the moratorium and "no facts have been placed in possession which could be presented to Congress for favorable consideration."

"Such importance," the Secretary of State added, "is attached by our government and people to maintenance of the original agreement in force by the payment on Rec. 15, so far outweigh any reasons now present for its suspension, and by such payments the prospects of a satisfactory approach to the whole question, in my opinion, would be greatly increased."

Congress is on record as opposed to a further suspension of payments and debt reduction and its leaders, in conference this week with Mr. Hoover and President-elect Roosevelt, declared not only against a new moratorium, but also against a commission to review foreign debts.

Proposal for a Commission.

"I confess I cannot see any presentation in your note which would be likely to induce the Congress of the United States to act upon the question any differently than from the manner and the principles upon which it has acted in the past," Stimson said.

"The attitude of the President, therefore, is that for any suggested study of intergovernmental financial obligations as now existing, or such agency as I have referred to should be created to consider this question individually with the government as heretofore. The President is prepared to recommend to Congress that it constitu-

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—More than two-thirds of the present Senate stands ready today to submit to the states repeal of the eighteenth amendment, but substituting a constitutional provision providing for "Federal protection for dry territory."

A poll by International News Service discloses the Senate's stand as: 76 for resubmission, 10 against resubmission, and 10 doubtful.

On party lines, the poll disclosed the Democrats were slightly more numerous than Republicans in the repeal ranks.

The party division was:

	For Resubmission.	Against Resubmission.	Doubtful.
Republicans	34	6	8
Democrats	41	4	2
Farmer-Labor	1	0	0
Totals	76	10	10

Those advocating resubmission favored a new prohibition amendment, repealing the Eighteenth Amendment but retaining in the Constitution the express power to control interstate shipment of alcoholic beverages and imposing a bar against the saloon. They probably would accept any language designed to protect dry states against bootlegging from neighboring wet states.

The Democratic plan for outright repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment—giving the states sole control of the liquor problem—was favored by only 57 Senators, not quite enough to insure its adoption at the approaching session of Congress. With 64 votes required under the Constitution for the submission of a constitutional amendment, the situation might be changed after March 4, because of liberal gains in the new Senate.

The poll disclosed an amazing change of sentiment among Senators hitherto regarded as "bone drys."

The poll follows:

FOR RESUBMISSION (76).

Republicans—Barbour, Bingham, Blaine, Carey, Couzens, Cutting, Davis, Dickinson, Fess, Frazier, Glenn, Goldsborough, Hastings, Hatfield, Hebert, Johnson, Kean, La Follette, McNary, Metcalf, Moses, Nye, Oddie, Patterson, Reed, Schall, Schuyler, Shortridge, Smoot, Steiwer, Vandenberg, Walcott, Watson and White (24).

Democrats — Ashurst, Bailey, Bankhead, Barkley, Black, Bratton, Broussard, Bulkley, Bulow, Byrnes, Connally, Coolidge, Copeland, Dill, Fletcher, George, Glass, Harrison, Hawes, Hayden, Hull, Kendrick, King, Lewis, Logan, Long, McKellar, Neely, Pittman, Reynolds, Robinson (Ark.), Russell, Smith, Stephens, Swanson, Trammell, Tydings, Wagner, Walsh (Mass.), Walsh (Mont.), and Wheeler (41).

Farmer-Labor—Shipstead (1).

AGAINST RESUBMISSION (10).

Republicans—Borah, Brookhart, Capper, Howell, Robinson (Ind.), and Thomas (Idaho) (6).

Democrats — Caraway, McGill, Sheppard and Thomas (Ok.) (4).

Republicans — Austin, Dale, Grammer, Hale, Keyes, Norbeck, Norris and Townsend (8).

Democrats—Costigan and Gore (2).

It seems barely possible the advocates of outright repeal might win in the present Senate by using their strength to defeat all proposals for retaining any liquor control in the hands of the Federal Government and then winning over enough modificationists to acquire a two-thirds majority. This course seemed unlikely, however, as leaders have indicated they will try to handle the question in a manner likely to please the greatest number of citizens.

Some of the Senate's most influential leaders in both parties prefer modification of the eighteenth amendment to outright repeal. In this group are Senators James E Watson, the Republican floor leader; Charles L. McNary, the assistant Republican floor leader; Reed Smoot (Rep.), Utah, Carter Glass (Dem.), Virginia, who opposed the pending repeal resolution, and Claude Swanson (Dem.) of Virginia. Unless they should finally agree to support outright repeal, it seems unlikely to be approved by the present Senate.

On the other hand, it opposing groups agree on the language of a substitute for the eighteenth amendment—the effect of which would permit sale of alcoholic liquors in states wishing that privilege—the prohibition question can be submitted to the states before next March 4.

SWIMMING MAIL MAN QUITS HIS JOB AT TIN CAN ISLAND

Leaves South Seas for California After Being Among Sharks for 11 Years.

By the Associated Press.

HONOLULU, Nov. 26.—G. S. Ramsay has quit his job as the swimming mail man of the South Seas.

For 11 years his job has been to swim out to ships from the Island of Niuafou (Tin Can Island) in the Tonga group, through surf too rough for a boat to stand, and tow back mail for the island in a 40-pound biscuit can while sharks swim alongside. His route was about a mile.

Arriving yesterday aboard a liner, Ramsay said he was on his way to Vista, Cal., to raise chickens.

Ramsay, a slightly built 40-year-old Australian, was asked if he had not feared the sharks when swimming to and from the mail ships.

"They always seemed playful," he said. "They never molested me."

CHILD KILLED WHEN GUNMAN AND POLICE EXCHANGE SHOTS

Los Angeles Police Let Man They Are Pursuing Escape, Stopping to Attend Boy.

By the Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 26.—Arthur Munoz, 3 years old, was killed today by a bullet fired in a running pistol fight between police and a gunman.

The gunman, apparently wounded, escaped when officers Clifford Trainor and Clement Rodney stopped their patrol car on seeing the child fall. The mother of the boy, Mrs. Maria Munoz, ran into the street and the child died in her arms.

TROTZKY ON RADIO IN U. S.

To Speak From Copenhagen at 11:30 p. m. Tomorrow, St. Louis Time.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—Leon Trotzky, deposed Russian Communist leader, will be heard on the air for the first time in the United States, Sunday, from 11:30 to 11:45 p. m. St. Louis time. He will speak from Copenhagen, Denmark, where he arrived this week from Turkey his home since he was exiled from Russia. The Trotzky address will be heard in the United States over a coast-to-coast network of the Columbia Broadcasting System. His remarks will be heard throughout the world by short wave from the United States. Broadcasting networks of other countries will not carry the address.

France Faces $224,000,000 Deficit.

PARIS, Nov. 26.—France faces a deficit of 5,600,000,000 francs (about $224,000,000) in 1933-34, Premier Edouard Herriot informed the Council of Ministers today.

GARNER FOR VOTE ON REPEAL AT ONCE

Ready to Recognize Motion First Day of December Session of House, to Suspend Rules for That Purpose.

HE, HIMSELF, WILL DRAFT MEASURE

McNary, Republican, and Others in Senate Favor Early Action Also But Have Not Agreed on Form of Resolution.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. — Speaker John N. Garner today announced he would recognize a motion to suspend the rules for a vote on the resolution to repeal the eighteenth amendment on the first day of the coming session of Congress.

The Vice President-elect said "both parties have demanded an opportunity to vote on it and I'm going to let them vote on it on Dec. 5."

Only a moment before, on the Senate side of the Capitol, similar sentiments had been expressed by Senator McNary of Oregon, the Republican leader.

Submission of a repeal amendment to the states would require the support of two-thirds of those voting in the House and Senate.

Senators Also Favor Action.

McNary told newspaper men that, in view of the actions of the political conventions, he would urge an early congressional decision.

Senate leaders had not determined today what form the proposed resolution should take there.

They were informed that Senator Glass (Dem.), Virginia, wanted his resolution which was before the Senate last session, to be referred to the Judiciary Committee for revision.

The result of this might be that some other measure would form the basis for debate and action when the Senate takes up the question.

The Glass resolution proposed a substitute for the eighteenth amendment, one that would give a constitutional guarantee against the saloon.

Garner States His Position.

Giving his views to reporters, Garner said: "A good many gentlemen in Congress in both parties favor a vote on repeal before presentation of a beer bill, and it seems to me to be the natural order of things to vote on repeal and, then on beer later."

Garner said he had noticed that Senator Borah (Rep.), Idaho, a prohibitionist, had said that to maintain "orderly procedure," repeal should be voted on before beer legislation.

"I thought it over and I thought it was pretty good reasoning," Garner said.

Asked whether he did not consider such a move as breaking a precedent because the President's annual message would not yet have been read to the Congress, Garner replied that he didn't know "very much about precedents," but added "I don't see why we shouldn't submit it now."

Garner said himself draft the prohibition repeal resolution on which he hopes for a vote the day Congress opens.

Questioned as to whether the legislation would be for direct repeal or constitutional outlawing of the saloon, he said: "You'll have to wait until you see the resolution."

"Who is going to draw the resolution?" he was asked. "I'll draw it," he returned.

Brewers to Offer Suggestions.

Meanwhile, it developed that a committee representing all brewers in the United States has been summoned to meet here next week to draft a report by the industry and suggestions to Congress looking toward modification.

Members of the House Ways and Means Committee have informally asked the United States Brewers' Association to submit data on the state of the industry by Dec. 7.

The Brewers' Committee, selected from the trustees of the association, will include: Col. Jacob Ruppert, New York; R. A. Huber, St. Louis; T. C. Haffenreffer, Boston; Fred Pabst, Milwaukee; Julius Liebman, Brooklyn; Edward A. Schmidt, Philadelphia; R. J. Schaefer, New York, and possibly Adolph

'PUSSYFOOT' SENDS $100 (CONFEDERATE) TO THE DEMOCRATS

Dry Writes Chairman Farley 'Man Like You Is Worthy of His Hire'.

By the Associated Press.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Nov. 26.—With the remark that "a man like you is worthy of his hire," William E. (Pussyfoot) Johnson of Smithville Flats, dry crusader, sent a letter today to James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, congratulating him "on a magnificent job in the recent election" and inclosing a $100 bill to help balance the Democratic budget.

His letter to Farley follows: "You surely did a magnificent job in the recent election, and a man like you is worthy of his hire. In order to help you balance your budget, I am inclosing a $100 bill.

"On March 4 we, as a nation, make a nosedive into the new prosperity said to be coming. The sea is only knee-deep to a man who is drunk, and great is the national expectancy.

"Hoover was simply out of luck; like a starving man caught in a soup storm with a pitchfork instead of a bucket."

The $100 bill was in Confederate money.

SNELL SAYS HOOVER 'WILL CUT EXPENDITURES TO BONE'

G. O. P. House Leader Declares He Personally Favors a Sales Tax.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Representative Snell, the Republican leader, told newspaper men after a conference on Federal appropriations with President Hoover today that "the President's recommendations are going to cut right to the bone."

Snell said: "I think we may have some other revenue." "Personally, I favor a sales tax," he said. "A 1 per cent sales tax would not hurt anybody and no tax is fairer."

Snell said the Government, even after beer is legalized, would not get much revenue from that source this year because in his opinion it would go to the Supreme Court for a ruling on the alcoholic content.

"I discussed only appropriations with the President," Snell said on his way from the executive offices. "The President's recommendations are going to cut right to the bone. He is going to insist on these cuts as far as he is able and we are going to back him up to the limit.

"I do not look for any general horizontal cut. The President will make definite recommendations. He is going to insist on not taking on any new appropriations but to hold as closely as possible to his budget recommendations."

FORMER MAYOR WALKER SUED FOR WIFE'S $12,000 BILL

Modiste Says Clothing Account Was $20,000, but $8000 Has Been Paid.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Former Mayor James J. Walker and his wife, Janet Allen Walker, were named defendants in an action brought in Supreme Court today by Hattie Carnegie, a modiste, for $12,059.50 for clothing she claimed was purchased by Mrs. Walker between Sept. 7, 1928, and March 5, 1931. The complaint said that Mrs. Walker's bill during that period amounted to $20,059.50, but that she had paid $8000.

Included among the articles she bought were 40 hats, numerous evening wraps and coats, a $35 bottle of perfume and stockings at $6.50 a pair. There was a $600 item for purchases at Palm Beach, Fla., in January, February and March of 1931.

An affidavit filed with the complaint said several letters had been written the then Mayor about the account, but that the bill had been held in abeyance at the request of A. C. Blumenthal, movie magnate friend of Walker, pending the outcome of the Hofstadter investigation of the city administration. Walker finally resigned as Mayor during a hearing into his fitness to hold office brought about by the Hofstadter investigation. He is now in France.

EX-ARMY MAN KILLS TWO ROBBERS IN STORE HOLDUP; BOTH OF THEM EX-CONVICTS

E. W. MANGSON, INSURANCE MAN, SHOOTS HIMSELF

Despondent Over Approaching Anniversary of Wife's Death, He Tries to End Life in Forest Park.

Despondent over the approaching anniversary of his wife's death, Edward W. Mangson of the firm of Mangson-Murphy-Mangson, fire insurance adjusters, shot himself in the chest early today while seated in his automobile in Forest Park.

At Deaconess Hospital it was said the bullet entered above the heart and ranged downward, coming out at the groin. An operation probably will be performed.

Mangson, who is 60 years old was found in his parked car on Wells drive at 1 o'clock by Patrolmen Merz and Heckel of Mounted District. In reply to the officers' questions the wounded man replied, "I just shot myself. The gun is in the back of the car." A .38-caliber pistol was found on the rear seat.

At the hospital Mangson related that his wife and his mother died on Christmas day four years ago. "I become despondent each year as the Christmas season approaches," he explained.

In Mangson's pocket was found a quotation, written in long hand, ascribed to John J. Ingalls, former United States Senator from Kansas. It read: "Every man is in the center of a circle, whose fatal circumference he cannot pass. Within its narrow lines he is potential. Beyond that he perishes, and if immortality is a splendid but delusive dream and a completeness of every career, even the longest and most fortunate be not supplemented and perfected after its termination here. Then he who regrets to die should have failed to live. Life is a tragedy."

Mangson lives at the Gatesworth Hotel. A brother, T. F. Mangson, 739 Leland avenue, University City, is associated with him in the insurance adjusting firm, which has offices in the Pierce Building.

DONAL BUCKLEY, IRISH FREE STATE GOVERNOR-GENERAL

Appointed to Succeed James McNeill Who Resigned Last Month.

By the Associated Press.

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Nov. 26.—Donal Buckley, former member of the Dail Eireann for Kildare, was appointed Governor-General of the Irish Free State today to succeed James McNeill, who resigned last month.

He was a member of the first Free State Dail and also of the second, but was defeated in the election of 1923.

He is a Republican, an adherent of President Eamon de Valera. From 1918 to 1922 he was a Sinn Fein member of Parliament for North Kildare. In the Dail he represented both Kildare and Wicklow.

YALE HAS DEFICIT OF $287,096

First in 25 Years Reported for Year Ending June 30.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 26.—Yale University had an operating deficit of $287,096 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1932, it was shown today in the report of George Parmly Day, treasurer. It was the first deficit in 25 years.

Estimated savings during the year aggregated $431,693 and gifts to the endowment fund were $1,532,619, making the total of that fund $95,320,170. Investments yielded income of 4¼ per cent, compared with 5 per cent the previous year. The Yale Alumni University Fund Association's gift toward current expenses was $560,744, a 40 per cent increase over the previous year.

WHEAT VS. RICE IN CHINA

Canton Protests Against Nanking's Purchase of U. S. Grain.

By the Associated Press.

CANTON, Nov. 26.—The Canton Government filed a protest with Nanking today against the proposed purchase of $12,000,000 worth of American wheat.

It was understood the Southern Chinese are backing the protest because they have been told Nanking intends to raise the duty on foreign rice to encourage the purchase of wheat.

SLAYER OF ROBBERS

JOSEPH P. PALERMO.

ONE KILLED, 5 HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT NEAR O'FALLON

Clifton Hudsteth, 20, of 3619 St. Louis Av., Loses Life on U. S. Highway 40.

Clifton Hudsteth, 3619 St. Louis avenue, was killed, and five persons were injured in an automobile accident on U. S. Highway No. 40, near O'Fallon, St. Charles County, at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Hudsteth was 20 years old.

Those hurt were Bert Renoad, 42, of the same address, Hudsteth's uncle; Fred H. Smith, 52, of Wright City, Mo., and his brother, Otto C. Smith, 2200 Howard street; Russell Smith, 10, Otto's son, and Leon Smith, 12, son of another brother living at the Howard street address. Renoad's truck was parked on the shoulder of the road, while Hudsteth was fixing a tire, and a car driven by Otto Smith ran off the pavement.

FIREMAN KILLED, 6 PERSONS HURT IN CRASH IN STORM

Engine, Funeral Coach and Street Car Collide in Snow at Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 26.—A fireman was killed, another was seriously injured and five other persons were hurt today when a fire truck, a funeral coach and a street car piled up in a collision during a swirling snowstorm.

The fire truck, its siren screaming as it sped to answer an alarm, crashed into the funeral coach. The coach was thrown against the front end of a street car. Two women and a man, alighting from the street car, were given first aid treatment.

Fireman Michael Bolivar and Thomas Garrity were thrown from the fire truck. Bolivar died within a few minutes at Glenville Hospital and Garrity was taken to the hospital critically injured. A third fireman was hurt. Frank Slatnik, driver of the funeral car, was crushed in the front compartment of the machine. He was removed to his home.

BOY, 3, RESCUED 24 HOURS AFTER HE FALLS INTO PIT

Found by Father Near Home in Syracuse, N. Y., While Searchers Scour Swamp.

By the Associated Press.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 26.—Howard Baxter, 3 years old, was found uninjured in an abandoned pit within 20 yards of his home at noon today. The boy lay at the bottom of the pit from noon yesterday until noon today while police, State troopers, Boy Scouts and volunteers looked for him in the heavy woods, a creek, a run and a swamp near his home on the southern side of the city.

The father, Horace, coming from a neighbor's house today, heard a feeble voice calling "Daddy." The father tore away the few boards remaining over the top of the pit and extricated the child.

A doctor said the boy had suffered no ill effects from his enforced stay in the pit during a night that registered 29 degrees above zero.

STUDENT KILLED IN BLAST

SUSPECTING PAIR, HE GETS PISTOL AND TRAILS THEM

Joseph P. Palermo Catches Them in Act of Tying Up Victor Diesing, 71, in His Pharmacy at 514 South Fourth Street.

FIRES AS THEY TRY TO SHOOT WAY OUT

Francis Trudell Slain on Spot; Ben Joseph Dies in Hospital — Trudell's Widow Arrested Near Scene.

Two ex-convicts were shot and killed by Joseph P. Palermo, former regular army officer, who interrupted them as they attempted to hold up Victor Diesing, 71-year-old druggist, in his store at 514 South Fourth street at 1:40 p. m. today.

Palermo, proprietor of a restaurant at 500 South Fourth street and a grocery at No. 508, became suspicious of the men as they passed the restaurant. He got his revolver and went to Diesing's store. He confronted them as they attempted to bind the elderly druggist, and shot both when one of them confronted him with a revolver and tried to shoot his way out of the store.

Slain Robbers Identified.

One of the robbers, shot in the chest and almost instantly killed, was identified as Francis Trudell, 35 years old. An automobile registration certificate in his pocket gave his address as 1120 Cass avenue, but his wife told police they lived at 1441 Clinton street.

The other robber was identified as Ben Joseph, also known as James. He was identified by Mrs. Trudell, who was arrested near the scene of the holdup. Joseph was shot in the left temple and died at City Hospital an hour after he was shot, without regaining consciousness. He was 41 years old.

"I was in front of my restaurant when I noticed a couple of fellows passing by my place on the way south," Palermo said to a Post-Dispatch reporter. "They didn't look good to me and as I stared at them one of them pulled his hat over his eyes and turned away from me. They went into Diesing's drug store.

"So I got my revolver, a .38-caliber positive, and started down the street.

"As I opened the drug store door I called out 'Hello, Helen,' like I was dropping in to visit Diesing's clerk, I heard no answer, only a lot of funny noises like a man saying, 'Oh, Oh, Oh,' and all out of breath.

"I hollered back, 'What are they trying to do, hold you up?' and got out my revolver. Mr. Diesing hollered back, 'Yes,' and I could hear someone say, 'Shut up, you.'

One Man Headed for Palermo.

"I took a few steps into the store. There were two men struggling with Mr. Diesing. One of them, with a pistol, ducked behind the counter and headed for the front of the store. The other came right for me with his hand back like he was going to pull a gun.

"The man with the pistol made a pass at me and I had to shoot both of them. The fellow with the gun went down back of the soda fountain and the other fell in the middle of the store."

Examination of the antiquated revolver carried by one of the robbers, Trudell, showed he had attempted unsuccessfully to fire it. One cartridge was clearly marked by the pin but police firearms experts said that the thick oil with which the weapon had been coated prevented it from falling heavily enough to discharge the bullet.

Diesing told a Post-Dispatch reporter he was alone in the store when the holdup men entered. One

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

BRITAIN TO SEND NEW NOTE TO U. S. ON DEBT PAYMENT

Government Hopes Some Arrangement May Be Made to Pass Installment Due Next Month.

DELAY ONLY SOUGHT, DECLARES PREMIER

Chancellor of Exchequer Says 30 Pct. Income Tax Will Be Necessary If Remittances Are Resumed.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—The British Government proceeded today in the belief that arrangements yet could be made to pass the December war debt payment to the United States, despite advice from Washington to the contrary.

To that end a new note to Washington is being prepared. It will follow up a note sent earlier in the month requesting suspension of the $95,550,000 installment—a note to which Secretary of State Stimson replied yesterday.

Treasury officials are preparing data for the Cabinet and it is understood the draft of a note to Washington maintaining the British stand will be ready for the Cabinet Monday.

The note from Washington, which appeared in the press this morning, drew no harsh comment. On the contrary, some papers, while recognizing that the full statement did not alter the American position, found room for commendation.

The Daily Telegraph said the note conveyed "a rather more favorable impression than the official forecast." The News Chronicle said "the friendly gestures seem in text somewhat more pronounced than in the previous statement."

The pound sterling took a new dip on the sterling-dollar exchange to 3.20¼ in the early dealings, but made a recovery within an hour, rallying to 3.22. This rate was well above last night's closing and ruled the market at noon.

The rate for sterling showed further slight appreciation before the close, which was 3.22¼.

Warning of Tax Increase.

While Prime Minister MacDonald was expressing confidence last night that a new debt agreement could be made with the United States, Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain said that if Britain resumed payments Dec. 15 it would be necessary to raise the income tax to 30 per cent.

MacDonald said he could not believe that a real effort on both sides would fail to result in a solution "to enable Dec. 15 to be passed."

Chamberlain, speaking in Birmingham, declared it was "absolutely insufferable" for Britain to be forced to raise the income tax while receiving nothing from her own debtors.

Tax Now 25 Pct.

British income tax payers already are assessed 5 shillings in each pound earned, or 25 per cent. Chamberlain predicted a tax of 6 shillings in the pound.

"We never contemplated a state of things in which we might be asked to make payments equivalent to another shilling in the pound on our income tax while at the same time we received nothing from our debtors," he said.

"I am very glad to see that President Hoover recognizes that our request for a fresh discussion of the difficult debt subject is a reasonable one, and that he is apparently not averse to some means whereby it may once more be the subject of conversations.

"I think we should do well for the present to abstain from any hasty attitude as to the final attitude of the American Congress, either upon the question of suspension of the mid-December payments or upon the larger question of the debt itself."

"No Bad Feelings Aroused."

MacDonald dealt with the debt question in a speech at Retford, the seat of the House of Commons constituency of his son.

"American has a political situation—we have an economic one," he told a cheering audience.

"I do not believe for a moment that, if there is a real effort made together, if both sides can put themselves in the other's shoes, that no solution can be found to enable Dec. 15 to be passed and the future to be examined and pondered over and new agreements made between men of good will who understand what the present unfortunate financial situation means to the world and the human beings who live in it."

There was long cheering when MacDonald said that "the discussions with the United States are arousing no bad feelings between us."

"We know the position of the United States," he continued. "We know its political position. They are just like ourselves.

"We have asked no cancelation, we have asked no reduction, we have asked nothing but that the legal date of payment might be postponed while we had an opportunity of exchanging views on the general situation.

Good for Every Nation.

"We believe that such suspension would be good business from the standpoint of every nation, America included. This policy was not born as a result of the mid-December payments. It was born as a result of the financial relations between America and ourselves. It was a comprehensive solution of a world error.

"We had been working at it because we saw its effect upon us, on Europe and, unfortunately—and I say this quite sincerely—because we saw its effect on America itself."

In the lobbies of Parliament disappointment is expressed over the American note. Some commentators say there is very little invitation in it to furnish new facts in support of the extension plea.

"It will not be surprising if the effect on British political opinion is to increase the ranks of those who are advocating refusal to pay," the lobby correspondent of the (British) Press Association says. "There is no doubt that this section of opinion already is numerous and indeed influential. The view taken in these quarters is that it is a case of choosing between two evils, and refusal to pay is the lesser of the two."

France May Send New Note; Premier Calls Conference.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Nov. 26.—Intimations that France might consider another note to the United States on the war debt appeared today as Premier Edouard Herriot summoned officials to conference.

The Premier called Louis Germain-Martin, Finance Minister, and Foreign Office experts to meet him.

The newspaper Excelsior said that after the conference the Premier would be able to draft a new note and submit it to the Cabinet on Monday. This communication, the paper said, probably would be delivered in Washington after the British Government delivers the note it has in preparation.

It was added that the texts of the two documents would in nowise be concerted, though it would be possible to anticipate similar arguments.

Ere Nouvele, left organ, said France stated the problem in one way and America in another.

"We are far from indifferent to this," the paper said, "but we are not alone involved. Each party must shoulder its responsibility. We assumed ours at Lausanne. If tomorrow Lausanne is considered null and void, we acquiesce, but also we consider our course always in the same spirit of peace, but always with constant care in defending our rights and the just interests of our country, and taking the widest account of confidence and accord between us and our British friends."

The Journal captioned the text of the American note advising France to pay its $20,000,000 interest installment next month, as follows: "America's intransigent refusal to prolong the war debt moratorium."

Two viewpoints developed in the Cabinet yesterday. One was that if England paid, France should pay, considering, however, the feasibility of making the deposit in the Bank for International Settlements.

The other, represented by Germain-Martin, was that the French Treasury did not permit payment, and that France would act against the spirit of the Lausanne agreement if it paid. That agreement cut German reparation payments to a bonded maximum of $714,000,000.

HOOVER FOR DEBT REVIEW; G. O. P. CHIEFS OPPOSED TO IT

tute an agency to examine the whole subject."

In this passage the note to France added a reminder of Mr. Hoover's idea that world business conditions could be improved by exchanging debt concessions for tariff favors and disarmament.

In the French and Belgian notes again the Government insisted that the question of reparations was outside the war debts problem. It was pointed out anew that America received no such compensations from the war.

G. O. P. Leaders Oppose Plan.

With the publication of the notes last night came also new expressions from Capitol Hill against the Hoover debt agency proposal. Senator Borah, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, repeated that the whole debts question should be considered only in connection with a program to adjust all post-war economic difficulties and characterized the President's proposal to allow foreign debtors to pay in their own currency as a "diluted form of a moratorium."

Representative Snell of New York, Republican House leader, said he did not believe "the proposal to recreate the war debt funding commission" would come up at all in the present session of Congress.

"With a program which includes an adjustment of the post-war problems which are now conceded to "stand in the way of world recovery, I would include the consideration of the debts," Borah said. "But unless these problems are to be taken up and adjusted so that the world markets may be reopened and foreign trade and commerce re-established, nothing can be gained, it seems to me, by postponements and moratoriums."

Borah has proposed that the debt question be considered in connection with other international economic troubles at a world economic conference, but this Government has taken the stand that debts should not be included in the agenda of the forthcoming conference.

President Hoover's suggestion with reference to payment of the debts in depreciated currencies was made in his statement Wednesday, in which after asserting the December installments should be paid, he said: "By that I do not mean to say that if extraordinary circumstances, such as depreciation of currencies and general fall in world trade have rendered immediate transfers of this next payment in dollars impossible to some nations without losses on both sides, our Government should be unwilling to consider a proposal that payments of this installment be made to our account in foreign currencies, transfers to be effected from time to time, as the situation of the exchanges permits, of course, with guarantees as to value of such currencies."

The suggestion met with approval from some members of Congress, including Speaker Garner, who said he saw no objection to it.

President-elect Roosevelt is not cordial to this commission proposal. He said he thought existing agencies were sufficient to handle the debt problem.

Next Move Up to Europe.

Acting Secretary Castle delivered the reply to the Polish request for a moratorium today to the Chancellor of the Polish Embassy, Wladyslaw Sokolowski. The reply to the Czecho-Slovakian note on debts was delivered a short time afterward.

State Department officials said the contents of the communications were similar to those delivered to France, Great Britain and Belgium.

The delivery of the notes put the next move up to the European countries.

In the event some of the debts are paid in foreign countries, it is not known whether the payments would be deposited in the banks of debtor countries and earmarked for the United States, or transferred to the Bank of International Settlements at Basel, Switzerland. At the State Department there were differences of opinion on whether one concession would be extended to all debtors or only to those off the gold standard.

Johnson Against Cancelation, Revision or Reduction.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 26.—Confidence that Congress would not reduce or revise European war debts had been expressed today by United States Senator Hiram Johnson, who is on his way to Washington. "There is no reason whatever for cancelation, revision or reduction," he said. "The amounts due the United States are represented by our outstanding bonds, every penny of which must be paid. Unless the money to pay those bonds is collected from the foreign nations who received the money originally, it must be paid by American taxpayers. Agitation over debt cancelation began with the moratorium of a year and half ago. Immediately thereafter the responsible statesmen of Europe announced the obligations they owed were thus ended."

French Parliament Members All Oppose Debt Payment.

PARIS, Nov. 26.—On the basis of a straw vote conducted by the newspaper La Liberte, the French Senate and Chamber of Deputies are unanimously opposed to payment of the war debt installment due on Dec. 15, the publication revealed tonight.

All members of both houses were canvassed, La Liberte said, and all went on record opposing the payment except the former Ministers and parliamentarians who participated in debt negotiations in the past. These refused to commit themselves.

DRUGGIST FOUND WITH WOMAN ON WIFE'S COMPLAINT

A. L. Gasen, Head of 13 Stores, Arrested in His Warehouse While Spouse Stands Outside.

"A burglar in Gasen Drug Stores warehouse at 5037 Union boulevard," was the word flashed by the police radio at 10:35 o'clock last night by the dispatcher at headquarters. But no burglar was there.

Instead, the first policemen who arrived there found Mrs. Albert L. Gasen, wife of the company's president, who was standing outside with A. A. Ahner, a private detective. Inside, in the office, the policemen, now a bit bewildered, found Gasen and a woman who said she was Mrs. Julia Anderson, 38 years old, a widow, 425 East Main street, Jefferson City.

Mrs. Gasen insisted that both be arrested charged with disturbing her peace, but no cross charge was lodged against her. Gasen and the woman who said she was Mrs. Anderson were booked at the Ruskin Avenue Police Station and ordered to be in Police Court today to answer the charge. Gasen signed their $200 bonds.

Neither Gasen, Mrs. Gasen nor the woman who said she was Mrs. Anderson were in Police Court when the peace disturbance charges were called for hearing this morning. Samuel I. Sievers, counsel for Gasen, and Hyman G. Stein, attorney for Mrs. Gasen, agreed to a continuance until Dec. 17. Sievers told reporters he was not familiar with his client's case and declared he did not know the woman arrested with Gasen.

Mrs. Gasen left the Gasen home in the Pierre Chouteau Apartments at 4400 Lindell boulevard at 8:30 a. m. today and went downtown to the office of her lawyer. Gasen, who is 36 years old also was at home this morning but declined to discuss the case. The company of which he is president operates a chain of 13 drug stores here.

Inquiry at Jefferson City shows there is no such address as 425 East Main street. Mrs. Julia Anderson is not listed in the city or telephone directories there.

The radio call which sent police to the Gasen warehouse was sent out after an anonymous telephone call to headquarters that there was a burglar in the building.

BANKHEAD NOT CANDIDATE FOR SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE

Alabaman Says He Will Support McDuffie, Democratic Whip, for Post.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. — Representative William B. Bankhead of Alabama today announced he would not be a candidate for Speaker after March 4, but would support Representative John McDuffie, also of Alabama, for that position in the next Congress. McDuffie is the Democratic whip.

Representative Rainey of Illinois, Democratic floor leader, and Representative Rankin of Mississippi, chairman of the Veterans' Committee, have formally announced as speakership candidates. Representative Joseph W. Byrns of Tennessee, chairman of the Appropriations Committee, today said he was a candidate for the speakership.

RAILROADS RENEW FIGHT ON PAYMENT OF $360,000,000

Illinois Terminal Asks for Injunction Against Recapture of Excess Profits by Government.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

DANVILLE, Ill., Nov. 26.—The Illinois Terminal Railroad applied to United States District Judge Walter C. Lindley here yesterday for an injunction against the United States and the Interstate Commerce Commission to prevent the collection of $675,450 in excess profits from March 1, 1920, to Dec. 31, 1924.

This test case constitutes a new attempt by the railroads to escape paying the Government their profits in excess of 6 per cent and is an attack on the general provisions of the Transportation Act of 1920 and the Interstate Commerce Commission's methods of arriving at valuation.

On the ultimate verdict of the courts rests the disposition of nearly $360,000,000 of excess earnings of 450 railroads, claimed by the United States Treasury under the recapture clause of the Transportation Act.

Dormant since the Supreme Court decided the famous test cast of the St. Louis & O'Fallon Railway, the issue was reopened by another small Midwestern line; the Illinois Terminal Railroad, operating a network of steam and electric lines in Illinois as a subsidiary of the Illinois Power and Light Corporation.

"Confiscatory," Road Says.

Telling of its losses in the depression years since 1929, the company contended the assessment of all profits above 6 per cent in better years would be confiscatory. It charged also that the Interstate Commerce Commission improperly assumed the roles of plaintiff, prosecuting attorney, prosecuting witness, Judge and jury in the hearings that resulted in fixing the carrier's excess earnings, and that it erred in finding the railroad's property valuation.

The petition sets forth that the carrier had $1,800,000 in securities posted with the Interstate Commerce Commission as a guarantee, filed in 1928 when the Illinois Terminal Railroad acquired by lease the old Illinois Traction System and other transportation units in the state. The deposit was required pending assessment of amounts recoverable by the Government under the recapture clause.

The $675,450 bill specifically attacked in the proceedings covered earnings of the original freight line from Alton through Edwardsville to near Belleville, all the right of way being in Madison and St. Clair counties. The line has strategic property rights in the coal mining and manufacturing region.

Counsel for the Illinois Terminal Railroad asserted the system failed by at least $159,580 to earn a return of 6 per cent per annum from March 1, 1920, to Dec. 31, 1930, the period being considered as a whole, and on the income and valuation basis determined by the Interstate Commerce Commission. Liability for recapturable excess income, the bill sets forth, is fixed on consideration of each calendar year as a separate period and there is no allowance for offsetting deficiencies of unprofitable years against the surplus of the fat years.

Attacks I. C. C. and Law.

The complainant makes no charge of fraud, prejudice or discrimination against the Interstate Commerce Commission. It directs its attack against the general provisions of the Transportation Act of 1920 and the methods of the Commerce Commission in arriving at property values. It contends the commission arrived at valuations by considering the cost of reproduction derived by applying to the inventory of property prices that prevailed during the years 1910-1914.

Values fixed by the commission in the recapture order for each of the recapture years except 1921 were less than the cost of reproduction, less depreciation, exclusive of the value of its land and working capital, as determined by the commission, counsel for the Illinois terminal line contended.

The carrier charges the commission appraised the carrier's land at "wholly inadequate and insufficient figures . . . far below their true value."

In addition to the payment demanded by the Interstate Commerce Commission in the $675,450 bill submitted for 1920-24, due in 90 days from Sept. 6 last, the Interstate Commerce Commission also has asserted additional claims to excess earnings of Illinois Terminal railroad for the calendar years 1925, 1926 and 1927. These claims are not attacked in the bill filed yesterday, but the addition of the 1925-27 total of $883,194 claimed by the Government makes an aggregate of $1,558,644 alleged to be due from the carrier for excess income from 1920 through 1927.

In 1928, 1929 and 1930 the Interstate Commerce Commission records show the Illinois Terminal Railroad had a deficiency under the authorized 6 per cent return on property value.

In the O'Fallon case, the Supreme Court ruled that the Interstate Commerce Commission erred in determining property values, basing earnings computations on prices prevailing from 1910 to 1914. The recapture order went back to the commission for revision of property value figures.

A. F. OF L. SAYS 12,700,000 WILL BE IDLE THIS WINTER

Statement Based on Anticipated Decline of Seasonal Employment—Payroll Shrinkage Placed at $8,000,000,000 a Year.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—The "greatest unemployment crisis of all times," with 12,700,000 idle and hundreds of thousands added to relief rolls was predicted today in the American Federation of Labor's monthly business review.

Already, the review said, nearly one-third of all the wage and small salaried workers of the country are out of work.

The prediction of 12,700,000 idle was based on the normal seasonal decline in employment. Should business slacken further, it was pointed out, more will be jobless.

"Each depression year our relief bill has doubled," the survey said. "Workers have passed from payroll to relief roll, their earned income shrinking each year by $8,000,000,000 below the year before. Our relief bill this year will be in hundreds of millions of dollars. Yet although many have given generously and public funds have been taxed exhaustively, relief for our millions of unemployed has been at starvation levels."

The world situation was inextricably interwoven with the domestic situation, it added, asserting that foreign countries were unable to buy greater quantities of American goods because they could not sell their own.

"Workers the world over have a common task of restoring production, getting men back to work, rebuilding living standards," the review said in reporting on world unemployment. "It has recently been estimated that at present in all countries of the world 30,000,000 persons are out of work.

"In every country there is a deep feeling of revolt against a situation that denies workers a chance to earn a living. The coming winter will bring very serious days."

GARNER FAVORS VOTE ON REPEAL ON DAY THAT CONGRESS OPENS

phus Busch of the Anheuser-Busch Co. of St. Louis.

The data requested includes estimates on plant capacity; estimates of capital expenditure for expansion, and time required to establish additional capacity.

In addition the brewers' committee will present suggestions on alcoholic limitation in beer; plant operation and control based on systematizing the industry as promptly as possible within the law; distribution and legal systems of permit control.

Says Snell Urged Action.

Questioned concerning his discussions with Representative Snell of New York, the Republican leader, about action on repeal, Garner said "Snell had asked me to give consideration of repeal at the earliest possible moment. I don't know any earlier possible moment than the first day of Congress."

Garner explained that under a motion to suspend the rules, the Speaker had the right to recognize any member for the consideration of any legislation regardless of whether it had been passed on by a committee or not. He said he saw no harm in the immediate action on the first day because "the people have created a precedent and they want the eighteenth amendment repealed."

Plans for quick action drew immediate support from Senator Harrison of Mississippi, a spokesman for the Democrats.

Agreeing with McNary's plan to consider a submission resolution at the opening of Congress, Harrison said he saw no objection to it in view of the proposal of House leaders to do the same.

"I want to take up as many of these proposals as possible and get rid of them in the short session of Congress," Harrison said.

At a press conference, Snell said he favored action on repeal legislation "at the earliest practical time."

"I would not object to the first day except I have some doubt as to the propriety of action on such an important matter on the first day," Snell said.

He said he saw no necessity to rush the action because "whatever proposition we pass, we want it carefully thought out." He added, however, he would have no objection to action within two weeks. He said he felt the Republicans would like to present their own proposition for submission along the lines of the national platform and predicted that if such a resolution were passed it might be ratified within three months by the State Legislatures.

Snell also pointed out that sentiment against restoration of the saloon undoubtedly would be expressed, and that whatever repeal resolution is submitted should carry a provision outlawing the saloon.

"Understand me, I am in favor of early action," Snell said.

He said he did not believe President Hoover would consider it any discourtesy, however, for the House to act on a repeal resolution the first day of Congress.

GLASS MAKERS SENTENCED AS DRY LAW VIOLATORS

Contrivances Michigan Men Made Were Used by Offenders Against Volstead Act.

By the Associated Press.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Nov. 26.—Convicted of violating the prohibition law because glass contrivances they produced were used by liquor law offenders, Arthur C. and Isaac E. Colvin, brothers, of Belding, Mich., were sentenced to a year and a day in the Federal Industrial Reformatory at Chillicothe, O., and fined $900 each.

Arthur Colvin is president of the Metal Glass Products Co. of Belding, and his brother is a salesman for the concern.

NEW THEORY OF COSMIC RAYS

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—Cosmic rays are charged with electricity, in the opinion of Abbe G. Le Maitre of Louvain University, France, and Dr. M. S. Vallarta of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The two scientists announced their conclusion in a joint paper read before the meeting of the American Physical Society here.

EX-ARMY MAN KILLS TWO HOLDUP MEN IN DRUG STORE ROBBERY of them had a revolver in his hand and the other carried a screwdriver.

"I was standing in front of the counter," the elderly druggist said. "The man with the revolver tried to tie my hands with a handkerchief and the man with the screwdriver came up behind me and tried to blindfold me. I was struggling with them when I heard Palermo at the front door."

Palermo said he had served five years and 10 months in the regular army, beginning his service in the Eleventh Infantry prior to the entrance of the United States in the World War. Transferred to the Fifty-second Infantry in the Sixth Division, he was commissioned a Second Lieutenant and sent overseas, where later he served with the 141st Infantry in the Thirty-sixth Division. After the war he remained in service for several months but finally resigned with 23 months of overseas service.

Brother Killed 3 Men in Year.

Palermo, who killed the two robbers today, is a brother of Paul Palermo, who shot and killed Forrest Rainey and Emory Gray during an argument over payment for whisky at his saloon on Easton avenue Oct. 2, 1921.

Paul Palermo fired two shots when, he said, the pair leaned across the bar and threatened to "get" him after refusing to pay a $2 bar bill. The men were dead when police reached the saloon at 2852 Easton avenue. Palermo was indicted on charges of murder but was acquitted in the Gray case after testifying that he shot in self-defense. The second charge was dismissed by the Court.

Earlier the same year Palermo, who is lame, shot and killed a Negro, who shot him in the jaw in attempting to rob him.

Each Arrested 40 Times.

Both Trudell and Joseph had been arrested here more than 40 times. Trudell was last arrested Oct. 28, on complaint of Edward Smith, 417 Wash street, who identified him as the pickpocket who took a purse and $340 as he alighted from a street car at Broadway and Wash street.

Trudell was released on bond in that case. He had served two Workhouse sentences and one jail sentence for petty larceny here previous to being sentenced to two years in the Leavenworth penitentiary in 1926 for violation of the Harrison narcotic laws.

Joseph also served a term in Leavenworth, beginning in 1926, for a drug law violation. Previously he had been in the Workhouse here for petty larceny and was sentenced to the Ohio State Penitentiary in 1918 on a charge of larceny from a person in Zanesville. He was a known drug addict and associate of criminals. When last arrested, in October, he gave an address in the 3200 block of South Jefferson avenue.

ILLINOIS SEEKS NEW LOAN

To Present Appeal for Relief to R. F. C. Tuesday.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—Illinois will seek a second loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for relief.

Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago, Edward Ryerson, head of the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission, and other leaders will present their appeal in Washington Tuesday.

The amount of the proposed new loan had not been set yet, Ryerson said, but he pointed out that the commission's funds were nearly exhausted and that $6,505,000 would be needed to carry on its work through December.

DAMAGE SUIT CHASER HELD IN FAKE CLAIM

Police Say He Admits 'Putting' Woman on Street Car That Crashed With Auto.

John Williams, Negro "runner" for damage suit lawyers, is under arrest today, charged with faking an accident claim against the Public Service Co.

Detective Lieutenant Ira Cooper, who arrested Williams during an investigation of fake injury claims, announced he had obtained an admission from the prisoner that he "put" Annie May Davis, Negro, 1639 Biddle street, on a street car which collided with an automobile at Nineteenth and Franklin avenue Aug. 15, 1931. A suit for $7500, which she filed against the street car company for alleged injuries, is pending.

Williams explained, according to Lieut. Cooper, that he had been an ambulance chaser for four years working up personal injury claims which he took to several law firms on a commission basis. When he heard of the collision at Nineteenth and Franklin it occurred to him to find a "victim" with a view to sharing in the profits from a damage suit.

Mrs. Davis, the mother of two children, agreed to enter into the scheme, Williams said. She signed a paper making Williams her agent, and he took the case to a lawyer, who filed suit. Williams failed to tell the attorney of the fraudulent nature of the claim, and instructed Mrs. Davis to feign injury during an interview with her counsel.

Mrs. Davis, who will be used as a witness against Williams, corroborated the latter's account, police say. She explained that she was at 1439 Biddle street, her residence at that time, on the day of the accident.

POLICE THINK OWNER LOST $91,000 REPORTED STOLEN

Chicago Officials Question Tulsa (Ok.) Rancher on Possibility Confidence Men Got It.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—Police would like to know exactly how A. A. (Jack) Drummond, a rancher of Tulsa, Ok., lost $91,000 in a Loop hotel. Drummond's story was that the money disappeared from his hotel room between Thursday night and 10 o'clock Friday morning. The money was in $500 and $1000 bills and was carried in a money belt, he said. Contrary to his custom and because he was "so full of turkey" he took the belt off before retiring. When he awoke belt and money were gone.

Police said they were convinced Drummond had lost the money after Elmo Thompson, vice-president of the Exchange National Bank of Tulsa, told them by telephone Drummond had left there three weeks ago carrying $37,500 in cash.

Drummond told them he drew out $10,000 more from the Kansas City Fidelity Trust and Savings Bank. Later, he said, he visited Pittsburgh, St. Louis and Cleveland, coming to Chicago Thanksgiving day.

Police suggested the possibility that Drummond was the victim of confidence men, and quoted him as saying: "If that mob got the money, officers, forget the matter, for I'll get it back better than you will." "That mob," Drummond disclosed, was several men who apparently had followed him around on his travels. They were stockmen, he said.

YOUTH KILLS GIRL AND SELF

Angered Because She Was Going to Party With Another.

REPUBLICANS HOPE TO AVOID PRIMARY MAYORALTY FIGHT

Committee Chiefs Ask Members to Keep Open Mind and Not to Make Pledges Now.

NEWTON WILL NOT BE CANDIDATE

Conferences to Be Held With Party Leaders in Effort to Reach Agreement on Strong Man.

Members of the Republican City Central Committee have been appealed to by Chairman Richard ...uner and Treasurer Charles R. ...llespie to keep an open mind on ...oice of a candidate for Mayor.

The two party leaders wish to ...oid factional strife which might ...danger success in the April elec...n, for they recognize that the ...mocrats, following their land...de victory in the November elec...n, are prepared to make a for...dable fight. For this reason they ...ve asked the committee members ...refrain for the present from in...rsing any primary candidate. ...ey hope that as the field nar...ws they will be able to unite ...support of a candidate of un...estioned strength.

...t is their plan to have the com...ttee confer with leading Repub...ans from time to time to discuss ...merits of various available ...ndidates.

Newton Not Candidate.

Cleveland A. Newton, former ...ngressman from the old Tenth ...strict, told a Post-Dispatch re...rter today he will not be a can...date. Congressman L. C. Dyer, ...ose term expires March 4, also ...s stated that he will not run. ...is eliminates two of those fre...ently mentioned in City Hall ...k.

The only avowed candidate is ...lter J. G. Neun, president of the ...ard of Aldermen. Others men...ned are City Counselor Muench, ...rcuit Judge William H. Killoren ...d William R. Orthwein. The pos...ility that Mayor Miller may seek ...third term has been widely dis...sed, but Miller is waiting for ...n. 1 to state his position.

The attitude of the committee ...ficials does not mean that Neun ...unsatisfactory to them; if he ...uld develop outstanding strength ...would be in line for the com...ttee's support.

Recent Majorities Small.

The uneasiness of the Repub...an leaders is based not only on ...recent upset, in which two ...mocratic Aldermen were elected, ...also upon the fact that ...recent mayoralty elections Re...blican majorities have been com...ratively small. In 1929 Mayor ...ller was re-elected by a plurality ...7114, but four years earlier his ...rality was only 3129. In 1921, ...nry W. Kiel, Republican, was ...cted to his third term by a ...rality of 9615. In all three elec...ns Republican Aldermen won by ...ralities of 30,000 to 40,000.

Republicans have been disturbed ...the possibility that the Demo...ts might avoid a primary con...t by agreeing in advance on a ...ng man, and then enter the ...ublican primary to nominate ...weakest man to be their op...nent.

Among Democratic possibilities, ...rnard F. Dickmann, president of ...Real Estate Exchange and ...asurer of the Democratic State ...mmittee, is prominently men...ned. Former Congressman Wil...m Igoe, who was the Democrat...nominee in 1925, has announced ...support of Dickmann.

DAMAGE SUIT CHASER HELD IN FAKE CLAIM

Police Say He Admits 'Putting' Woman on Street Car That Crashed With Auto.

John Williams, Negro "runner" for damage suit lawyers, is under arrest today, charged with faking an accident claim against the Public Service Co.

Detective Lieutenant Ira Cooper who arrested Williams during an investigation of fake injury claims announced he had obtained an admission from the prisoner that he "put" Annie May Davis, Negro, 1639 Biddle street, on a street car which collided with an automobile at Nineteenth and Franklin avenue Aug. 15, 1931. A suit for $7500, which she filed against the street car company for alleged injuries, is pending.

Williams explained, according to Lieut. Cooper, that he had been an ambulance chaser for four years working up personal injury claims which he took to several law firms on a commission basis. When he heard of the collision at Nineteenth and Franklin it occurred to him to find a "victim" with a view to sharing in the profits from a damage suit.

Mrs. Davis, the mother of two children, agreed to enter into the scheme, Williams said. She signed a paper making Williams her agent, and he took the case to a lawyer, who filed suit. Williams failed to tell the attorney of the fraudulent nature of the claim, and instructed Mrs. Davis to feign injury during an interview with her counsel.

Mrs. Davis, who will be used as a witness against Williams, corroborated the latter's account, police say. She explained that she was at 1439 Biddle street, her residence at that time, on the day of the accident.

POLICE THINK OWNER LOST $91,000 REPORTED STOLEN

Chicago Officials Question Tulsa (Ok.) Rancher on Possibility Confidence Men Got It.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—Police would like to know exactly how A. A. (Jack) Drummond, a rancher of Tulsa, Ok., lost $91,000 in a Loop hotel. Drummond's story was that the money disappeared from his hotel room between Thursday night and 10 o'clock Friday morning. The money was in $500 and $1000 bills and was carried in a money belt, he said. Contrary to his custom and because he was "so full of turkey" he took the belt off before retiring. When he awoke belt and money were gone.

Police said they were convinced Drummond had lost the money after Elmo Thompson, vice-president of the Exchange National Bank of Tulsa, told them by telephone Drummond had left there three weeks ago carrying $37,500 in cash.

Drummond told them he drew out $10,000 more from the Kansas City Fidelity Trust and Savings Bank. Later, he said, he visited Pittsburgh, St. Louis and Cleveland, coming to Chicago Thanksgiving day.

Police suggested the possibility that Drummond was the victim of confidence men, and quoted him as saying: "If that mob got the money, officers, forget the matter for I'll get it back better than you will." "That mob," Drummond disclosed, was several men who apparently had followed him around on his travels. They were stockmen, he said.

YOUTH KILLS GIRL AND SELF

Angered Because She Was Going to Party With Another.

By the Associated Press.

RENO, Nev., Nov. 26.—Angered because 15-year-old Barbara Inman was going to her first formal party with another boy, Otha C. Touchstone, 22, University of Nevada student from Turnersville, Tex., shot and killed her here last night and then fatally wounded himself.

The shooting occurred at the home of the girl's grandmother, Mrs. Ben Leon.

REPUBLICANS HOPE TO AVOID PRIMARY MAYORALTY FIGHT

NEWTON WILL NOT BE CANDIDATE

Conferences to Be Held With Party Leaders in Effort to Reach Agreement on Strong Man.

Members of the Republican City Central Committee have been appealed to by Chairman Richard Gruner and Treasurer Charles R. Gillespie to keep an open mind on choice of a candidate for Mayor.

The two party leaders wish to avoid factional strife which might endanger success in the April election, for they recognize that the Democrats, following their landslide victory in the November election, are prepared to make a formidable fight. For this reason they have asked the committee members to refrain for the present from indorsing any primary candidate. They hope that as the field narrows they will be able to unite support of a candidate of unquestioned strength.

It is their plan to have the committee confer with leading Republicans from time to time to discuss the merits of various available candidates.

Newton Not Candidate.

Cleveland A. Newton, former Congressman from the old Tenth district, told a Post-Dispatch reporter today he will not be a candidate. Congressman L. C. Dyer, whose term expires March 4, also has stated that he will not run. This eliminates two of those frequently mentioned in City Hall talk.

The only avowed candidate is Walter J. G. Neun, president of the Board of Aldermen. Others mentioned are City Counselor Muench, Circuit Judge William H. Killoren and William R. Orthwein. The possibility that Mayor Miller may seek a third term has been widely discussed, but Miller is waiting for Jan. 1 to state his position.

The attitude of the committee officials does not mean that Neun is unsatisfactory to them; if he should develop outstanding strength he would be in line for the committee's support.

Recent Majorities Small.

The uneasiness of the Republican leaders is based not only on the recent upset, in which two Democratic Aldermen were elected, but also upon the fact that recent mayoralty elections Republican majorities have been comparatively small. In 1929 Mayor Miller was re-elected by a plurality of 7114, but four years earlier his plurality was only 3129. In 1921, Henry W. Kiel, Republican, was elected to his third term by a plurality of 9615. In all three elections Republican Aldermen won by pluralities of 30,000 to 40,000.

Republicans have been disturbed by the possibility that the Democrats might avoid a primary contest by agreeing in advance on a strong man, and then enter the Republican primary to nominate the weakest man to be their opponent.

Among Democratic possibilities, Bernard F. Dickmann, president of the Real Estate Exchange and treasurer of the Democratic State Committee, is prominently mentioned. Former Congressman William Igoe, who was the Democratic nominee in 1925, has announced support of Dickmann.

FOX TERRIER ARISTOCRACY ON DISPLAY AT DOG SHOW

President's Cup for Best Entry to Be Awarded at Gatesworth Hotel Tonight.

Some of the finest specimens of wire and smooth hair fox terriers in America were among the 100 pedigreed dogs on display at the second annual specialty show of the Wire and Smooth Fox Terrier Club of St. Louis at the Gatesworth Hotel today.

Outstanding entries were Eden Aristocratic, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Lowenbach, Chicago; Hetherington Foxhunter, owned by Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Carruthers III, Cincinnati; Catholic Judy, owned by William H. and Catherine Southworth, Rockford, Ill., and three from St. Louis, North Hills Dudette, owned by Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Wilkinson; Stratford Dictator, owned by Ellsworth S. Bauman, and Temptation Audion, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Marion E. Wallace Jr.

Judging will continue until 8 o'clock tonight, when the president's cup for the best dog in the show will be awarded. Miss Lena Scott of Lambeth, Ont., internationally known authority on terriers, is judge.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Nov. 26.—Mr. and Mrs. Ely Culbertson, Oswald Jacoby and Louis H. Watson, composing a team representing the United States, defeated Bermuda's team by 6000 points last night in the "first international contract bridge contest." Playing for Bermuda were Mrs. F. C. Misick, Mrs. Edwin Gosling, A. M. Purcell and Commander J. C. Neish.

Singing Championships For Canaries Opened

ONE of the competitors and (below) FRANK KREUTZ, judge.

More Than 100 Birds Are Taking Part in Annual Competition of South Side Club.

Roller canaries, the operatic songsters of the canary family, are singing for championship honors at the annual contest of the South Side Canary Club at Jeffla Hall, Jefferson and Lafayette avenues.

Judging in the contest, which opened yesterday with more than 100 birds, including entrants from other states competing, continued today and the winners will be announced tomorrow afternoon at the conclusion of the show.

The contest is a serious business. There is none of the hustle and bustle such as is evinced at shows where mere appearance counts. This exhibition is based on performance alone—the finest plumage may not outweigh a faulty singer. Exhibitors and spectators move quietly about the main display room, glancing with practiced eye at those that have been judged and who have yet to sing.

In another room, behind closed doors, is seated the judge, Frank Kreutz, who has been judging the singing of birds for 27 years.

The judge is seated at a table, score sheet in front of him, pencil in hand. Ten feet in front of him are four birds, in cages placed one above another. The birds sing in teams, although each bird is judged on its merits. Prizes are awarded for total team scores as well as for the best individual singer in the show. The score sheet lists 15 musically effective good points and seven bad ones.

The judge is especially vigilant to catch the rare koller, a term which means a bird that renders a combination of three notes. Koller singers are few and far between. Another comparative rarity is a roller that can sing the "deep bubbling water tour." When a bird sings a "tour" its little throat pulsates, while for the flute notes there is not a tremor.

Each team is before the judge for about 20 minutes. If a bird doesn't sing, another chance is given, but usually they sing, sometimes encouraged by a low whistle from the judge. All of the teams represent the pick of numerous birds raised by the exhibitors. Some are descendants of famous songsters; all have undergone months of training almost as rigid as that given human musicians. Often two experienced singers are used to train other birds.

So judging is a particularly delicate task for the breeders know their notes and birds. Too bad for the songster which develops such faults as a "bad nasal tone," or "ugly interjection" but happy the bird which scores consistently with the "flute notes," "bell roll" and bass."

Boy, 5, Injured by Truck.

Billy Stone, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Stone, 425 South Gore avenue, Webster Groves, was struck by a grocery truck in front of his home yesterday morning. He suffered broken legs, a broken arm and a skull injury. The driver was William Hock, employe of a Webster Groves store.

Last of Famous Dog Team Dies.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Fritz, last of the dog team that Leonard Sepala mushed across the frozen Alaskan wastes to Nome, carrying diphtheria serum, in 1925, died of age here yesterday, in a department store where he had just been placed on exhibition.

TRADE IN CHICAGO AREA SLOWS DOWN IN OCTOBER

Reverses Affect Almost All Lines Except Wholesale Hardware and Electrical Supplies.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—Wholesale and retail merchandising trade slowed down in the Seventh Federal Reserve District during October, the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank announced today.

The reversals followed unexpected increases during September and affected almost all lines with the exception of wholesale hardware and electrical supply trades.

As a result decreases against the first 10 months of last year were greater. Groceries were 21 per cent under 1931 totals; hardware 26 per cent; dry goods 32 per cent; drugs 23 per cent; shoes 42 per cent, and electrical supplies 43 per cent, the report said.

An increase of only one per cent in the department store business during October over the month before was caused by a 17 per cent seasonal decline in Detroit. Chicago stores had a 6 per cent gain in sales; Indianapolis a 2 per cent gain and Milwaukee one of 18 per cent. Stores in the smaller cities reported business increases averaging 8 per cent.

VALLEY PARK ATTORNEY INDICTED AS EMBEZZLER

Glenn Jones, Suspended from Practice by Appellate Court, Accused of Defrauding Clients.

Glenn Jones, Valley Park attorney suspended from practice last summer by the St. Louis Court of Appeals, was indicted yesterday by the St. Louis County grand jury on a charge of embezzlement of $842 in settlement of an estate.

The indictment alleges Jones, as attorney and guardian for Elmer and Albert Schultz, brothers, of Valley Park, in the settlement of their grandfather's estate, kept Albert Schultz's share. The brothers were minors at the time the appointment was made in 1925.

The complaint which led to Jones' disbarment last summer, for six months, was filed by the Missouri Bar Association's Committee on Grievances and Legal Ethics. Three charges other than the one based on the Schultz matter were presented, all of them involving alleged unlawful retention of money belonging to Jones' clients. Jones is 48 years old. His bond on the embezzlement charge was set at $10,000.

ONE-FIFTH OF ST. CLAIR COUNTY ON RELIEF ROLLS

Commission Makes Statement in Asking Illinois for $100,000 for December Work.

One-fifth of the residents of St. Clair County are receiving aid, the County Emergency Relief Commission announced yesterday in requesting $100,435 from the State Commission to help 7607 families in December.

The County Commission estimated 75 per cent of the predominantly Negro population of Brooklyn and half the families of Marissa were receiving aid. Of the total allotment, $66,875 was sought for 4318 families in East St. Louis.

The Rev. John Van Lear Dies.

The Rev. John Van Lear, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church at Little Rock, Ark., died suddenly there Thursday of heart disease. He had preached in St. Louis frequently and often occupied the pulpit of Westminster Presbyterian Church. He was the brother-in-law of Mrs. William J. Porter of St. Louis.

POLICEMAN NABS TWO HOLDUP MEN ON PHONE REPORT

Gets Description, Spots Them on Street 10 Minutes Later — Confectioner Identifies Them.

When Patrolman Frank Hunt made his regular call to the Wyoming Street Station at 8 o'clock last night, he received a description of two robbers who had held up a confectioner at 2348 Menard street, about five blocks away.

The robbery had occurred only 10 minutes before and even as Hunt turned away from the patrol box, he saw two men of the description given run into an areaway at 2218 South Broadway. He called the station for other officers and when they arrived a few minutes later, went with them to search the tenement where he had seen the men.

The officers found two former convicts who later were identified by the confectioner, Edward Ketterer, as the robbers. The prisoners, Morgan Joplin, 23 years old, and Hollis Hooper, 30, had $14.87, including 122 pennies, and a revolver in their possession, according to police, and admitted the robbery, in which $15.48 was taken.

Police records show Joplin served a sentence in the Missouri penitentiary for forgery in 1929, and Hooper a term in the Jackson, Mich., prison for robbery in 1927.

Truck Driver Held Up and Robbed of $30.

LaVerne Overbey, 5416 Robin avenue, truck driver for a commission company, was held up at Union boulevard and Lexington avenue at 6 p. m. by two men, one with a revolver, who boarded his truck and ordered him to drive to an alley in the neighborhood. They took $30 and escaped in an automobile with a third man.

As Marius Crowe, clerk in a confectionery at 5475 Beacon avenue, was listening to the radio in a back room with two friends, he heard a noise in the front and found two men there. One ordered cigarettes and then at the point of a revolver, took $3.60 from the cash register, a carton of cigarettes and a handful of cigars. The robbers escaped and Crowe's friends were unaware of the holdup until he went back and told them.

Mrs. Jennie Levy, a widow, was awakened at her home, 32 Lewis place, early today by a man lighting a match. Before she could see him, he ordered her to hide her face in the pillow and keep quiet. Demanding to know where her money was, he turned on the light and took $20 she told him was in a dresser drawer. He advised her to keep her face hidden for five minutes and escaped.

When a Negro snatched a purse from Mrs. Frances Aleto, 2706 North Twenty-first street, in front of 724 Franklin avenue yesterday afternoon, she screamed and Milton Sacks, 6260 Cates avenue, gave chase. Near 806 North Ninth street, Sacks caught up with the Negro, who was climbing over a fence, and seized his overcoat but the fugitive wriggled out of it and escaped. During the chase, the thief took $25 out of the purse and threw the purse away. It was found with 51 cents and various articles still in it.

Harry B. Lohbiller, a commission merchant residing in Juanita place, Belleville, was held up in the kitchen of his home last night by three masked men who took $25 from him and then searched the second floor, where Mrs. Lohbiller was ill in bed. They found her purse with $35 in it and left the house. In his excitement, Lohbiller called the Fire Department instead of the police, and trucks were sent to the house.

MRS. DORIS ACKERMAN WEDS NEW YORK BROKER

Divorced Wife of St. Louisan Becomes Bride of Harold Cahn.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Mrs. Doris Ackerman, daughter of Abram M. Frumberg, attorney, formerly of St. Louis, and Harold Cahn, broker, were married in the municipal chapel today.

Cahn, Yale graduate and member of the firm of Frank B. Cahn & Co., 120 Broadway, gave his age as 34. The bride, who divorced Byron Ackerman of St. Louis in 1928, is 27. She is a graduate of Mary Institute and Washington University at St. Louis, and attended Wellesley College. Her parents reside at 122 East Seventy-third street.

Mr. and Mrs. Cahn will go abroad on their wedding trip.

Election Officers' Pay Held Up.

Pay for East St. Louis election judges and clerks will be delayed until February, Finance Commissioner John T. Connors announced yesterday. Connors said the 1932 appropriation of $15,111 had been exceeded by $6578 due to redistricting and general registration, and that he had notified the Election Board he would pay no more of its warrants before the end of the year. A special judicial election will be held next month.

SMITH REYNOLDS' COUSIN SERIOUSLY WOUNDED IN HOME

Relative of Libby Holman's Late Husband Is Shot Through Head While in Bathroom.

By the Associated Press.

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Nov. 26.—For the second time within six months a relative of the late R. J. Reynolds was shot last night and mystery cloaks both shootings. Reynolds built a fortune in tobacco.

Robert C. Critz, 35-year-old aviation enthusiast, whose mother was a sister of R. J. Reynolds, is in a hospital here today, dangerously wounded with a bullet near his brain.

Critz was shot while in the bathroom of his home last night.

The fatal shooting of his first cousin, young Smith Reynolds, last July 6, led to the indictment for murder of Smith's bride, Libby Holman Reynolds, and his close friend, Albert Walker. The charges were dropped recently because of lack of evidence. Critz was a witness at the inquest into his cousin's death.

Relatives of Critz said they were unable to say whether the shooting was "accidental or intentional." A pistol owned by Critz's father inflicted the wound, they say.

Critz had been at home with his wife and one child, relatives said. Shortly after he went to the bathroom, servants heard a shot and found him wounded.

Physicians planned to operate today to remove the bullet if his condition permitted.

Critz had been ill recently, his family said. He is a buyer for the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. Owning a plane, he is a licensed pilot, and has flown to nearly every section of the country.

INVOLUNTARY BANKRUPTCY SUIT AGAINST ST. LOUIS CAN CO.

Chase National, New York, With $79,000 Claim, Attacks Payments Firm's President, C. F. Blanke.

Claiming $79,000 for a loan made in 1927, the Chase National Bank of New York filed an involuntary bankruptcy suit against the St. Louis Can Co., 904 South Fourteenth street, in Federal Court yesterday. The bank alleges the loan is past due and that the can company is insolvent.

It declares an act of bankruptcy was committed by the payment by the company to its president, C. F. Blanke, of "large sums" for rental of its premises, owned by Blanke. There are fewer than 12 creditors, the suit says.

The can company, incorporated for $300,000 in 1906, is affiliated with the C. F. Blanke Tea and Coffee Co. at the same address. Both concerns were placed in receivership in Circuit Court last July. Thomas F. Courtney, vice-president and one of the receivers of St. Louis Can, declare that both companies are solvent, and have no corporate relationship. He said that the necessity of extending credit to customers had tied up the can company's funds.

$153,742 IN CONTRACTS LEFT FOR NEW GRADE SCHOOL

University City Board of Education Plans to Have Building Finished by Aug. 1.

Contracts aggregating $153,742 have been awarded by the University City Board of Education for the erection of a new grade school, adjoining the high school, at Jackson avenue and Balson boulevard. The general contract, on a basic bid of $114,830, was given the Woermann Construction Co. Other contracts are: Heating and ventilating, Eichler Heating Co., $20,937; plumbing, Gloeckner-Melville Co., $11,180; electrical work, H. Vierheller Co., $6795.

The contracts call for the completion of the building by next Aug. 1, Supt. Charles Banks announced. University City voters approved a $225,000 school bond issues for this building and other purposes Oct. 7. The five-acre site is owned by the board. The school will be two stories high, with 12 classrooms and an auditorium-gymnasium. The balance of the bond fund will be used for equipment, for building an auditorium-gymnasium for the Hawthorne School, Hanley boulevard and Carleton avenue, and for purchase of one or more additional school sites in the western part of the city.

HARRY GEEN with his wife, CESSIE, after he had waived extradition charge of embezzlement and had been turned over to British detectives. It was by trailing his wife that Geen was apprehended. He and his wife were living in a fine suite of rooms at a Philadelphia hotel. The British authorities say he was associated with "Jake the Barber" of Chicago.

PEORIA HEALTH DIRECTOR DIED OF NATURAL CAUSES

Inquest Verdict in Case of Dr. A. C. Crooks Who Collapsed on Street Here.

The body of Dr. Amos A. Crooks, health director in Peoria (Ill.) public schools, who died suddenly yesterday when walking in the 800 block of Locust street, will be taken to Peoria today by his widow.

Mrs. Crooks testified at an inquest this morning that her husband, who was 53 years old, had been under treatment for heart disease for two years. A verdict of death from natural causes was returned.

Dr. Crooks came to St. Louis Wednesday with his wife to visit friends. Yesterday morning he called on Dr. Max Starkloff, Health Commissioner, a friend, and was on his way to luncheon when stricken.

WOMAN ARRESTED IN DAGGER HOLDUP FREED BY POLICE

No Evidence Connecting Her With Alleged Robbery Attempt, Prosecutor Says.

Miss Beatrice Burke, 26 years old, 702 Chouteau avenue, was released by police yesterday after the Circuit Attorney's office refused to issue a warrant charging her with attempted robbery of Joseph Sondag, druggist of 1201 South Broadway, Thursday afternoon.

The young woman and Jonathan Richards, 23 years old, were turned over to police by the druggist, who said he had captured them after the man attempted to hold him up with a dagger. A warrant charging Richards with attempted robbery under the Henry law was issued. The Circuit Attorney's office ruled, however, that there was no evidence to show Miss Burke had aided in or consented to any holdup attempt.

MYRT ROLLINS NOT TO BE SCHOOL BOARD CANDIDATE

President Announces He Will Not Run Again Next Spring.

Myrt A. Rollins, president of the Board of Education since last month and a member of the board for seven and one-half years, announced he would not seek re-election to the board, at a luncheon of the Federation of Improvement Associations at the Mark Twain Hotel yesterday. His term as a member expires next April but his term as president would run until next October if he remained on the board.

Rollins, who previously was vice-president for two years, said he had devoted enough time to the schools and wished to have more time for his law practice. Discussing the school system, he advocated retention of the present method of nonpartisan nomination of board members by petition.

He suggested that the board might have to abandon its policy of erecting new schools with funds from current revenue and substitute bond issues. It has no surplus for construction now, and additional high school facilities are needed.

Woman Struck By Auto.

Mrs. Louise Rodenberg, 50 years old, 4570 Wichita avenue, suffered concussion of the brain, a fractured thigh and internal injuries yesterday afternoon when struck by an automobile driven by Arthur Toon, 4239 Shenandoah avenue, at Kingshighway and Page boulevard. Witnesses said she was crossing Kingshighway against the traffic signal.

'JAKE THE BARBER'S' ALLEGED PARTNER RETURNED TO ENGLAND

Harry Geen Sails in De Luxe Suite After Losing Extradition Fight.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Harry Geen, 33-year-old Englishman, sailed today in a de luxe suite for England, where he will face charges of being a ringleader in a $7,000,000 stock swindling scheme.

Geen, arrested in Philadelphia last year after a world-wide search by Scotland Yard, was closely guarded in his parlor, bedroom and bath suite aboard the liner Berengaria, by two English detectives.

"I am innocent and I hope to prove it," declared Geen, who lost a long fight against extradition. He said he did not know John (Jake the Barber) Factor and Arthur J. Klein, his alleged fellow conspirators in the scheme.

Geen's wife was with him, and they had a large quantity of luggage.

STILL FOR RECLAIMING DENATURED ALCOHOL FOUND

Labels Also Seized in House Where Explosion Caused Fire.

A still for reclaiming denatured alcohol of the grade sold by filling stations as an anti-freeze, and a quantity of labels purporting to be from Canada, were seized by police Thursday morning in a house at 1402 Monroe street.

Police were called to the address by firemen who found the still while extinguishing a blaze that followed an explosion.

The labels were for "Old Judge Straight Bourbon, 100 proof U. S. Standard." Prohibition agents said the liquor apparently was intended for the St. Louis holiday trade. Police questioned the owner of the building, who said he rented it several months ago to a man whose name he gave to the officers. The tenant is being sought.

TO CONFER ON UNEMPLOYMENT

Prof. Dewey to Preside at Session In Washington, Dec. 2-3.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—The Joint Committee on Unemployment announced today that a national conference on "Congress and Unemployment" would be held in Washington Dec. 2 and 3.

Prof. John Dewey, chairman of the committee, is scheduled to preside and among the speakers listed are Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, and Dr. John A. Ryan, director of the National Catholic Welfare Council. The joint committee is a private organization of diversified membership formed to aid in combating unemployment.

Sues to Divorce Army Officer.

By the Associated Press.

RENO, Nev., Nov. 26. — Mrs. Adrianne H. Devereaux, daughter of Edward Hungerford, New York Central Railroad vice-president, filed suit here yesterday for a divorce from Lieut. Alfred B. Devereaux, U. S. A. She charged cruelty. They were married in Baltimore in 1927.

WIDOW OF GLEASON DENIES ARSON CHARGE

Gives Her Version of Incidents That Led to Indictment After Fire.

Mrs. Naomi Rogers Gleason, 5190 Raymond avenue, who was indicted Wednesday on a charge of arson growing out of two fires in a house owned by her sister at 3654 Delmar boulevard, today said the accusations against her are false and that she will have no trouble disproving them.

Mrs. Gleason, widow of Fire Captain William Gleason, baseball celebrity of 50 years ago, is accused by Mrs. May Franklin Gleason, daughter-in-law of Gleason, with having paid her $500 to set one of the fires.

"I was the wife of Dewitt N. Rogers, railroad express messenger," Mrs. Naomi Gleason said to a Post-Dispatch reporter. "We were married in February, 1906, and purchased a home at 3936 Delmar, where we lived until his death, in 1923. Mr. Rogers and I met Capt. Gleason 25 years ago and were friends during all that time.

"In February, 1931, I met Capt. Gleason by chance at a bus terminal in Chicago and we rode back to St. Louis together. He told me he had been lonely since his wife died and would like to take a room at 5190 Raymond avenue, where I was keeping roomers.

"In April Capt. Gleason introduced his daughter-in-law, Mrs. May Franklin Gleason, to me and induced me to lease her a house at 3654 Delmar, owned by my sister. A few days later Capt. Gleason purchased that house, giving shares of stock as first payment.

"Capt. Gleason's son compelled me to take back the house, stating his father was not able to carry it. Although the house had been damaged by fire while Capt. Gleason owned it, I returned his stock and spent $1500 repairing the damage and $4000 furnishing it for rooming house purposes. Capt. Gleason at first planned to set his daughter-in-law up in the house and gave her $550 to furnish it. That money was not given her by me to burn the house, as she charges, and she did not use it for the purposes intended by Capt. Gleason.

"Mr. and Mrs. William Vrande then rented the house. A year later the Vrandes moved out. I secured another tenant last July, after Capt. Gleason's death, but two days before they moved in there was another fire.

"I am accused of arson because of the two fires, the origin of which is a mystery to me. I was in Kansas City with friends at the time of the first fire and can prove it by several reputable witnesses. I did not know of the fire until my return to St. Louis several days later. At the time of the second fire I was at my home, 5190 Raymond avenue, suffering from the shock of Capt. Gleason's death. Capt. Gleason and I were married June 27, 1931, and reports that we lived at the Delmar house are erroneous."

GRAIN ELEVATOR WORKER SMOTHERED IN MILLET

Loses Life Trying to Clear Clogged Chute at Duncan Avenue Warehouse.

Richard Bolden, 19-year-old Negro, 3960 Duncan avenue, was suffocated yesterday afternoon when he either fell or stepped into an elevator filled with millet seed at the Arnold A. Thurman Feed and Grain Co., warehouse, 4004 Duncan avenue, and was covered by the grain.

Bolden and other employes were emptying the millet down a chute from the elevator. The chute became clogged and Bolden went into the elevator to find the cause of the stoppage. When he did not return after 20 minutes another employe reached up the chute and laid hold of Bolden's foot. Firemen spent 45 minutes pulling Bolden's body out of the chute with a rope.

Child Dies From Burns.

Florence Harris, 5 years old, a Negro, died at City Hospital No. 2 yesterday of burns suffered Thursday afternoon at her home, 1739A Division street. Her father, Homer Harris, reported that the child's dress caught fire from flaming broom straw, which she ignited in a stove.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong; whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

Would Return German Colonies.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE Allies claim that they are giving up war reparations. A nice bedtime story for young nations. France ought not pay, England ought not pay, Italy ought not pay the war debts because, so they say, they have agreed to waive reparations. Why are we not acquainted with the facts as to what the Allies got out of the war?

The Allies have already received and are keeping enormous values in reparations far beyond the amounts paid on debts. They have and are keeping billions of dollars' worth of German colonies. Those colonies are probably worth more than the total war debt to America. The profit and revenues derived from those colonies, under normal conditions, are worth many millions yearly.

Europe now hints that it may be willing to reduce armaments in exchange for new debt reductions. An empty bargain. After we agree to take less in future payments, what and who is to prevent Europe from again increasing her armaments? Europe expects America honorably to live up to all promises. But if Europe finds it "necessary" to arm heavily, will she meekly admit a breach of her promise and thereupon resume paying the original and larger sum?

America should refuse to enter negotiations for debt reduction now because: (1) we are broke; (2) the Allies have not given up their war prizes; (3) the reciprocal concessions proposed are only pretended concessions on Europe's part.

The Allies should return the former German colonies to Germany as German mandates. Germany should recognize the new continental boundaries. Germany should withdraw all complaints regarding new boundaries. The Allies and Germany should agree among themselves to an actual reduction of armaments.

The press of America has a wonderful opportunity to render a great and patriotic service to the people by quickly publishing the facts as to those mandates and their effect upon the plight of Europe, so that our Congressmen may be backed up by a well-advised public opinion. EPHRIM CAPLAN.

Mr. Teagle's Plan.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I SHOULD like to ask what essential difference there is between Mr. Teagle's share-the-work plan and Communistic Socialism, so far as principles are concerned? If sharing the work by those who have a job and barely an existence is just and equitable, why not a plan of share the wealth by those who have abundance far in excess of all human needs? Morally, confiscation of jobs is no different than confiscation of wealth.

I am neither a Communist nor a "Red," but, as I see it, Mr. Teagle and his enthusiastic supporters are unwittingly placing an instrument in the hands of the thinking masses which may ultimately be used to their own disadvantage. At best, it is a poor excuse to palliate present conditions, as it tends constantly to lower mass consumption.

It is further evidence of "adult infantilism" which seems to be the greatest affliction of our nation. Mr. Teagle's plan may qualify as "pink pills" for pale dividends, but only for a short while.

Favors L. C. Dyer for Mayor.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I SUGGEST the defeated Congressman, L. C. Dyer, for Mayor. Mr. Dyer knows our city and its needs. He has done many things for our citizens, particularly the working class. He has backbone and his record shows that he is wet to the skin and has always put up a hard fight for repeal.

If he is drafted or persuaded to run, I think he will make one of the most active, reliable and popular Mayors St. Louis has had in years. So let's get Dyer to help us out of the mire.

A Speech for De Valera.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

FIERY De Valera should have made his speech before the League of Nations more fiery. One more day in seclusion might have brought more fire to his pen. His speech should have read as follows:

"The world demands action, not idle threats. Japan needs a spanking, not a scolding. This is a war council, not a debating society. We have sat idly by and scowled long enough! Any unspanked child sneers at the upraised hand. Force there must be and each nation must assist. Enforcement by the League must come first, then if needs be, disarmament, for economy's sake.

"We need the armed forces of the world. Let all nations arm! The League can control them. All nations are anxious to deal with Japan. Let the League call on its members for 10 per cent of their armed forces. Notify Japan that she has but 30 days to get out of Manchuria. If she again refuses, tell her that 10 per cent of the world's armed forces will surround her shores. With the powers on the move, Japan must pay. Her penalty will be disarmament or annihilation."

ENDING GOVERNMENT BY COMMISSION.

In his statement on the war debt problem, arising from his conference with Mr. Hoover, Gov. Roosevelt took the interesting position that negotiations with our debtors can be made through the existing agencies and constituted channels of diplomatic intercourse.

In other words, Gov. Roosevelt is opposed to Mr. Hoover's suggestion that the United States Debt Funding Commission be revived to deal with the new debt crisis.

During the campaign, Gov. Roosevelt severely criticised "government by commission," to which Mr. Hoover has repeatedly resorted, and he has seized the very first opportunity to give his criticism practical effect. We believe his position highly significant. It has been one of the standing jests of the Hoover era that the President is too prone to shift to commissions the task of thinking out his problems for him.

Senator Borah, more than a year ago, made a scathing attack on this policy. He referred to Mr. Hoover's commissions as irresponsible bodies, neither elected by nor representative of the people, but charged with the solution of important governmental problems upon which only Congress and the President can legitimately act.

Some 26 commissions have been appointed by Mr. Hoover, composed of 285 "best minds," with thousands of employes whose pay has aggregated $3,000,000 a year, to deal with a wide variety of subjects, including farm relief, prohibition and law enforcement, child health, unemployment, the tariff, power development, illiteracy, home ownership and so on.

For the most part, the findings of such commissions are published in heavy tomes, filed away and forgotten, representing a waste of time and taxpayers' money. When the subjects studied demand immediate attention, the work of commissions is often either scrapped or duplicated by congressional investigations.

Perhaps the most flagrant example, costing the taxpayers the sum of $500,000, was the President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Observance, popularly known as the Wickersham Commission. The principal duty of this body was to submit to Mr. Hoover a report on the workings of prohibition. When it was appointed, prohibition had been in effect nearly a decade and, so obvious was prohibition's failure, it had become a byword in the streets. Yet Mr. Hoover thought it necessary to assemble a group of distinguished men and women, with a large and expensive staff of "experts," to tell him what everyone already knew.

As was to be expected, the facts found by the Wickersham Commission's investigation confirmed every indictment that had ever been made of prohibition. Likewise, in their individual reports, the commissioners were almost unanimously for a change and two were for outright repeal. But this time, instead of a commission making up Mr. Hoover's mind for him, he apparently made up its mind for it, for its general report was for a continuation of the noble experiment. The inside story of what happened to the Wickersham report has never yet been told, but it created a profound contempt for "government by commission" and two years after it was issued, the country, by a landslide vote, repudiated it.

Gov. Roosevelt's opposition to this device is a sign that he expects to make his own decisions and that, when facts are to be found, the regularly constituted governmental agencies, wherever possible, will find them. That is in accord with the theory and spirit of our Government.

TURNING THE TABLES.

Virtually complete figures on the 1932 popular vote for President disclose an interesting coincidence when compared with the 1928 totals. This lies in how near duplication are the total votes of winner and loser, respectively, in the two elections. The victors' votes were: Hoover, 21,392,190; Roosevelt, 21,357,067. The losers stood: Smith, 15,016,443; Hoover, 15,091,259. The differences in the comparative figures are less than ½ of 1 per cent in each case.

The exhibit is more than merely a mathematical curiosity. It is tabular evidence of how swiftly the people move to action when a party loses their confidence. As a result, Hoover's landslide majority of 1928 was converted into a sweep of almost equal size for his opponent this year. Democratic exultation should be tempered by realization of these facts. The Republicans now are crushed, disorganized, virtually leaderless—a condition similar to that of the Democrats just four years ago. But Democratic aggressiveness and blunders by their opponents restored the party to public favor and turned the tables this year. The people remain watchful. If their hopes are not realized, 1936 will bring another reverse.

THE HOME BREW TAX FIASCO.

Virtually all the new special taxes, passed by Congress last spring in a vain attempt to balance the budget, are falling below expectations. Worst failure of all is the levy on the ingredients of home brew and home-made wine. Taxes on wort, 15 cents a gallon; on malt syrup, 3 cents a gallon, and on grape concentrate, 20 cents a gallon, originally were estimated to yield $82,000,000 a year. After its first enthusiasm subsided, the Treasury Department reduced this figure to $40,000,000 a year, or $3,333,333 a month. What have collections actually totaled? For August, they were $356,000; for September, $815,243; for October, $660,931. The total is $1,832,164, a mere shadow of the quarter-year estimate, $10,000,000.

These collections show too great a discrepancy for the Treasury to accept it as merely the result of bad guessing, so collectors of internal revenue have been ordered to make a nation-wide inquiry to find out the reason. Since it was stated at the tax-bill hearings that 100,000,000 gallons of wort were sold in this country last year, the tax for the first quarter on this item alone should have been $3,750,000, if consumption maintained its pace. Evidently there is an imposing bootleg traffic, not only in heimgemacht, but also in its constituents. One theory has it that the tax has caused illicit wort manufactories to spring up, as profitable subsidiaries of the sub rosa beer industry.

The whole thing was ridiculous, of course, from the very start. There was the contradiction involved in levying taxes on the ingredients of a product legally taboo. Then there was the assumption that, despite the failure of enforcement authorities to control the underground traffic in millions of gallons, the revenue agencies could collect taxes upon the same traffic. Failure of the tax serves to emphasize what a vast source of revenue is passed by in the failure to legalize all liquor, and tax it. Were this great industry brought into the open, the incentive to evade taxation would be largely removed, to the great benefit of the Treasury and of the taxpayer.

NO CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL THIS YEAR.

It was with regret and reluctance that the Post-Dispatch and the Post-Dispatch Festival Committee decided to abandon the entire program of the Christmas Festival this year, but the reasons were compelling.

The principal reason was the necessity of relieving the widespread destitution among the unemployed and the invalid this winter. On this account, the Citizens' Relief Committee decided to concentrate all drives for relief funds into one drive in which all relief organizations joined. It was decided that all funds should be used for direct relief of the thousands of destitute, to prevent suffering and death from starvation and cold.

The concentrated drive begins Dec. 4, the time when funds would be donated for the Christmas Festival, and the Post-Dispatch and the committee did not think it right, in the emergency of the winter season, to divert attention and contributions from the big emergency drive, the success of which is imperative, for a special act of hospitality on Christmas day. We thought that no obstacle should be put in the way of the one emergency drive. The benefits of the festival baskets and Coliseum entertainments with gifts for children are limited to about 6000 families and 10,000 children, while thousands more this winter need the actual necessaries of life to keep them from starving and freezing. We thought it better that all the destitute have something than that a comparative few enjoy special provision of Christmas good cheer, no matter how desirable that is.

For 32 years the Post-Dispatch Christmas Festival has supplied thousands of destitute families and invalids with a bountiful Christmas dinner and thousands of children with a delightful Christmas entertainment and gifts. It was a pleasure to all who served in providing this Christmas act of hospitality and good will from those who have to those who have not. Its abandonment this year will be a deep disappointment to the workers who were volunteers, many of whom worked for years, to the thousands of voluntary contributors and to the recipients. It was a sorrowful duty that necessity forced. We can only ask that those who so generously maintained the Post-Dispatch Christmas Festival will do all in their power to assure the success of the emergency relief drive—to save all the destitute from hunger and cold.

That Harvard football team seems to be the G. O. P. of the gridiron.

THE RETURN OF MARIO BUDA.

News from Naples that Mario Buda has been released from an Italian penal colony and that he plans to come to the United States will revive the hope held by many persons throughout the world that the names of Sacco and Vanzetti will finally be cleared. Buda will be remembered as the missing witness who, counsel defending Sacco and Vanzetti said, would be able to reveal the Braintree crime as the deed of a certain gang, thus exonerating the accused men. Going to Italy in 1920, Buda was arrested for anti-Fascist activities in 1927, two days before Sacco and Vanzetti were executed, and was sentenced to serve five years at the Ponza Island penal colony.

Last spring, and again more recently, Edward H. James of Concord, Mass., a nephew of William James, the distinguished psychologist, with Premier Mussolini's permission, visited Buda at the penal colony to make arrangements for the latter's return to the United States. What will come of Buda's return to Massachusetts, no one knows. It may be for him to add a footnote to the tragic story of the shoemaker and the fish peddler, and then again, he may open up a new and important chapter. It is a development that will be watched with interest around the globe.

Italy will pay her debt instalment on the date due. Bravo, Benito!

WE DEFEND THE DICTIONARY.

Distressing news from Memphis. The National Council of Teachers of English, meeting there, has debated the case of The People vs. The Dictionary. Which is to rule the realm of speech? Popular usage or the rules distilled from the honorable presses of experience and sanctioned by the laws of grammar?

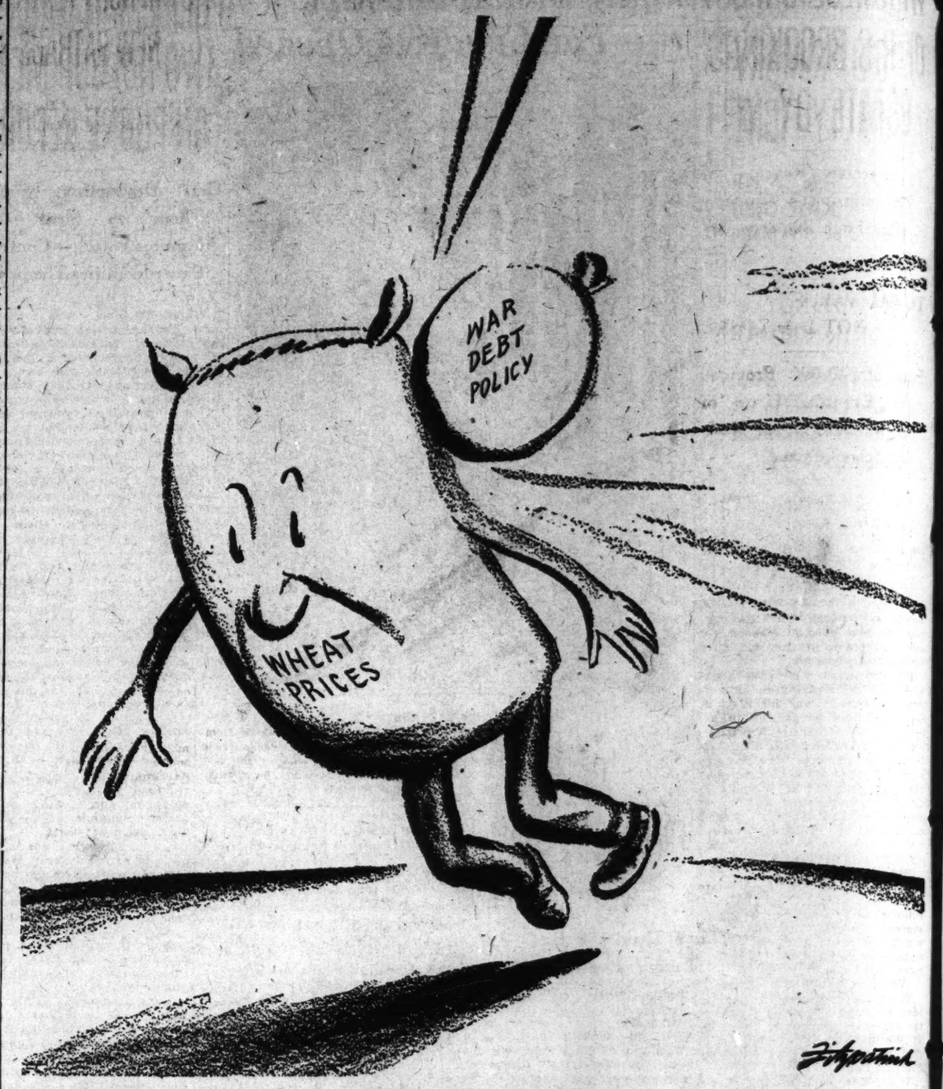

The expression, "It is me," for example. No more heinous felony can be found in the whole vast range of chattering criminology, yet a survey conducted by authors, editors, teachers and, presumably, Hollywood savants, approves the atrocity, a verdict in which the council inclines to concur. In the memorable ultimatum of that Pike County ballad, we shall fight that decision "till the last galoot's ashore."

No strutting authority can persuade or compel us to accept the falsification that an intransitive verb like "to be"—a congenitally intransitive, if the whole truth must be revealed—may be promoted to the higher circle by any custom of illiteracy. Oh, yes; we are aware that Havelock Ellis has blessed that very atrocity and has ridiculed the elegant and stately "It is I" as stilted pedantry. A personage in letters Mr. Ellis doubtlessly is, but, even so, we shall in this instance, as Dr. Wodehouse would say, "give him the bird."

Passing from grammatical villainies to the question of whether slang shall be permitted to crash the dictionary, the council seems to be in a quandary. May we quickly and forever resolve this confusion? "Slang is the language of misery." So said Victor Hugo in his long pursuit of the fortunes of Jean Valjean. As a philological verity, the statement may be impeached. But it surely contains the deathless glow of philosophy. An inviting path down which to ramble. But we resist the temptation and, instead, shall summon as our witness personal experience.

How many bits of slang have we all seen come and conquer and, presently, disappear in "the penumbra of innocuous desuetude"? How swiftly we ride them to the fall! But yesterday "the peach" was the summa cum laude of every wagging tongue, but it is heard no more, or rarely, in that implication, and erudition's most elaborately scrolled certificate cannot revive it. By way of antitheals, we have "the raxberry," a gratifying term of reproach, with something of a wholesome savor, but already its bouquet is fading. So it goes.

Where is the "wow" of yesternight?
Seek it in parlor, mart or shop.
Vain search. The good old seer was right:
Yesterday's "wow" is today a "flop."

THE FIRST VICTIM.

A Plan for Railroads and Trucks

Railroads desire for trucks only regulation equivalent to that borne by themselves, executive says; advantages of competitors include free rights-of-way, lighter taxes, lack of rate and route supervision, etc.; suggests system of paying for highway use, limiting size of trucks, curbing trailers and changing reciprocity agreements.

From an Address by Elisha Lee, Vice-President of the Pennsylvania Railroad, Before the American Society of Civil Engineers.

THE railroads are sometimes accused of trying to kill highway transportation with restrictive and destructive legislation. Nothing could be farther from the truth. In fact, some states have adopted legislation which we consider too drastic. What we are hoping and expecting to effect will be a reasonable and proper code of legislation for state and Federal enactment. We seek only equal terms and conditions of regulation as between trucks and railroads, and want this to be accomplished by legislation so eminently just and in the public interest, and in the interest of the legitimate trucking industry itself, that no valid objection can be raised to it.

It may be helpful if I attempt to summarize the great difference between the privileges enjoyed by and the restrictions and duties placed upon trucks and railroads in this country:

Railroads must build and maintain their own rights-of-way. Truck operators are permitted the use of rights-of-way which are publicly owned and have been built for public use and not for private gain.

The railroads contribute hundreds of millions of dollars in taxes toward general governmental expenses. Motor vehicle operators feel they have done their share when they pay part of the cost of building and maintaining the highways without making any contribution at all toward general governmental expenses.

Railroads pay taxes in every state through which they operate, as well as to the Federal Government, and in many cases to counties and municipalities. Truckers frequently operate through a number of states on one license plate, and, by carrying specially constructed gas tanks, buy their gasoline where taxes are lowest and avoid payment of gasoline taxes elsewhere.

The railroads spend many millions of dollars annually in eliminating highway crossings and in protecting others. Trucks, though they are among the chief beneficiaries of such improvements, contribute little or nothing to these costs.

Railroads are prohibited by law from building a single additional mile of track without securing governmental authority. Truck operators, on the other hand, with few exceptions, are at liberty to start or extend operations when and where they please, so long as they secure a registration plate for each truck in one state.

Railroads are not permitted to discontinue the operation of unprofitable lines without governmental permission. They must usually submit to long and expensive hearings. Generally speaking, truck operators may discontinue or suspend service overnight and without any obligation to give notice.

Railroad operations are surrounded with every safeguard for public and employe welfare, and railroad employes are selected and trained under rigid rules. Those in train and engine service are given frequent and thorough physical examinations. Their hours of service are regulated in the interest of safety. None of these practices is in effect with respect to trucks.

Railroads must publish and adhere to their rates, which must be fair, and cannot be changed without due notice. Railroads cannot bargain for business. They must accept all traffic offered, and to all destinations, at published tariff rates. For the most part, motor trucks are not bound by any of these restrictions, which are clearly for the public welfare. The consequence is that they take the cream and leave the less desirable to the railroads.

The remedy for the existing situation is to establish in every state regulations adequate to accomplish four general main purposes:

1. The establishment of a system of payment for highway use, producing adequate charges, which shall be apportioned in accordance with the actual use of the highways made by vehicles of varying sizes, weights and kinds. This will probably involve recognition of both weight and mileage. In addition to paying adequately for highway use, they should contribute, in taxes, to the general expense of government as the railroads are required to do.

2. The placing of reasonable limits on the width, height, length and weight of trucks. This is necessary in the interest of safety and to check the destruction of highways and bridges, and reduce the cost of building new ones.

3. The barring of freight "trains" from our highways, including the excessive use of unwieldy trailers.

4. Limitation of the reciprocity now allowed to trucks in many states. Reciprocity in the case of pleasure automobiles is a proper provision for public welfare and convenience, and conforms to the purpose for which the highways were built. Trucks operated for profit should pay every state in which they run for the privilege of using its highways to carry on private business.

While this program is one of state control, it should be supplemented by Federal regulation of interstate trucking. Congress has ample power for this purpose under the commerce clause of the Constitution.

It is of interest to note that the substantial trucking interests, generally speaking, are not in opposition to legislation of the character outlined, and many of them are actively working for sound regulation. In hearings before the Interstate Commerce Commission in its investigation of this subject, and again in hearings on three trucking bills which were before the Pennsylvania State Legislature, some of the most determined arguments in favor of regulation came from the heads of large trucking companies. Obstructionists, in most cases, are the irresponsible elements in the industry—the wild-cat trucker, the tramp trucker, the truck peddler, etc.

VOLSTEAD PRISONERS APPEAL.

From the Baltimore Evening Sun.

SOME 4000 prisoners of the Federal Government are organizing to ask pardons of the President as soon as Volsteadism is definitely ditched. As it costs the Federal Government about $350 a year to maintain a Federal prisoner, this would mean a saving to the taxpayers of $1,000,000 a year in maintenance alone, not to mention the expense of building new jails to hold the overflow—jails which would not be needed if 4000 prohibition prisoners were released and no more sent to take their places.

Then and Now

Ruth Finney in the Pittsburgh Press.

IF the Democratic landslide had taken place in the kind of United States for which the Constitution was written, the Senate's new Democratic majority from the Far West, not yet aware of its political importance, would be making plans to start East across the plains some time in April. It would not occur to these new Senators-elect or to anyone else that they ought to take over the reins of government at once because it would seem to them an impossibility.

William Gibbs McAdoo would be bargaining for sacks of provisions and preparing to join a covered wagon outfit for the perilous journey across mountains and deserts. When he learned of Patrick McCarran's success in the Nevada elections, he would doubtless plan to pick him up a month or so after the start.

Some time about the fourth of July, the two arriving in Utah, would be joined by Elbert D. Thomas, also Washington-bound, and if word had been received from the elections in the Northwest, the three would probably go on to a fort somewhere in Colorado and await the arrival of Homer Bone and James P. Pope along the Oregon Trail.

Picking up Alva B. Adams of Colorado, the new Senators would reach St. Joseph, Mo., some time in the early fall, and from there the fast transportation offered by the stagecoach and river steamer would put them to Washington in easy time for the December session of the new Congress.

The lame duck Congress would have met meanwhile, and their defeated colleagues either would have started East for it long before elections or else would have stayed away entirely.

Thus, for many years, it did not occur to the people to try to make their Federal Government more quickly responsive to public sentiment.

Nov. 9 the telegraph wires spread election news to every corner of the United States as fast as votes could be counted. By fast train and airplane, every new member of Congress could have been assembled at Washington in the course of two days.

Instead, they will not take office until March 4, and only a special session will put them to work in advance of December, 1933. And that is why 17 states have already ratified the lame duck amendment, beginning new presidential and congressional terms in January instead of March, and it is why at least 19 more states will ratify within the next few months.

As a matter of fact, the March 4 inauguration came to be through a strange hodgepodge of circumstances rather than through solemn deliberation on the part of the Constitution-makers.

When it became clear that the Constitution was to be ratified by sufficient states the First Congress passed an act directing that it should become effective on the first Wednesday of the March following. The first Wednesday happened to be March 4. And then, because the Constitution provided that every elected official should have either a two-year, four-year or six-year term of office, all held office thereafter from one March 4 to the next.

The lame duck session would have been abolished long ago if a constitutional amendment had not been required to legalize the necessary shortening of certain terms of office.

The election made more obvious than ever the silliness of repudiating a government and then letting it spend public money and transact public business four months longer while new officials, with new orders from the voters, cool their heels.

WIDOW GETS MOST OF R. S. BROOKINGS' ESTATE BY WILL

To Receive Residue of Philanthropist's Property After Four Bequests Are Paid.

TOTAL VALUE NOT DISCLOSED

Fund of $40,000 Provided for Eventual Use of Washington U. for Medical School Prizes.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-205 Kellogg Bldg.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Mrs. Isabelle Valle January Brookings, widow of Robert S. Brookings, economist and philanthropist, is bequeathed the residue of Mr. Brookings' estate, after the payment of four specific legacies for other purposes, in the will filed for probate yesterday.

Mr. Brookings, who gave about $5,000,000 to Washington University, St. Louis, during his lifetime, set up a fund of $40,000 in his will for the eventual use of the university for medical school prizes. He died at his home here Nov. 15, aged 82. For 33 years he had been president of the Washington University Corporation and in recent years had devoted himself particularly to Brookings Institution, Washington, a school of government and economics.

Had Mr. Brookings survived his wife, the residue of the estate would have gone to Brookings Institution as an endowment for its support. Several previous wills, which had made different provisions, were revoked by this instrument, dated last May 14.

Value of Estate Not Given.

The value of the estate has not been disclosed. The will, naming the American Security & Trust Co. of Washington as executor, was filed in the District of Columbia Supreme Court.

Two funds, each of 200 shares of 7 per cent first preferred stock of the Cuppies Co., St. Louis manufacturers and jobbers, are established by the will. The stock, which is not listed and is closely held, has a par value of $100 a share and officers of the company have said the last sale was at about par. Thus each fund is worth about $20,000 and each has an annual income of $1400.

Mr. Brookings' business career was spent with the Cuppies Co., starting in association with Samuel Cuppies. It is understood that he held little, if any, more stock in the company at the time of his death than is placed in the funds. The company's capitalization is about $2,250,000.

Washington University will hold these funds and will consolidate them after the death of two persons who are to receive annuities for them. The income is to provide an endowment for awards to medical students of the university, after the death of the annuitants. These will be known as the Dr. Richard Brookings Medical School Prizes, in memory of Mr. Brookings' father.

Other Beneficiaries.

Florence May Montgomery, daughter of a half-sister of Mr. Brookings, Mrs. Robert A. Montgomery of Hollywood, Cal., is the beneficiary of one fund. Miss Etta M. Cayse, housekeeper for Mr. and Mrs. Brookings for years, is beneficiary of the other. Miss Cayse is to receive not more than $900 a year of the net income of the one fund, in monthly or quarterly payments, and the excess income shall be added to her principal account. Miss Montgomery will receive the entire net income of the other fund. The endowments are made perpetual, but the university has the right of sale and reinvestment.

A bequest of $2000 a year for the remainder of a four-year term in Harvard University is made to Robert S. Brookings II, a third cousin of Mr. Brookings, residing near Alexandria, Va. Young Brookings, the son of Walter Du Bois Brookings, is a sophomore in Harvard. The will explains that Mr. Brookings had promised to pay for the full four years' education.

The will provides $20,000 for care of Mr. Brookings' lot in Bellefontaine Cemetery, St. Louis. His ashes are at the cemetery, where a mausoleum will be built to receive them.

Jewelry and other personal property were bequeathed specifically to Mrs. Brookings.

CONDOLENCES FOR MRS. OLDS

PARIS, Nov. 26.—Mrs. Robert E. Olds, widow of the former Under-Secretary of State under Frank B. Kellogg, today received a message of condolence from the United States State Department conveying the sympathy of the entire staff. The message was signed for Secretary Henry L. Stimson, by William R. Castle, Assistant Secretary, and was received just before private funeral services for Mrs. Olds, who died of apoplexy on Thursday.

Cablegrams were received also from Kellogg and other well-known persons. Norman Davis, United States disarmament representative at Geneva, and the entire Embassy staff here attended the funeral services.

WIDOW GETS MOST OF R. S. BROOKINGS' ESTATE BY WILL

To Receive Residue of Philanthropist's Property After Four Bequests Are Paid.

TOTAL VALUE NOT DISCLOSED

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 201-205 Kellogg Bldg.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Mrs. Isabelle Valle January Brookings, widow of Robert S. Brookings, economist and philanthropist, is bequeathed the residue of Mr. Brookings' estate, after the payment of four specific legacies for other purposes, in the will filed for probate yesterday.

Mr. Brookings, who gave about $5,000,000 to Washington University, St. Louis, during his lifetime, set up a fund of $40,000 in his will for the eventual use of the university for medical school prizes. He died at his home here Nov. 15, aged 82. For 33 years he had been president of the Washington University Corporation and in recent years had devoted himself particularly to Brookings Institution, Washington, a school of government and economics.

Had Mr. Brookings survived his wife, the residue of the estate would have gone to Brookings Institution as an endowment for its support. Several previous wills, which had made different provisions, were revoked by this instrument, dated last May 14.

Value of Estate Not Given.

The value of the estate has not been disclosed. The will, naming the American Security & Trust Co. of Washington as executor, was filed in the District of Columbia Supreme Court.

Two funds, each of 200 shares of 7 per cent first preferred stock of the Cupples Co., St. Louis manufacturers and jobbers, are established by the will. The stock, which is not listed and is closely held, has a par value of $100 a share and officers of the company have said the last sale was at about par. Thus each fund is worth about $20,000 and each has an annual income of $1400.

Mr. Brookings' business career was spent with the Cupples Co., starting in association with Samuel Cupples. It is understood that he held little, if any, more stock in the company at the time of his death than is placed in the funds. The company's capitalization is about $2,250,000.

Washington University will hold these funds and will consolidate them after the death of two persons who are to receive annuities for them. The income is to provide an endowment for awards to medical students of the university, after the death of the annuitants. These will be known as the Dr. Richard Brookings Medical School Prizes, in memory of Mr. Brookings' father.

Other Beneficiaries.

Florence May Montgomery, daughter of a half-sister of Mr. Brookings, Mrs. Robert A. Montgomery of Hollywood, Cal., is the beneficiary of one fund. Miss Etta M. Cayse, housekeeper for Mr. and Mrs. Brookings for years, is beneficiary of the other. Miss Cayse is to receive not more than $900 a year of the net income of the one fund, in monthly or quarterly payments, and the excess income shall be added to her principal account. Miss Montgomery will receive the entire net income of the other fund. The endowments are made perpetual, but the university has the right of sale and reinvestment.

A bequest of $2000 a year for the remainder of a four-year term in Harvard University is made to Robert S. Brookings II, a third cousin of Mr. Brookings, residing near Alexandria, Va. Young Brookings, the son of Walter Du Bois Brookings, is a sophomore in Harvard. The will explains that Mr. Brookings had promised to pay for the full four years' education.

The will provides $20,000 for care of Mr. Brookings' lot in Bellefontaine Cemetery, St. Louis. His ashes are at the cemetery, where a mausleum will be built to receive them.

Jewelry and other personal property were bequeathed specifically to Mrs. Brookings.

FREED OF MISLEADING ADVERTISING CHARGE

Two Officers of Lincoln Home Furnishers Released; Judge Comments on Case.

H. S. Goldberg, president, and W. A. Leopold, advertising manager, of the Lincoln Home Furnishers, 1105-09 Olive street, were freed of charges of publication of misleading advertising yesterday, after Judge Butler in the Court of Criminal Correction had heard the evidence against them.

At the conclusion of testimony by witnesses for the Better Business Bureau, including its merchandising manager, George S. Langland, Judge Butler told Langland he thought the Better Business Bureau was "going a little too far" in bringing the charges. Neither Goldberg nor Leopold was called to the stand.

The charges were based on newspaper advertisements in which the company stated, "Our entire stock of newest 1932 quality furniture, radios, stoves, rugs, lamps, electric refrigerators, etc., will be sold. We must vacate by midnight, Sept. 30." The Court struck out a charge based on the "1932 quality furniture" on the ground that the advertisement did not say the entire stock of the store was 1932 furniture and did not limit the sale to that class alone.

When Langland and other witnesses admitted the company had actually gone out of business Oct. 11, Judge Butler said, "I think these charges are an outrage. These people may not have been able to get out by Sept. 30. If that is the kind of thing the Better Business Bureau is doing, it doesn't look good to me."

After Leopold and Goldberg were discharged, the State nolle-prossed similar charges against A. H. Fihn, Arthur Fihn and Emanuel Fihn, also members of the firm. The defendants were represented by Max Sigoloff, attorney.

DR. FRANK J. V. KREBS HEADS ST. LOUIS MEDICAL SOCIETY

Dr. Frank J. V. Krebs of 7015 Maryland drive, University City, was elected president of the St. Louis Medical Society yesterday to succeed Dr. Francis Reder.

Dr. Krebs, who has offices at 3500 North Grand boulevard, has practiced internal medicine here for 35 years. He is a graduate of Marion Sims Medical College, now part of St. Louis University. He returned recently from his third hunting trip in Alaska, where he has brought down moose, caribou, bear and white mountain sheep. He hunts regularly at the Marshland game preserve on the Missouri River in St. Charles County.

Rowing Club Banquet.

The St. Louis Rowing Club will hold its fifty-sixth annual banquet tonight at its quarters, 2621 South Wharf street. Frank K. Harris, vice-president of the Lafayette-South Side Bank & Trust Co., and president of the Business Men's Association of South St. Louis, will preside. Walter J. G. Neun, president of the Board of Aldermen, will speak. Three members who have rounded out 25 years in the club will be guests of honor. They are August Vogel, William Mauchenheimer and Albert Handle. The St. Louis Rowing Club was organized in 1876. William Bentlage is president of the club.

PENALTIES FOR REDS REDUCED ON APPEAL

Eleven cases involving Communist gatherings, including the City Hall riot July 11, were acted on by Judge Weinbrenner in the Court of Criminal Correction yesterday on appeal from Police Court. All defendants were charged with general peace disturbance.

Orville A. Smith, 827 High street, who had been fined $50, the maximum, by Police Judge Blaine, was tried by a jury, and his fine reduced to $25. Police testified Smith, a speaker at the City Hall disturbance, asked the crowd assembled at the City Hall if they were "going to let a lot of grafting politicians and pot-bellied police keep you out?"

Jesse Woods, Nick Rubich, Frank LoIacono and Sonia Mason pleaded guilty and were fined $5 each, the fines being stayed on their promise of good behavior. The case against John St. Clair, a Negro, was dismissed.

Five other cases, in which $50 fines had been assessed and which Assistant City Counselor Waugh dismissed, were against Monroe Jones, Negro; John H. Bolen, Joseph L. Stone, John McGrath and Joseph Zadow.

The case against George Betz, one of the leaders of the City Hall disturbance, was continued until next Friday.

"Of Making Many Books"

JOHN G. NEIHARDT

This weekly literary feature will appear regularly on the editorial page of the

SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH

Mr. Neihardt has established a national reputation as poet, critic and lecturer. A native of Illinois, he was early attracted to the traditions of the plains country, and has written extensively, in poetry and prose, of its aboriginal inhabitants and of the white pioneers. Having lived for long periods among Indians, he became unusually well qualified to perpetuate their native lore. His latest book, "Black Elk Speaks" (1932), is an important contribution in this field.

In addition to producing more than a score of books, Mr. Neihardt has lectured extensively, and has conducted literary columns in several Mid-western newspapers. From 1926 to 1931 he was literary editor of the Post-Dispatch. A discriminating and able critic, with a wide background of literature and contemporary affairs, his writings will be a valued feature of the Post-Dispatch.

SYMPHONY FEATURES NEW RATHAUS SUITE

Best Music on Program With Exception of Bach Trumpet Piece.

By THOMAS B. SHERMAN.

THE Suite for Full Orchestra by Karol Rathaus was the important news at yesterday afternoon's concert given by the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, and with the exception of the Bach "Trumpet Suite" in D Major, was by far the best music on the program.

Dr. Rathaus is an Austrian now living in Berlin and has just begun to make himself heard as a contemporary compocer with something to say which may conceivably be of universal significance. The composition played yesterday is Opus 29 in a list of works written in all forms. Its St. Louis performance was the first in America.

Though the music is articulated in what may be roughly called a "modern idiom," the composer seems to have taken it for granted that such things as linear counterpoint with its incidental yield of dissonance, irregular rhythmic patterns and vagueness of tonality are now recognized parts of the musical speech and that one can use them without self-consciousness. Certainly this music has nothing of that aggressive air which seemed to surround so many post-war compositions. Its boldness and confidence are apparently a part of the composer's belief in the importance of his material.

The suite is divided in four parts, the second and third of which merge into one another. The first section makes its effect through its energetic, strongly accented rhythms, worked out in a spirited polyphony and building up into impressive dynamic masses. The middle movement starts in a frankly lyrical vein and continues this melodic expressiveness even when the harmonies become more than a little acidulous, and the last section is broad and powerful with regular rhythmic pulsations.

All in all, it is a strong work, but strong without being stubborn or without disdaining an appeal to the emotions. The composer has announced neither his intentions nor his philosophy, but his music seems to be part of that tendency toward a new expression in terms of generally accepted human feelings—toward the firm re-establishment of music as a communication rather than a detached and brilliant kind of exhibitionism.

The orchestra, under Conductor Golschmann, played the suite with a stimulating verve and precision and made an obvious impression on certain parts of the audience. The orchestra was also in good form in the Bach Suite, Borodin's "Steppes of Central Asia" and Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Scheherazade." The exaggerated way in which Mr. Golschmann would occasionally call attention to some of the melodies in the last number was hardly necessary, but in no way detracted from the sumptuous treatment accorded the whole work. For one who was not especially interested in the content of the music, an excellent opportunity for observing the relative virtuosity of the different first desk players was afforded. The soloists, in fact, had a field day, and all of them, starting with Concertmaster Guidi, must have gone home well satisfied with the way they acquitted themselves.

MRS. CALLES' DEATH MOURNED BY MEXICO

President and Cabinet Form Honor Guard at Bier of Ex-President's Wife.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 26.—Government offices were closed in mourning today as a mark of respect to Senora Leonora Llorente de Calles, who died yesterday after a long illness caused by brain tumor. She was the wife of former President Plutarco Elias Calles.

More than 1000 floral pieces and many telegrams arrived at the Calles home during the night. The burial was in Dolores Cemetery today.

President Abelardo Rodriguez, Gen. Manuel Perez Trevino, president of the National Revolutionary party, and members of the Cabinet made an honor guard around the bier for an hour last night.

Ambassador Clark of the United States, as dean of the Diplomatic Corps, called to pay his personal condolences.

Senora Calles was the General's second wife, having married him in 1930, three years after his first wife died. She was 30 years old and the mother of two of the General's 11 children.

Gen. Calles has received messages from the Presidents of the United States, Spain, Germany, France, Chile, Guatemala and many other prominent persons.

Senora Calles, a beauty contest winner before her marriage, was taken to Boston some time ago for an operation which failed to relieve her.

DR. F. L. PATTON, 90, FORMER PRINCETON PRESIDENT, DIES

Succeeded Dr. James McCosh in 1888; Under Him College Developed Into University.

By the Associated Press.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Nov. 26.—Dr. Francis L. Patton, former president of Princeton University, died last night at King Edward VII Hospital after a short illness. He would have been 90 years old in January.

Twelfth in the line of presidents of Princeton, Dr. Patton was noted chiefly for development of the institution into a university. He had served seven years as a member of the faculty when, in 1888, he was elected president in succession to Dr. James McCosh. During the four years he was at the head, the student body increased from 400 to nearly 800.

In 1902 Dr. Patton retired to become president of Princeton Theological Seminary. He served in that capacity until 1913. He was succeeded as president of the university by Woodrow Wilson.

At the conclusion of his active life Dr. Patton returned to Bermuda, where he was born at Warwick, Jan. 22, 1843, and had since made his home at Hamilton.

Dr. Patton was educated at Warwick Academy, Knox College and the University of Toronto, and was graduated from Princeton Theological Seminary in 1865. In the same year he was ordained a Presbyterian minister and for six years filled pastorates at New York, Nyack and Brooklyn. In 1871 he became professor of theology in the Presbyterian Theological Seminary at Chicago, now McCormick Seminary, filling the chair for 10 years, during which he also served as pastor of the Jefferson Park Presbyterian Church.

LABOR TURNS TO OTHER PLANS FOR 6-HOUR-DAY

Rejects Proposal to Shorten Work-Week Through Constitutional Amendment.

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 26.—One plan rejected, the American Federation of Labor turned today to other proposals for shortening the work-week.

A resolution that the Federation agitate for a Federal constitutional amendment requiring a six-hour day and five-day week was voted down almost unanimously yesterday.

"We're for the shorter work-week," President William Green said, "but a constitutional amendment isn't the proper means."

How the desired abbreviation is to be sought, he said, will "not be determined until the proper time—when other committees, also considering the question in different lights, make their reports."

On recommendation of the Federation's Executive Council, the convention also voted its opposition to a Federal sales tax. The council reported it "regards this form of taxation as a movement to 'soak the poor'" and proposed continued opposition to any efforts to pass such tax legislation.

The Federation declared in favor of organizing chain store employes and voted to sponsor further mobilization of laundry workers under the union banner.

Asserting that the depression "is due in part to creation of some mammoth organizations of chain store companies," and adding that "the laboring classes" derive "no benefit from some mammoth combinations," the first resolution urged that the Federation "interest itself with a view to improving the future of the employes of these organizations."

Joe Robinson Quits Law Firm.

By the Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 26.—United States Senator Joe T. Robinson announced his retirement yesterday from the law firm he has headed for 12 years, to devote "my entire time to public duties." Robinson was the senior member of the firm of Robinson, House & Moses, but for several years has represented only those clients "who came to me and whose employment I accepted."

BOY, 17, WILL PLEAD GUILTY OF KILLING STEP-GRANDMOTHER

Whether Charge Will Be Murder or Manslaughter Has Not Been Decided.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—An agreement for Bert Arnold, 17-year-old killer of his step-grandmother, to plead guilty was reached today between prosecution and defense attorneys. State's Attorney Harry S. Ditchbourne said it had not been determined, however, whether the youth would plead guilty of murder or manslaughter.

A plea of guilty of murder carries a minimum sentence of 14 years in prison. The sentence for manslaughter would be from one to 14 years in the reformatory.

Young Arnold confessed he killed Mrs. Ellen Saxe, 60, with a hammer because she refused him permission to drive her automobile to a church dance.

Within an hour after he was indicted, young Arnold held a tearful private reunion with his stepmother, the woman whose mother he killed, and sobbed out his story of the crime.

JAPAN TO REJECT ANY ARBITRATION OVER MANCHUKUO

Instructs Delegates to Attend League Session But to Oppose Application of Article 15.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Nov. 26.—The Government instructed its Geneva delegates today to participate in the League of Nations assembly if the Manchurian issue were transferred there, but to oppose the application of Article 15 of the League Covenant to the case.

(Article 15 provides for reference of a dispute to the Council of the League, and thence to the Assembly for possible application of the principles of arbitration laid down in articles 12 and 13.)

The delegates also were instructed to read into the record of Monday's council meeting a statement that it was Japan's conviction the council ought to complete disposition of the Lytton report. The statement was to continue that if the majority decided to transfer the dispute to the assembly, Japan declared her regret, considering this tantamount to the council's abandoning its fundamental duty as the League's central organ.

Japan's Explanation.

A foreign office spokesman said Japan would reject any proposal at Geneva to transfer the Manchurian question from the League of Nations to a conference of signatories of the nine-Power treaty of 1922, on the ground that the treaty no longer applies to Manchukuo.

"Our Geneva reports indicate that certain quarters are preparing to introduce such a proposal at the coming assembly of the League of Nations," the spokesman said. "We will reject it just as we will reject all attempts to find a formula to permit Powers other than Japan, China and Manchukuo to participate in negotiations concerning Manchukuo's status.

"The nine-Power treaty covers relations between the Powers and China. Manchuria by her own volition is no longer a part of China and therefore is outside the treaty's applicability."

Stands Pat on Manchukuo.

Commenting on dispatches from Geneva which attributed the nine-Power treaty proposal to quarters desirous of bringing the United States to the forefront in the Manchurian dispute, the spokesmen said he did not believe Washington would care to support another conference dealing with China.

He added that Japan was ready to participate in a conference or in less formal discussions of the nine-Power treaty signatories on the general condition of China, but emphatically denied the right of such a group to discuss Manchukuo whose independence Japan has recognized.

The Foreign Office stated today the Chinese story that Japanese troops had massacred several thousand Chinese in the neighborhood of Fushun was an "absolute fabrication." The Foreign Office said the Fushun neighborhood had been entirely quiet for several weeks and neither Japanese troops nor guerrillas had been operating there.

HOMES OF THREE MINERS AT DECATUR ARE BOMBED

Extensive Damage Done by Explosions But None Is Injured.

By the Associated Press.

DECATUR, Ill., Nov. 26.—The homes of three miners, members of the United Mine Workers of America, were bombed early today without injury to any of the occupants.

Extensive damage, however, was done to the houses. Windows were broken in buildings for several blocks.

By the Associated Press.

AUBURN, Ill., Nov. 26.—A crowd of striking coal miners, estimated by Deputy Sheriffs to number 1200, swarmed into this mining village today and prevented 15 diggers employed at the Cora mine at Andrew, north of Springfield, from going to work.

$10,000 TRUCK CARGO STOLEN

Driver Kidnaped But Later Is Released.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 26.—Police today were aiding in the search for a truck and its $10,000 cargo, stolen 10 miles north of Ottawa, Kan., last night by three men who kidnaped the driver, Victor C. Flood, 26 years old, of Kansas City.

Flood, later released, said the men told him there was "a big wreck down the road and a lot of people killed." Flood dismounted. The three men, armed with revolvers, bound his eyes with tape and his hands behind him.

Dinner for Judge Hartmann.

A banquet in honor of Circuit Judge Moses Hartmann, who is celebrating a birthday today, was given last night at the Melbourne Hotel by a group of Scottish Rite Masons with whom he has been associated. For about 10 years, until recently, Judge Hartmann was in charge of degree work for the first section of the thirty-first degree of the order. His colleagues presented him with a smoking jacket, a scroll bearing their signatures and, recognizing one of his hobbies, a roll of colored movie film, ready for use.

Text of United States Notes To Britain and France on Debts

No Facts Presented That Justify Asking Congress to Delay Payments—Cannot Disregard American Burden.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.

FOLLOWING are the texts of the war debt notes by the United States, which were handed to the British and French ambassadors respectively. A note also was handed to the Belgian ambassador which was almost identical in language with the note to France.

To Sir Donald Lindsay of Great Britain: Excellency:

I fully appreciate the importance of the proposal contained in your note of Nov. 10 and the seriousness of the situation upon which it is predicated. The mere fact that your Government suggests the necessity of a review of the intergovernmental financial obligations now existing between our two nations presents a circumstance which must be given most serious consideration. In a matter of such importance there must be allowed no opportunity for misunderstanding or failure to reach conclusions satisfactory to both Governments and peoples.

With this end in view, you will permit me to recall very briefly some of the essential conditions and limitations which would control on the part of this Government such a review and might affect its result. Not only is there reserved to the Congress of the United States the ultimate decision in respect to the funding, refunding or amendment of these intergovernmental obligations under consideration, but the Congress in the past has itself provided the machinery in the shape of the World War Foreign Debt Commission for the investigation of the facts and for making recommendations upon which such action might be taken. The executive might recommend, but the facts and evidence were submitted to and the decision made by the Congress, acting through this machinery.

Far Beyond Previous Proposals.

You will also appreciate that your present suggestion of a general review goes far beyond anything contemplated or proposed at any time in the past either by President Hoover or by this Government, and that even the suggestion quoted in your note was not adopted by the Congress of the United States.

In view of these facts, and in the light of the historic position of the United States that reparations are solely an European question in which the United States are not involved, I am sure that no inference can be intended that the settlement of German reparations at Lausanne was made in reliance upon any commitments given by this Government.

I appreciate the importance of the step mentioned in your note which has been taken by the Governments at Lausanne in respect to the reparations due them from Germany and the possible effect upon those creditor nations of the loss of that source of income. I am not oblivious to the fact that the world-wide depression and the concurrent fall of prices has increased the weight of debts in many parts of the world; nor to the fact that the decrease in international trade has increased the difficulties of obtaining foreign exchange. I also recognize the relation which these facts may bear to the process of recovery.

On the other hand, it must be remembered that these incidents of the depression have also fallen with great weight upon the American people, and the effects upon them directly as taxpayers or otherwise of any modification of an agreement with respect to debts due to this country cannot be disregarded. I assume that it was for the purpose of deliberately and carefully giving due weight to such conflicting elements in the world situation, differing as they would in various countries, that this Government adopted the system which I have described.

I confess that I cannot see any presentation in your note which would be likely to induce the Congress of the United States to act upon the question any differently now from the manner and the principles upon which it has acted in the past.

Favors Agency for Study.

The attitude of the President, therefore, is that for any suggested study of inter-governmental financial obligations as now existing, some such agency as I have referred to should be created to consider this question individually with each Government as heretofore. The President is prepared to recommend to Congress that it constitute an agency to examine the whole subject.

As to the suspension of the installment of the British debt due on Dec. 15, which is one of the objectives in your note, no authority lies within the executive to grant such an extension, and no facts have been placed in our possession which could be presented to the Congress for favorable consideration.

Such importance is attached by our Government and people to the maintenance of the original agreements in force by the payment on Dec. 15 as to far outweigh any reasons now apparent for its suspension, and by such payments the prospects of a satisfactory approach to the whole question, in my opinion, would be greatly increased.

"Accept, Excellency, the renewed assurances of my highest consideration.

HENRY L. STIMSON.

NOTE TO FRANCE.

To Ambassador Claudel of France:

Excellency: I fully appericate the importance of the situation presented by the request for an examination of the problem of the intergovernmental debts contained in the memorandum of the French Government dated Nov. 10, 1932. The fact that such a suggestion is made by your Government in itself makes this a matter meriting the most careful consideration. In a matter of such importance there must be allowed no opportunity for misunderstanding or failure to reach conclusions satisfactory to both Governments and peoples.

In this connection you will appreciate that your present suggestion goes far beyond anything contemplated or proposed at any time in the past either by President Hoover or by this Government. You will also permit me to recall very briefly some of the essential conditions and limitations which would control on the part of this Government any new study of the debt question and might affect its results.

Not only is there reserved to the Congress of the United States the ultimate decision in respect to the funding, refunding or amendment of these intergovernmental obligations under consideration, but from the beginning the Congress has itself provided in the past the machinery in the shape of the World War Foreign Debt Commission for the investigation of the facts and for making recommendations upon which such action might be taken. The executive might recommend, but the facts and evidence were submitted to and the decision made by the Congress, acting through this machinery.

Separate From Reparations.

Furthermore, from the time of their creation, under President Wilson, this Government has uniformly insisted that in its handling of these obligations running to itself, they must be treated as entirely separate from reparation claims arising out of the war. Its insistence upon this difference is quite natural in view of its refusal after the war to accept reparations for itself and also in view of the difference of its position as a creditor from that of all other nations.

Not only did this Government not receive any compensation in the form of a territory, economic privileges, or governmental indemnity at the close of the war, but from the fact that it owed no obligations of any kind to others, treatment of the debts and reparations as though they were connected could only operate to the disadvantage of the United States.

No concession made in respect to a payment owed to it could either in whole or in part be set off or balanced against claims owed by it to any of its creditors. On the contrary, every such concession would result in the inevitable transfer of a tax burden from the taxpayers of some other country to the taxpayers in our own without the possibility of any recoupment from others. The debts owed to the United States thus naturally fell into the category of ordinary debt obligations between individual nations and were treated as such. The American Congress has made, with each of its debtors, settlements which were intended to be and were deemed to be liberal and wholly within the capacity of the debtor to pay without jeopardizing its finances and currency or preventing it from maintaining and, if possible, improving the standard of living of its citizens.

Effect of Depresson.

I appreciate the importance of the step mentioned in your memorandum which has been taken by the governments at Lausanne in respect to the reparations due them from Germany and the possible effect upon those creditor nations of the loss of that source of income. I am not oblivious of the fact, moreover, that the world-wide depression and the concurrent fall of prices has increased the weight of debts in many parts of the world; nor to the fact that the decrease in international trade has increased the difficulties of obtaining foreign exchange. I also recognize the relation which these facts may bear to the process of recovery.

On the other hand, it must be remembered that these incidents of the depression have also fallen with great weight upon the American people and the effects upon them directly as taxpayers or otherwise of any modification of an agreement with respect to debts due to this country cannot be disregarded.

I assume that it was for the purpose of deliberately and carefully giving due weight to such conflicting elements in the world situation, differing as they would in various countries, that this Government adopted the system which I have described. I confess that I cannot see any controlling reasons which would be likely to induce the Congress of the United States to act upon the question any differently now from the manner and the principles upon which it has acted in the past. And I believe it would be inadvisable to attempt to enter into discussions on the subject except in that manner and under those principles.

The attitude of the President, therefore, is that for any suggested study of intergovernmental financial obligations as now existing, some such agency as I have referred to should be created to consider this question individually with each government as heretofore. As he has several times said publicly, he also believes that some basis might be found for bringing to the American people some adequate compensation in forms other than cash payment. The President is prepared to recommend to Congress that it constitute such an agency to examine the whole subject.

No Authority to Suspend.

As to the suspension of the installment of the French debt due on Dec. 15, which is requested in your memorandum, no authority lies in the executive to grant such an extension and no facts have been placed in our possession which could be presented to the Congress for favorable consideration under the principles to which I have referred. In the memorandum of the French Government reference is made to the action of the conference at Lausanne. It seems to me that the situation which confronted the conference at Lausanne in its consideration of the question of reparations by Germany was quite different from that presented here in that the conference had before it the report of the meeing of experts at Basle.

Such importance is attached by our Government and people to the maintenance of the original agreements in force by the payment on Dec. 15 as to far outweigh any reasons now apparent for its suspension, and by such payments the prospects of a satisfactory approach to the whole question, in my opinion, would be greatly increased.

Accept, Excellency, the renewed assurances of my highest consideration.

BREWERS DON'T AGREE ON ALCOHOLIC CONTENT

Busch Insists on 4 Pct. But Other Makers Say 2.75 Is Strong Enough.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—The Associated Producers of Cereal Beverages, representing more than 20 breweries now engaged in the production of near beer, took issue today with August Busch's statement that 2.75 beer would not be palatable.

William L. Goetz of St. Joseph, Mo., president of the association, declared that all its members favored 2.75 beer pending repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

"The brewers make this recommendation because the overwhelming weight of all testimony on the subject, as well as the experience of the country under pre-World War restrictions, demonstrated that 2.75 beer by weight is not intoxicating in fact," he declared.

A. W. CUTTEN GETS PAROLE FOR MEN WHO ROBBED HOME

Says Two Who Took Part in $50,000 Raid Have Been Punished Enough.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—Arthur Cutten, grain operator, has brought about the parole of two of nine men who raided his home 10 years ago.

The two, Simon Rosenberg and Peter Cuda—the first imprisoned a year and a half ago and the other in 1928—were quietly released from the State penitentiary at Cutten's behest. The grain man explained:

"I wrote to the authorities some time ago, suggesting that the two had been punished enough. Rosenberg has a wife and child. I do not want them to suffer and I am convinced that he will go straight. He is not a hardened criminal. Cuda, I understand, is to be deported."

Nine robbers raided Cutten's Downers Grove home in March, 1922, and escaped with $50,000 loot after locking the family in a wine cellar. Cutten immediately threw his wealth into the search for the gang and one by one its members were seized throughout the country. All were convicted, Rosenberg the last. One was paroled previously and the others are still in prison.

ROOSEVELT BEGINS CONFERENCES ON FARM RELIEF PLAN

Arranges to Receive National Grange Group and House Committee at His Warm Springs Home.

By the Associated Press.

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 26.—President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt turned his attention today to farm problems and arranged to interrupt his vacation for conferences with a committee from the National Grange and a group of members of the House Agriculture Committee.

At the head of the group of farm leaders, comprising the Executive Committee of the National Grange, was Fred J. Freestone, master of the New York State National Grange, and an old friend of Gov. Roosevelt.

National Grange Plan.

This group carried the plan of the National Grange for the rehabilitation of agriculture. Roosevelt had not been informed in advance of what the delegation planned to propose. In his speech at Topeka during the campaign he suggested that the leaders of the farm organizations get together and agree on a plan for aiding the farmers.

Some of the advisers of the Governor at that time considered that the plan he outlined came nearest to a description of the domestic allotment plan under which the farmers would be guaranteed the cost of production for all grain that was allocated to meet domestic requirements.

Shortly after the visit of the Grange committee Gov. Roosevelt will receive the members of the House Agriculture Committee. With them he will discuss the plan by which the Democratic party hopes to bring the farmer out of difficulties. He has not disclosed the details of this plan.

Scene of Conferences.

The groups will see Gov. Roosevelt in a little white house that has changed considerably since his election to the presidency. It sits just below the brow of a hill on a slope overlooking the wooded foothills of Central Georgia.

At the entrance to the grounds a lookout booth has been set up for secret service men at which they stop and question all persons seeking admittance.

Beyond this, passing along a little roadway through the oaks and pines, the visitor comes to a four-columned white cottage set just below a two-car garage.

Inside, the delegations will meet the President-elect in a long living room with a stone fireplace, flanked by built-in bookcases. Over the mantel stands a model of a there-masted schooner. Along the walls are displayed pictures of ships. Even the clock over the mantlepiece takes a nauaical air; around its face stand out the hand-grips of a ship's wheel.

Below, at a plain oak desk, a cigarette holder clasped between his teeth, smoke curling upward, sits Gov. Roosevelt.

CUSTOMS OFFICIALS PUNISHED

Russians Violated Immunity of Ambassador's Personal Luggage.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Nov. 26.—Six customs officials have been arrested, jailed for short terms, or dismissed for violating the immunity of the personal luggage of the Turkish Ambassador to Moscow, Huseyin Ragip. The incident was thought to have occurred recently when the Ambassador returned to Russia after a trip to Turkey.

The announcement said the customs officials had retained the Ambassador's baggage at Odessa and later inspected it at Moscow. The director of the Odessa customs, and three subordinates, were arrested and jailed for short terms and expelled from service. Two officials of the Moscow customs office were discharged.

WOMAN ATTACKED IN HAWAII

In Grave Condition After Being Assaulted and Beaten.

HONOLULU, T. H., Nov. 26.—Criminally attacked and beaten, Theresa Mendonca, 24-year-old Portuguese woman, was in a grave condition here today. The woman was on her way home early today when her assailant dragged her into the underbrush, two blocks from the business district of the city. Little hope was held for her recovery. Doctos said her skull had been fractured.

Police were holding Max Quintal, said to have figured in an attack case in San Francisco in 1926, in connection with the attack. He was found wearing blood-stained clothes near the scene of the crime, according to police. Quintal refused to talk.

SAYS CAPONE ISN'T FAVORED

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. — Two letters a week are all that "Scarface" Al Capone is permitted to write from Atlanta Penitentiary. A. H. McCormick of the Bureau of Prisons said today that, despite the large mail received by Capone, he had no special privileges.

"The bureau has found it easier and less expensive to take all mail under control, censor it and then pay postage for each of the two letters allowed prisoners than to permit freedom in writing with the consequent necessity of censorship," McCormick said.

Beyond this, passing along a little roadway through the oaks and pines, the visitor comes to a four-columned white cottage set just below a two-car garage.

Inside, the delegations will meet the President-elect in a long living room with a stone fireplace, flanked by built-in bookcases. Over the mantel stands a model of a there-masted schooner. Along the walls are displayed pictures of ships. Even the clock over the mantlepiece takes a nauaical air; around its face stand out the handgrips of a ship's wheel

Below, at a plain oak desk, a cigarette holder clasped between his teeth, smoke curling upward, sits Gov. Roosevelt.

CUSTOMS OFFICIALS PUNISHED

Russians Violated Immunity of Ambassador's Personal Luggage.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Nov. 26.—Six customs officials have been arrested, jailed for short terms, or dismissed for violating the immunity of the personal luggage of the Turkish Ambassador to Moscow, Huseyin Ragip. The incident was thought to have occurred recently when the Ambassador returned to Russia after a trip to Turkey.

The announcement said the customs officials had retained the Ambassador's baggage at Odessa and later inspected it at Moscow. The director of the Odessa customs, and three subordinates, were arrested and jailed for short terms and expelled from service. Two officials of the Moscow customs office were discharged.

WOMAN ATTACKED IN HAWAII

In Grave Condition After Being Assaulted and Beaten.

HONOLULU, T. H., Nov. 26.—Criminally attacked and beaten, Theresa Mendonca, 24-year-old Portuguese woman, was in a grave condition here today. The woman was on her way home early today when her assailant dragged her into the underbrush, two blocks from the business district of the city. Little hope was held for her recovery. Doctos said her skull had been fractured.

Police were ho lding Max Quintal, said to have figured in an attack case in San Francisco in 1928, in connection with the attack. He was found wearing blood-stained clothes near the scene of the crime, according to police. Quintal refused to talk.

SAYS CAPONE ISN'T FAVORED

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Two letters a week are all that "Scarface" Al Capone is permitted to write from Atlanta Penitentiary, A. H. McCormick of the Bureau of Prisons said today that, despite the large mail received by Capone, he had no special privileges.

"The bureau has found it easier and less expensive to take all mail under control, censor it and then pay postage for each of the two letters allowed prisoners than to permit freedom in writing with the consequent necessity of censorship," McCormick said.

HELLER'S TOUCHDOWN GIVES PANTHERS AN UNDEFEATED SEASON

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 26.—Pittsburgh closed its regular season without defeat this afternoon by downing Stanford, 7 to 0 in a close-sided battle before a crowd of 35,000.

Heller's touchdown in the first period after a 30-yard drive decided the intersectional struggle as Stanford launched but one real attack, a 55-yard march to the Panther 25-yard line in the final quarter.

Pittsburgh	7	0	0	0	7

FIRST PERIOD.

Gordon Campbell, Stanford quarterback, kicked over the Pitt goal to start the duel, and Bill Hogan, Pitt quarter, promptly met the issue with him in a kicking duel that drove Stanford back to its own 20-yard line, with scarcely half a dozen line bucks, for little or no gain, preceding the punts.

Campbell and Bill Sim, Cardinal left halfback, picked up eight yards in three plunges before Stan Anderson kicked to the Pitt 40.

Izzey Weinstock, Panther fullback, broke through guard for nine yards, but the Cardinal line broke up two plunges and drove Warren Heller back to his 43-yard line bothering a pass. Sim broke up Heller's second pass. Pitt was penalized five yards, and Sebastian replaced Matesic at right half.

Hogan kicked from his 30, 70 yards to inches from the Stanford goal, where the ball was downed by Ted Dailey, Pitt end.

Anderson kicked right back for Stanford and Sebastian, after making a fair catch on the Cardinal 30, broke through tackle for eight yards. Izzey Weinstock, burly Pitt fullback, raged through center for 4 to Stanford's 12-yard line and the Cardinals, desperate in the face of the Pitt attack, took time out.

Heller Scores on Plunge.

After being stopped in three dashes, Heller tossed a short pass to Ted Dailey for a first down on Stanford's three-yard line. Weinstock and Heller failed at tackle but on the third play Heller fought his way three yards through his right tackle and over the Cardinal goal for the first score. Weinstock place-kicked the point and Pitt led 7 to 0.

After an exchange of kicks, Hogan put the Cardinals in the hole again with another 60-yard boot over the goal.

Stanford, in two plunges, fought back to the 24-yard line as the first period ended with the invaders trailing 7 to 0.

SECOND PERIOD.

Pitt's forwards charged straight into the cardinal reverse and trick plays, stopping them dead and forcing Anderson to keep kicking. He got off one long punt that rolled outside on Pitt's 30-yard line. Sebastian fumbled a pass from center and was driven back to his 26 before he recovered.

Hogan got off his first bad punt there, the ball barely reaching his own 41. Cadell's first pass barely missed Sim's fingers as Stanford had its first real chance to attack. But Skladany, crack Pitt right end, tossed Cadell back to Pitt's 48-yard line for a loss and Anderson had to punt outside on Pitt's 15.

A five-yard penalty for delay, another for offside on Hogan's first kick, forced the Pitt quarterback to kick from behind his own goal and the ball rolled dead on his own 31.

Chuck Hartwig, Panther guard, broke through there to drop Cadell and recover the Stanford back's fumble on the Pitt 33. Heller raced around his right end to his own 45, Sebastian and Weinstock picked up five apiece, but Heller was thrown back on an end sweep to midfield. Hogan kicked outside on Stanford's 21-yard line.

Anderson picked up seven through center to his own 18, Stanford's first good gain, but he had to kick, and when Pitt could not halt after Sebastian's 19-yard run back to the Cardinal 41, Hogan kicked back to Stanford's 9-yard line. Anderson punted right back to his own 40, but before the Pitt attack could get under way the half ended with the Panthers leading 7 to 0.

THIRD PERIOD.

Three plunges picked up but five yards at the start of the fourth quarter and Hogan kicked over the Stanford goal from 35 yards away.

From a fake kick formation, Sim ran for Stanford's first down from his 20 to the 33. Cadell took a lateral to his 45 and Campbell dashed 30 to Pitt's 25 on the same formation in Stanford's first real scoring bid.

Sims lost 11, however, as Weinstock nailed him on an end run. A pass attempt cost Stanford six more and Anderson kicked short to Pitt's 25, ending the drive. After Heller ran 10 yards to Stanford's 35, Weinstock broke through center and was away to the Cardinal 10-yard line, but he was called back to his own 40 because his knee touched sod there.

After exchanging punts, Pitt started from its own 36, Heller making eight yards in two off-tackle slants. Sebastian ran an

Wray's Column

Success Out of Failure.

MISSOURI today can boast two coaches who recorded achievements almost worthy of All-America mention — Frank Carideo of Missouri and Jimmy Conzelman of Washington.

Both inherited teams that were complete failures, the year before; both had to completely alter the systems under which their squads had been brought up and to renovate the morale of dejected and discouraged crews.

Carideo had an even harder task than Conzelman; for, whereas Jimmy was able to take over his squad during long weeks of spring practice and lay the foundations of his system, Carideo had only six days of spring work with his men and had to do all his stuff during the current campaign, in the face of considerable hostile sentiment.

While neither coach produced a winning record, each achieved really noteworthy results, Conzelman put on the field Thanksgiving Day a group of players with a remarkable fighting spirit. His less experienced and physically inferior material showed a fighting quality and an alertness of play testifying to the magic Conzelman had worked. But for a fumble the score would have been 13 to 6, where last year St. Louis University galloped to victory over the same squad by a 34 to 0 score.

A Fine Finish.

CARIDEO'S comeback, however, is almost unbelievable. Crushed in the first three games by a total score of 117 points to 0, held to a 0-0 score by the weak Iowa State eleven, and finally trounced by Washington 14-7, the team has steadily improved. Instead of losing morale and going downhill, the players individually and as a team progressed to the point where in the seventh game on their schedule they surprised everyone by outplaying the strong Oklahoma eleven, winning 14-0. In subsequent games Missouri furnished powerful opposition to Kansas and, except in the final quarter when breaks went against them, held the Nebraska team (which tied Pitt) virtually even, outplaying the Cornhuskers in two periods.

Today the Missouri eleven is a formidable one and it very probably will enter the game with St. Louis University, Dec. 3 on even terms or perhaps favored to win. After the first three games of the season the Billikens would have been picked to win by 20 points.

Thus Carideo, despite a record of defeat, has built up success out of complete failure.

It's rarely that a coach can rescue a team from defeatism in

ENDURANCE HANDICAP WON BY PROJECTILE

By the Associated Press.

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 26.—Adolph Pons' Projectile captured the $7500 added Endurance Handicap for two-year-olds today, with the Brookmeade Stable's Ceasar's Ghost second and Catawba Farm's Mr. Khayyam third.

The distance was a mile and a sixteenth.

Projectile paid $9 to win and the time for the mile and one-sixteenth was 1:49 3-5. Eight horses ran.

Projectile was pushed back at the start, but closed in on the home stretch and finished strong, a length ahead of Caesar's Ghost, which in turn was half a length in front of Mr. Khayyam.

The winner brought his owner a purse of $8350.

An Adolph Pons juvenile, Swivel, was winner of the $40,000 Pimlico Futurity several weeks ago.

By the Associated Press.

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 26.—The crowd at Bowie track this afternoon got a shock in the opening contest, a six-furlong dash for maiden two-year-olds, when the Beaumont Stable's Fetch, which finished second, four lengths behind Chatterfol, paid $238.70 for $2 place and $54.80 to show. Fluffy Lee was third.

Chatterfol ran down Buzzin' Around before reaching the stretch and drew far clear as if outclassing his company. Fetch closed a lot of ground after being outrun early and took the place by a length.

Fetch would have paid $337.60 for $1 to win.

When Porter's Dream won the fourth, a good win price, $66.40 for $2, was posted. The place and show figures were $25.90 and $12.10.

Boston College And Holy Cross In Scoreless Tie

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 26.—Playing fast and rugged football, Boston College and Holy Cross battled to a scoreless tie this afternoon.

The Eagles rushed to the Purple two-yard mark in the first period, but four times were hurled back by the Crusaders. This was the only scoring threat of the game.

Long, high punts by Ambrose for Holy Cross, kicking in the face of a strong wind, featured the thirtieth annual Jesuit College gridiron classic, ringing the curtain down on the New England college football season.

HYPOSTYLE, OWNED BY AMERICAN WOMAN, WINS BIG RACE IN ENGLAND

MANCHESTER, England, Nov. 26.—Hypostyle, owned by the American, Mrs. Chester Beatty, won the November Handicap today.

Lord Derby's Guiscard was second and H. F. Clayton's Isthmus was third. Eighteen horses ran.

This is the last big race of the flat racing season.

Seven Western Stars Named On All-America Grid Team

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—The New York Sun names two players from Purdue and two from the Army on its All-America eleven, announced today.

Noting a surprising number of star backfield men in the South the Sun rates John Cain of Alabama as the best and also names Warren Heller of Pitt as "the most valuable player to his team."

UNITED STATES TENNIS PLAYERS LEAD IN MATCH

By the Associated Press.

BRISBANE, Australia, Nov. 26.—The touring United States tennis team continued its sweep against Australia today to win three singles matches and take a lead of six matches to none.

Ellsworth Vines Jr., playing his first singles game of the series, beat E. F. Moon, 6—3, 6—2, Wilmer Allison won from H. O. Hopman, 3—6, 6—1, 6—4 and John Van Ryn defeated Cliff Sproule 9—7, 4—6, 7—5.

Allison and Van Ryn and Hopman and Vivian McGrath were two sets all and 6—6 in games in the final set of the only doubles match of the day when play had to be abandoned. The Americans won the first two sets 6—3, 6—4 and then dropped the next two 3—6, 5—7.

TOMMY BRAMMEL TO RETURN TO KANSAS

Tommy Brammel, trainer for the Browns during the baseball season, has recovered his health, after being ill for several weeks, and will depart in a few days for Lawrence, Kan., to train the Kansas University basketball team. Tommy went to Lawrence after the baseball season closed, and was training the football squad when he developed a bad cold. He was forced to return to St. Louis and the cold developed into pneumonia.

SCHAEFER WINS FROM CUTLER IN 18.2 MATCH

NEW YORK, Nov. 26. — Young Jake Schaefer, Chicago, world's champion at 18.2 balkline billiards, defeated Albert G. Cutler, New York, in an exhibition match here last night. The champion won by a margin of 200-128 in nine innings with a high run of 72 against one of 77 for Cutler.

IRISH SCORE TWICE ON PASSES; THIRD MADE ON SOLDIERS' FUMBLE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Notre Dame pulled off one of the biggest football surprises of the season by putting Army to rout, 21 to 0, this afternoon before 80,000 spectators, the biggest crowd of the season.

The Ramblers, packing a terrific drive and baffling the Cadets with a brilliant aerial attack, scored once in the second period and twice in the third quarter.

Melinkovich, big fullback who had been ill with flue, and Devore, star end, tallied the first two touchdowns on passes. Harris, a guard, dropped on a fumble behind Army's goal line for the remaining score.

The big crowd, packing the Stadium to capacity for the first time this year, was alternately thrilled and stunned by the failure of the Cadets to justify the pre-game odds in third favor.

The Army's only two flashes of attack consisted of a 36-yard run in the first period by Pick Vidal and two successive completed passes for first downs in the last period. Neither time was Notre Dame threatened.

Led by the giant tackles, Krause and Kurth, the Notre Dame line ripped the Cadet forward wall to shreds. Capt. Milt Summerfelt alone stemmed the Rambler charges at any time but he was a lone figure in the rout.

Notre Dame had command all the way and narrowly missed scoring on at least three other occasions besides those they capitalized. Notre Dame rolled up 15 first downs to Army's 5.

It was West Point's first setback since losing early in the season to Pittsburgh.

FIRST PERIOD.

Notre Dame won the toss and chose to receive.

Armstrong's kick-off was taken by Sheeketski on the 10-yard line and returned to the 25. Lukas, on an end run, picked up six yards and Banas plunged off his left tackle for first down on Army's 36.

Sheeketski was dropped after gaining a yard as Evans broke through. Lukats dashed four yards inside his right tackle.

Banas bucked into a stone wall on the right side of Army's line, gaining a yard. Banas punted to Vidal, on Army's 10.

After one smack at the line, Fields punted to Murphy who received at midfield and ran out of bounds on Army's 44. Banas made five yards around Army's right end and Lukats on a cut-back just missed making first down on Army's 34½.

The Cadets took time out.

Banas made first down on Army's 33 on a straight buck, and then Lukats found a big hole in Army's left side and raced to the 24-yard mark. The whole Army line poled up the next play without gain. On fourth down with a half yard to go, Banas twisted through to another first down on Army's 17.

Lukats charged through for four yards but was smeared on a reverse after gaining a yard.

Army Takes Ball on Downs.

Another flanking movement of the Irish cost Notre Dame a yard. Fourth down, four to go on Army's 12, Murphy passed to Lukats but it was batted down by Fields and Army took the ball on downs.

Fields punted after one line play and the ball rolled dead on Notre Dame's 44 as the Cadets got out of a bad hole. Sheeketski was stopped for a yard but then gained four before Summerfelt dragged him down.

Notre Dame tried a long pass, but it was incomplete and Banas then punted out of bounds on Army's 25. On the first play Vidal brought the crowd to its feet with a spectacular dash around Notre Dame's left end to the Irish 40-yard line.

Three passes failed, costing Army

10 yards in penalties, and Fields punted to Notre Dame's 15.

Two bucks by Sheeketski and Lukats produced six yards but Banas took no chances and punted. Vidal made eight yards on the return to Army's 39 before he was brought down. Fields dashed into the Arms of Sheeketski, without gain and then tried to pass to Vidal that failed. Vidal, on a double reverse, was hauled down from behind without gaining on inch.

The period ended with Army holding the ball on its own 44, fourth down and 10 to go.

SECOND PERIOD.

Starting the second period Notre Dame made replacements, Koken, Brancheau, Jaskwhich and Melinkovich moving into the back field.

Fields punted out of bounds on Notre Dame's 20. Buckler went into the Army backfield. Koken was smeared for an eight-yard loss by Summerfelt. Brancheau gained barely a yard and Jaskwhich punted to Vidal, who made the mistake of running backward and was dropped by Joe Kurth on Army's 36.

Buckler failed to gain but Notre Dame was penalized 15 yards for piling on, giving Army first down on Notre Dame's 43.

Kurth stopped Vidal at the line after Buckler gained three yards. Buckler's pass was knocked down by Melinkovich and his punt bounced out of bounds on Notre Dame's 21.

Koken slipped through a hole inside trackle for seven yards and on a cutback, shook off a half dozen tacklers as he made first down on his 34. Melinkovich, carrying the ball for the first time and apparently in very good health, dove three yards off his left tackle.

Brancheau made it first down on the Rambler 47 and Koken picked up five more yards in two attempts.

Koken hurled a long pass to Kosky but it was incomplete and Notre Dame was penalized 15 yards for holding. Jaskwhich got off a fine punt to Vidal, who was run out of bounds on Army's 13.

Buckler's return punt was nearly blocked but soared out of bounds on Notre Dame's 49.

Melinkovich broke loose on a brilliant dash around end, sweeping 37 yards to Army's 24.

Melinkovich dashed inside tackle to Army's 16 and then went outside for no gain.

On a wide end run, Melinkovich fumbled as he was tackled and Fields recovered for Army on the

BEARS TO HAVE STRONG TEAM AND HARD SCHEDULE IN 1933

ONLY FOUR 1932 REGULARS LOST; FRESHMAN STARS WILL FILL GAPS

By James M. Gould.

As a usual thing, "pointing with pride" carries with it some "viewing alarm." They seem to be as close companions as "ham and eggs" or "black and white." But, in the case of Washington University football, this precedent is broken for followers of the Bears are pointing with considerable pride to the improved showing of the team in 1932 and are viewing 1933 prospects with considerable hope.

There can be no question in the minds of those who watched the Bears play this season that Jimmy Conzelman's first year as head coach has been an unqualified success. Of the eight regular games in 1932, four were won. Last year, of nine games, the Bears won only two and those from colleges in the minor football class. This year, the Bears, scoring 85 points against 98 for their opponents, scored in all but two games and averaged 10 points per game, being shut out in only two contests. In 1931, the Bears scored only 26 points as against 194 for the opposition and, scoreless in six games, counted only two points in their final seven games.

High points in this year's play were the victories over Missouri and Grinnell and the splendid showing against the Billikens in the Thanksgiving day game when they held St. Louis to a 19—6 score compared with the 34—0 drubbing they were forced to accept a year ago.

Only Four Regulars Lost.

The lack of alarm in the viewpoint for 1933 is easily explained. Of the 1932 hard-fighting squad, only four regulars are lost for 1933—Captain Harvey Mille, Ike Vandover, Lou Weingart and Max Tyrrell.

Again, "coming up" for the next years' eleven are a group of the finest and best coached freshmen ever assembled at Washington. There were those who claimed the 1932 freshmen could hold the varsity close but while this may have been an excusable exaggeration, it is certain that there is a wealth of great football material in this squad of youngsters which, if the boys can be kept scholastically "up to snauff," will be mighty helpful.

Coach Conzelman, it is believed, last year was signed to a one-year contract and the question of renewal naturally arises with the close of the schedule.

There is not the slightest indication that all groups which go to make up Washington football—faculty, alumni and undergrads—are anything but entirely satisfied with the season of 1932. And there is a general hope that the powers that be at the university will evidence their whole-hearted satisfaction with the early announcement that Jimmy Conzelman not only will continue as coach, but will be given a long-term contract to completely install his system and to reap the benefits of it for the game and for the school.

Washington has an impressive schedule lined up for 1933, with four games featured—those with Illinois, Chicago, Missouri and St. Louis. With Valley Conference title games against Drake and other teams rounding out the list, a real team will be needed to assure a good showing, with a real coach in charge.

Washington followers feel that the prospects for this real team are excellent and that the school has the real coach in the man who proved his ability in 1932—Jimmy Conzelman.

LEVINSKY ILL, WILL NOT BE ABLE TO BOX CARNERA NEXT WEEK

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—Primo Carnera was due in Chicago today to prepare for a bout with King Levinsky at the Chicago Stdaum Nov. 30, but the King languished in bed with an attack of influenza and there may be no fight.

Levinsky, ailing for several days, was told by his physicians last night that he could not fight Wednesday and Matchmaker Nate Lewis started negotiations to substitute Stanley Poreda, young Jersey City heavyweight, or Charley Retzlaff of Duluth, Minn. If neither can be obtained for the date, Lewis hoped to postpone the Carnera-Levinsky bout until Dec. 7.

PITTSBURGH DEFEATS STANFORD U., 7 TO 0

end to midfield and Weinstock broke through center for 10 to Stanford's 40 but he fumbled there and Campbell recovered for the Cardinals.

Campbell tried to pass and Hogan intercepted on Stanford's 46. Heller and Weinstock made a first down on Stanford's 29-yard line, butH eller's passes failed and Stanford took the ball on downs on the Cardinal 36.

Neither team could gain between kicks but Hogan but the Cardinals back to their 13-yard line with another 60-yard boot and Pitt got a fine break as Weinstock intercepted Substitute Allen's pass on Stanford's 23-yard line. But the game ended as Weinstock plunged to the Cardinal 17, giving Pitt the victory, 7 to 0.

Holders of World's Record Who Bowl Here Tonight

Notre Dame Scores 21 to 0 Victory Over Army Eleven

three-yard mark. From deep in the end zone, Fields punted out of bounds on Army's 36.

Koken made five yards in two tries and then first down on Army's 26. Evans was hurt on the play, but stayed in the game, although his time out cost the Army five yards.

Melinkovich hit center for two yards and Koken reached the 15-yard line for first down. Melinkovich plowed four yards and Brancheau whirled around his left end to Army's seven.

A power drive inside right tackle failed to produce first down, by a half yard, but Kosky took the ball on an end around play to Army's three-yard line for first down.

Koken was thrown for a yard loss by Lawlor and the whole Army line then smeared Melinkovich for another yard loss. The Irish fullback was stopped cold by Summerfelt on a sweep play.

Koken tried a pass on fourth down, Host making the catch on the five-yard line, but being dropped in his tracks, and it was Army's ball on the four-yard mark. Fields punted from the end zone to Jaskwhich, who was thrown on Army's 38 by Armstrong. Koken then hurled a long pass to Host, who made a brilliant catch as he slid out of bounds on Army's five-yard stripe.

Koken then ran wide and passed into the end zone to Melinkovich for a touchdown. Jackwhich placekicked the extra point, giving Notre Dame a 7-0 lead.

Two successive kick-offs by Jaskwhich sailed out of bounds and Army was given the ball on its own 40.

The period ended as Brown caught a pass, tossed by Fields, on Notre Dame's 40 on a rebound from the hands of Irish defense men.

THIRD PERIOD.

The Notre Dame starting backfield returned to the game. Armstrong kicked off for Army to Banas, who raced from his own three-yard line to the 26.

Lukats rushed three yards before Kilday stopped him. Banas shot into the clear but tripped on the 34. Sheeketski ripped through to first down on his 38.

Sheeketski, Banas and Lukats alternated in smashing through to Army's 43. Lukats made first down on the Army's 26 and the Cadets took time out to send in reinforcements.

Lukats made two yards, and Banas lost five, before Lukats passed to Banas, who was all alone as he grabbed the ball and ran to Army's 26, where measurement found the ball inches short of first down.

It was fourth down but Notre Dame was offside on a center buck and penalized five yards.

Banas then faded back and passed to the goal line, where Devore, substitute end, took the ball for Notre Dame's second touchdown, on a dazzling play.

Army's defense, expecting a punt, was caught flatfooted.

Murphy kicked the extra point and the score was 14 to 0.

Fields took Banas' kickoff and stumbled on his own 37 after breaking into the clear. He then picked up six yards in two smashes. A pass was incomplete and Fields punted to Banas, who was downed on the Rambler 29.

Missing a first down by inches after three tries, Banas punted out of bounds on Army's 28 and Notre Dame was penalized 15 yards for unnecessary roughness, when Kosky took a punch at an Army player.

Two plays left Army just where it started and Fields punted to Murphy, who was downed on Notre Dame's 32.

Lukats broke around his right end for nine yards before Kopcsak forced him out of bounds and Sheeketski made first down on the 43 by inches.

Army's defense stiffened and Banas was forced to punt, putting the ball out of bounds on Army's two-yard line.

Fields, back in the end zone, fumbled a low pass from center and in the scramble Harris, Notre Dame guard, fell on the ball for a touchdown.

Murphy's placement try for the extra point was good and the count was 21 to 0.

Banas kicked off for Notre Dame to Buckler, who was downed on Army's 20-yard line as the third period closed.

FOURTH PERIOD.

Soon after the fourth period opened, Koken intercepted Buckler's pass on Army's 32. Brancheau picked up two yards but Koken on a spinner lost his balance behind the line and lost six yards. On an attempted pass, Jaskwhich fumbled the ball and Winn, Army tackler, recovered on the Cadet 42.

Army couldn't gain and Buckler punted to Jaskwhich, who was downed on his 43 yard line.

Koken made three yards, but Jaskwhich was forced to punt to Army's 10-yard line.

Army passed on the first play and completed, Vidal to Lawlor, for first down on Army's 36-yard line. Buckler then heaved to Lawlor for another first down on the Cadet 37-yard line.

Buckler rammed the line for three yards but his diagonald pass was intercepted by Devore, who was tackled on Army's 40. Koken and Brancheau combined for first down on Army's 27.

The same pair reached Army's 18 in two more rushes and Kosky taking the ball on a double spinner, dashed to the Cadet 12-yard line for another first down.

Vidal was replaced by MacWilliam. Koken fumbled on the next play and Summerfelt recovered for Army on the 9-yard mark.

The Soldiers advanced seven yards in three plays but Johnson's fumble was recovered by Devore for Notre Dame on Army's 13.

Brancheau and Koken collected five yards and Kosky came around from end to lug the ball to Army's 5.

Again the Irish tried to pass for a touchdown, Koken to Jaskwhich, who was in the end zone. It looked like a score for a moment, but the pass was ruled incomplete, and Army put the ball in play from its own 20.

Koken intercepted Buckler's pass and ran 12 yards to Army's 28. Koken ripped off five yards.

After a short gain by Brancheau, Koken's pass was knocked down by Stancook.

Notre Dame then had a touchdown in its hands as Koken passed into the end zone, but Vairo, sub end, let the ball slip through his arms. The game ended as the pass was grounded.

Municipal Teams Play.

Two matches are scheduled to be played in the Municipal Soccer League when postponed contests are decided at Sherman Park, this afternoon. The Kelly Recreations play the Twenty-sixth Ward Democratic Club in the opener, while the Universals oppose the Christian Bros. Alumni in the second.

GRIFFITHS DUE TODAY FOR BOUT WITH SCHWAKE

Gerald Ambrose "Tuffy" Griffiths, Sioux City (Ia.) heavyweight, is scheduled to report here today in time to take a workout at the National Gymnasium. Griffiths, who has been training in a Chicago gymnasium, meets John Schwake, St. Louis County heavyweight mauler, in the feature of five bouts on Tuesday night's boxing card at the Coliseum.

Griffiths, whose bout with Schwake is one of the two 10-rounders, comes here with an impressive ring record. Tuffy, a combination of fighter and boxer, is one of the few fighters who accomplished the feat of stopping Tom Heeney, the "Hard Rock," who recently fought Schwake to a draw at the Coliseum. The heavyweight menace turned the trick in the ninth round after handing the New Zealander a severe lacing during the early sessions.

Among some of the other notable triumphs of the Iowa farmer boy's long career are numbered those over such leading punchers as Ernie Schaaf, King Levinsky, Con O'Kelly, Leo Lomski, Al Friedman, Paolino Uzcudun, Johnny Risko, George Nernon and Charley Belanger. He also has knocked out Jimmy Mahoney and Billy Freas, in one round each; and also flattened Emmett Rocco, George Cook, George Gemas, Sandy Seifert, Dr. Ludwig Hayman, Big Boy Peterson, Jack Stanley, Tony Maurello and Mike McTigue.

In the second 10-round battle, Allen Matthews, local Negro, takes on Sammy Slaughter, Terre Haute (Ind.) middleweight contender. Tippet yesterday received signed articles from Bud Taylor, Slaughter's manager.

10:30 o'clock—Green Rivers, Mineralites, Ida Hours, DeBarrys, Lorens, Baby Ruths, S. & L. Motors, all of Chicago; Wyandottes, Kansas City; Hotel Fere Marquette, Peoria; Rozzells, Peoria; Chesterfields, Wilnette, Gates, Kansas City.

Two Knockouts In Little Egypt Boxing Finals

Larry Fink, Dupo, Ill. heavyweight won the Little Egypt amateur championship, when he knocked out Lee Edminston of Belleville, in the first round of their final bout at the Moose Hall, Belleville, last night. George Woods, Belleville, stopped Jimmy Nelms, of Madison, in one round in the 147-pound final, to record the other knockout on the program.

Harold Tiedemann in the 175-pound class and Ed Zilaitis in the 135 gained titles when their opponents failed to put in an appearance.

The results:

Preliminary Bouts.

147-pound class—George Wood, Belleville, defeated Joseph Pattus, East St. Louis, two rounds, technical knockout; Jimmy Nelms, Madison, defeated John Whitaker, Belleville, three rounds, judges' decision.

Championship Bouts.

118-pound class—Joe Caminitti, Collinsville, defeated Kid Moline, Belleville, three rounds, judges' decision.

Officials—Red Taylor, referee; Henry Knoebel, Elmer McCarson and Elmer H. Baldus, judges.

Boys' Club Team Wins

The Boys' Club wrestling team defeated the North Side Y. M. C. A. mat squad by a score of 6 points to 0 at the Boys' Club gym. Nathan Sbatz, president of the Greater St. Louis Wrestling Association, officiated as referee.

WRAY'S COLUMN

the same season it starts downhill.

Epinard's Sixth Voyage.

EPINARD, famous French race horse and sire, is going home to France and it will be his sixth voyage across the Atlantic. Epinard, as champion of France, was brought to this country for a series of races in 1924, following which he was sent home to a French breeding farm, because of an injury to his hoof.

Two years later the stallion was leased to the late James Cox Brady and brought to this country. In 1928 he returned to France to his owner, Pierre Wertheimer, famous parfumeur, only to be shipped back here again two years afterwards to the farm of C. J. FitzGerald. Now he is to go back again to France.

Crossing the ocean is not a pleasant experience for a human, sometimes; and for a nervous race horse it frequently results in a violent shock to the racer's condition.

The racing public probably has forgotten the series of four races run by Epinard in his four-year-old prime. He was shipped to the United States at the request of August Belmont and given ample time for conditioning, in contrast to the case of Papyrus, the English Derby winner, which previously had been brought to the United States to race the mighty Zev for the international championship. Papyrus was rushed into the contest with hardly more than time to get rid of his sea sickness.

Epinard "the Second."

AFTER having experienced only one defeat in his career, Epinard—which is French for "spinach"—suffered three sound beatings by American horses at various distances, and finally broke down in an effort to win his fourth test.

On Sept. 27, 1924, Epinard got his first trial in this country. It was at six furlongs and the French horse was asked to beat a remarkable field consisting of Zev, Ladkin, Wise Counsellor, Snob II and others. Wise Counsellor won the race and Epinard was second.

The next trial was at one mile and this time about the same field competed. Ladkin won and again Epinard was second. Behind him were such famous horses as Admiral Cary Grayson's My Own, Harry Sinclair's Zev, and the great campaigner, Little Chief.

Their next race was run Oct. 11 at Latonia and perhaps the greatest mile and one-quarter race in the country's history was run. It was won by the great, but sour and sulky gelding Sarazen in the remarkable time of 2:00 4-5. And for the third time Epinard finished second after running a great race and leading to the wire a number of famous American horses.

Because of his three successive second place finished he came to be known as Epinard "the second."

End of the Trail.

"SPINACH" came to the end of his racing trail Oct. 15 at Laurel when he suffered a quartercrack in his fourth American effort, a race won by Wise Counselor.

Considering that he was just one horse pitted against the pick of America, that he carried high weight and that he had to run under conditions entirely different from those prevailing at most French tracks, his performance in this country established him as a truly great horse.

His progeny have shown fine speed, as is evident in the racing of Hygro and Siskin, two of his offspring.

Sport Salad by L. De Darrio

The Passing Show.

THE Bears went down before the Bills
But gave the fans a lot of thrills
Before they were defeated.
It was a battle all the way,
And though St. Louis won the day,
The fight was fierce and heated.

It was a glorious victory,
Before the valedictory
Of gallant Ben La Presta.
The Bears, who in defeat were great,
Will now proceed to hibernate,
And take a long siesta.

A passing tear, a gentle sigh,
And then a cheer for Cleveland High,
Who bowed to Little Rock.
Although they took it on the jaw,
They gave the boys from Arkansaw
The best they had in stock.

The undefeated boys of Brown
Before a stronger team went down
When Colgate broke their slate.
The Raiders shut them out and so,
To Pasadena they may go,
With goal inviolate.

The boys of Pennsylvania fell
Upon the cohorts from Cornell,
And beat them by a step.
The closeness of score denotes
That while the Quakers felt their oats,
Cornell was full of pep.

A Warm Welcome.

"Roosevelt Heartily Welcomed on Arrival at Warm Springs."

COME in, old top, the water's fine,
And hasn't lost its charm;
Likewise a little sip of wine
Won't do you any harm.

Good Work!.

Jimmy Londos defended his title for the ninety-fourth time of the season at the Coliseum the other evening. Hans Kampfer also rassled.

Jimmy gave his usual fine display of histrionic talent, coming from behind to win on schedule time. Kampfer was unable to leave the ring under his own power but no fears are felt for his ultimate recovery.

"Ferryboat News Agent One of Five Heirs to $40,000,000."

Ferry good, Eddie. Here's hoping they come across.

"Nurse Sues for $500,000 for Attending Millionaire."

She must be nursing quite a grievance.

George Bernard Shaw recommends a dictator for England and a $35,000 a year pension for George Bernard Shaw. However, as Mr. Shaw naively admits that he has been making public speeches for 48 years that have not produced the slightest effect, his recommendations probably will be referred to Mr. Sweeney, Secretary of Funny Affairs.

Speaking of G. B. Shaw reminds us of Joe Mullier which reminds us of one of Joe's most famous old jests revamped to suit the occasion. Why was the victory of Colgate over Brown like a tin can tied to a dog's tail? Because it was bound to A. Kerr.

MEMPHIS ELEVEN STRENGTHENS FOR GUNNER TILT

The invasion of St. Louis by the Memphis Tigers to play the Battery A Gunners tomorrow afternoon at Public Schools Stadium, promises to produce one of the outstanding pro battles of the year. Coach Edwin "Goat" Hale of the Southerners has sent word that he had signed his eleventh former National League player. The man is Dexter Shelley, broken field runner of Brooklyn.

It will be the first time Memphis has played a game away from home.

The Gunners were first to upset Memphis on the Tigers' home lot, winning a 6 to 0 decision four weeks ago. Two weeks ago Memphis won, 12-0.

Memphis' lineup resembles an all-National League team. Frosty Peters is at quarterback. Beside Beiden at halfback is Gene Rose, who teamed with him on the Cardinals against the Gunners last winter. Solly Cohen, 225-pound fullback plunger, and Gerald Seiberling, 200-pound back, regarded as one of the best forward passers in the game, also are with the Tigers.

Memphis has a pair of guards in Danny McMullen and Clyde Van Sickle who were regarded as the best in the National loop a year ago with the Bears and Giants, respectively.

To meet such an array of talent, Coach Bullet Baker has strengthened his Gunners by the addition of Joe Lintzenich and "Swede" Johnston, two of the best backs in pro football.

Baker believes that, on a dry field, his backfield machine with Lefebvre and Lintzenich at halfbacks, Thornton at quarter and Johnston at fullback, will more than hold its own against the Southerners.

Another star added to the Memphis squad is Al Culver, tackle of Knute Rockne's 1930 Notre Dame champions. Culver, called by Marchmont Schwartz in a current magazine article as the "most under-rated player in football," and one of Rockne's greatest tackles, will team up with Harvey Long of Portsmouth at the position against the Gunners.

FLYERS TO OPEN KANSAS CITY'S SEASON, TONIGHT

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 25.—The St. Louis Flyers will open the Kansas City hockey season against the Pla-Mors here tonight with their new young goalie, Mike Karakas, in the net. He was obtained by Coach Babe Dye from the Detroit Redwings of the National League and reported to the club at St. Louis yesterday.

Joe Stark, who played the first game with St. Louis against St. Paul last Sunday night, did not please the coach when he missed two comparatively easy shots, the only ones St. Paul scored, so when Dye saw a chance to sign Karakas he did so immediately, releasing Stark.

Karakas played with the champion Chicago Shamrocks last season, finishing second in goalie standing to Porky Levine of Kansas City. Karakas' figure was .045, representing 65 opponents' goals in 1418 shots at his net. Levine averaged .043 in 46 games, yielding 57 goals in 1307 attempts at his net.

After tonight's game, the two clubs return to St. Louis to play at the Arena tomorrow night, after which the Flyers will go to St. Paul to open the season Monday night, then to Duluth for a game, after which they will return to St. Louis to play St. Paul on Sunday night, Dec. 4.

Against Kansas City, Dye plans to start Rusty Hughes and Dutch Cain, defense, McPherson at center, Massecar and Albert Hughes on the wings.

Kansas City has virtually the same strong team it had last season with the notable additions of Healey, formerly with Tulsa, and Bobby Burns, the flashy wing of Chicago and St. Louis.

The Pla-Mors' defense is always strong and this year is no exception, so it probably will prove a very difficult job for St. Louis to score.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—The stock market received a crumb or two of comfort from the weekly carloadings report today, but after a rather feeble rally, the list settled back to end the day with unimportant net changes.

The closing tone was steady, although some of the leaders showed fractional declines. The turnover for the two-hour session was only about 400,000 shares.

Appearance of support for sterling exchange was encouraging, and save for silver, commodity markets acted somewhat better. The British dollar bonds, however, again were weak, and uncertainties over the war debt situation still appeared to dominate financial sentiment.

Silver Price Equals Historical Low.

Bar silver again weakened, with the spot quotation at New York off ½ cent to 25⅝ cents, duplicating the historical low first touched in February of last year.

The increase of $8,758 cars in the movement of revenue freight, as reported for all Class 1 carriers for the week ended Nov. 19, made up a large part of the recession of some 51,000 cars in the preceding week, which presumably reflected to a large extent the partial suspension of business for the national election. The increase, however, was somewhat larger than expected, and against the normal seasonal trend in November.

Union Pacific rose 1½ points, only to lose its gain and close with a loss of about a point. Santa Fe, after moving up a point, fell back. American Telephone lost an early gain of more than a point, and a fractional advance in United States Steel was converted into a fractional decline before the end of the session. Gains of about a point in Eastman and National Biscuit were maintained. On the whole, however, the list closed virtually unchanged from the levels of Friday's finish.

Brokers reported that there had been a moderate amount of real liquidation in the share market during recent sessions, although a part of the offerings had been for bear account, and the early upturn today represented largely short covering.

The first 31 railroads to report for October had aggregate net operating income only 4.2 per cent under October of last year, but 33.6 per cent under October of two years ago.

Cotton failed to make headway, closing with slight losses of 5 to 25 cents a bale.

Sterling exchange, after yesterday's drop of more than 4 cents, recovered about 1⅛ cents, as support appeared. It ruled at $3.22¼. The Japanese yen and the Scandinavian currencies also improved. The Canadian dollar, at 84⅜ cents, was up 1-16 of a cent. The European gold currencies were about steady.

The Banking Position.

The weekly Federal reserve report showed an increase over the previous week of $26,083,000 in the system's gold holdings. The reserve system held $3,053,152,000 of gold, the highest for the year to date, and an increase of $491,957,000 from the low point reached on June 15. Meanwhile a gain of $36,000,000 was reported in the nation's monetary gold stock, carrying that figure to $4,320,000,000 which compared with the June 15 low of $3,909,000,000. Federal Reserve Bank credit outstanding gained $4,000,000 in the week. Circulation was up $6,000,000.

Railroad earning reports for October showed that the recent traffic bulge had brought net operating figures to a close parity with 1931, for the first time this year. The first 18 roads to issue statements reported net operating income of $23,627,000 against $24,134,000 in October, 1931, a decline of only 2.1 per cent. In September the same roads reported total net operating income of $17,768,000 against $18,846,000 the year before, a difference of 5.7 per cent.

MEMPHIS ELEVEN STRENGTHENS FOR GUNNER TILT

The invasion of St. Louis by the Memphis Tigers to play the Battery A Gunners tomorrow afternoon at Public Schools Stadium, promises to produce one of the outstanding pro battles of the year. Coach Edwin "Goat" Hale of the Southerners has sent word that he had signed his eleventh former National League player. The man is Dexter Shelley, broken field runner of Brooklyn.

It will be the first time Memphis has played a game away from home.

The Gunners were first to upset Memphis on the Tigers' home lot, winning a 6 to 0 decision four weeks ago. Two weeks ago Memphis won, 12-0.

Memphis' lineup resembles an all-National League team. Frosty Peters is at quarterback. Beside Belden at halfback is Gene Rose, who teamed with him on the Cardinals against the Gunners last winter. Solly Cohen, 235-pound fullback plunger, and Gerald Seiberling, 200-pound back, regarded as one of the best forward passers in the game, also are with the Tigers.

Memphis has a pair of guards in Danny McMullen and Clyde Van Sickle who were regarded as the best in the National loop a year ago with the Bears and Giants, respectively.

To meet such an array of talent, Coach Bullet Baker has strengthened his Gunners by the addition of Joe Lintzenich and "Swede" Johnston, two of the best backs in pro football.

Baker believes that, on a dry field, his backfield machine with Lefebvre and Lintzenich at halfbacks, Thornton at quarter and Johnston at fullback, will more than hold its own against the Southerners.

Another star added to the Memphis squad is Al Culver, tackle of Knute Rockne's 1930 Notre Dame champions. Culver, called by Marchmont Schwartz in a current magazine article as the "most underrated player in football," and one of Rockne's greatest tackles, will team up with Harvey Long of Portsmouth at the position against the Gunners.

FLYERS TO OPEN KANSAS CITY'S SEASON, TONIGHT

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 26.—The St. Louis Flyers will open the Kansas City hockey season against the Pla-Mors here tonight with their new young goalie, Mike Karakas, in the net. He was obtained by Coach Babe Dye from the Detroit Redwings of the National League and reported to the club at St. Louis yesterday.

Joe Stark, who played the first game with St. Louis against St. Paul last Sunday night, did not please the coach when he missed two comparatively easy shots, the only ones St. Paul scored, so when Dye saw a chance to sign Karakas he did so immediately, releasing Stark.

BRITISH EXCHANGE RATE RALLIES IN EARLY PERIOD

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—The British pound sterling rallied in early foreign exchange transactions today, rising 1⅝ cents to a quotation of $3.22¼ for London cables.

Bankers reported that the market, as is usual on Saturday, was rather quiet. Nevertheless, there were fairly sizeable buying orders, which were plainly lacking yesterday, when the pound broke nearly 5 cents at one time and closed at $3.20⅝, off 4⅝ cents for the day and within 3 cents of its low point of $3.18, reached in February, 1920, after England removed the peg which had supported the pound in the early part of the postwar period.

Other foreign exchanges were steady.

Dry Goods Market.

By the Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 26. — Cotton cloths ruled very quiet today. Some small lot business was done on finished staples for immediate delivery. Reports from rayon producers show a very closely sold position for January deliveries. Additional lines of fine dress worsteds are being opened and new lines of spring silks and fancy cottons are being shown in the dress goods field. Burlap trading has been held up by the break in sterling, dollar values being lower.

Monetary Gold Stocks Increase.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Gold stocks of the United States gained $949,900 today through the release of that amount from foreign earmark. In addition, the New York Federal Reserve Bank reported receipts of $920,000 in gold at San Francisco from China.

Slaughtering House Report.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—October production of slaughtering houses in the United States increased 2½ per cent over September and employment in the industry was up 2 per cent with wages paid increasing 3⅛ per cent, the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank reported.

New York Silk.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Raw silk futures closed steady; sales 570 bales. Dec. 1.36@1.38; March, 1.39@1.40; May, 1.39T. Open market quotations (60-day basis) Shanghai steam extra B 1.60; Canton double extra A, 14-16s 1.20; Japanese crack, double extra, 1.62.

RAILROAD REPORTS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—The first 21 railroads to report October earnings had aggregate net railway operating income of approximately $25,426,000, a decrease of 1.8 per cent compared with $25,895,000 in the same month last year.

Thirteen of the roads had larger net railway operating income for October this year than in 1931. The rate of decline in October from 1931 showed an improvement over the September comparisons for both gross and net operating income.

*The St. Louis-Southwestern Railway Lines reported for October net railway operating income of $119,908 against $337,274 last year.

*The operating income figures above were erroneously given yesterday as those of St. Louis & San Francisco Railway.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Pennsylvania Railroad Co. had October net operating income of $5,907,192, compared with $6,390,849 in October, 1931. Figures for other roads include:

	1932.	1931.
Delaware, Lackawanna & Western	$593,607	$896,693

FINANCIAL NOTES

By the Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Standard Statistics Co. reports 20 unfavorable dividend changes in the past week against 26 in the previous week. Favorable changes numbered 10, compared with 21 in the week ended Nov. 18.

The New York Cotton Exchange Service says that 367,000 bales of cotton were forwarded to mills of the world this week, an increase of 38,000 over a year ago. Movement of American cotton into sight totaled 446,000 bales against 499,000 last year.

Kenneth R. Kingsbury, president of Standard Oil Co. of California, is in New York, but his presence here is said to be in connection with the "share-the-work" movement rather than for further negotiations toward merger of his company with Standard of New Jersey. Executives of both corporations agreed to a consolidation more than a year ago, provided a basis for an exchange of shares could be reached.

Arrangements were made today for sale of a New York Curb Exchange membership at $29,000, off $3000 from the previous transaction.

Financial and Trade Notes.

By the Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—New state and municipal financing scheduled for next week, says The Daily Bond Buyer, totals $13,957,654, as compared with $9,215,523 for this week. The largest prospective offering is a $6,972,000 issue of City of St. Louis 4 per cent building and improvement bonds, bids for which will be received Thursday.

The newly formed Pineapple Producers' Co-operative Association has appropriated $1,000,000 for advertising in magazines and newspapers in 75 cities.

Prices have been following downward trend in cocoa market on active liquidation. Stocks of cocoa beans in New York warehouses total about 668,000 bags, which is close to the record high.

Utilities Holdings Transferred.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—The Associated Gas & Electric Corporation has transferred to its affiliate, Associated Gas & Electric Co., its holdings of Eastern Utilities Investing Corporation and Binghamton Light, Heat & Power Co., subsidiaries, it was learned. This shift in holdings resulted in a reduction in the Associated Corporation's investments from $582,089,475 on June 30, 1932, to $514,760,777 on Sept. 30.

STOCK LOANING PREMIUMS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—The following stocks were loaning at premium at the close Saturday (dollars per 100 shares): Allied Chemical, 2; American Can, 1; American Tel. & Tel., 1; Aviation Corporation, 1; Union Pacific, 1; U. S. Steel preferred, 1.

St. Louis Reserve Bank.

Bills discounted by the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis decreased $931,000 for the week ending Nov. 23, total being $7,918,000. Bills discounted secured by United States Government obligations, $3,844,000, decrease $316,000; other bills discounted, $4,074,000, decrease $615,000; total gold reserves, $86,457,000, decrease $1,994,000; total reserves, $95,871,000, decrease $1,674,000; total resources, $195,381,000, decrease $5,961,000. Total United States Government securities were unchanged, but certificates and bills increased $452,000. Federal Reserve notes in actual circulation decreased $845,000. Ratio of total reserves to deposits and Federal Reserve note liabilities combined was 58.5 per cent, decrease .8 per cent.

New York Sugar.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Raw sugar was easier today and while holders of nearby sugars continued to ask 3c, later shipments were offered at concessions, with local refiners showing no particular interest.

Out-of-town refiners, however, were in the market and purchased 31,500 bags of Philippines for January arrival at 2.95c and 18,000 bags for April-May shipment at 2.91c.

Influenced by the continued liberal offerings in the spot market, futures showed further loss, closing 1 to 4 points net lower. The market opened unchanged to 1 point lower and continued easy during the balance of the session, under liquidation and hedge selling against new crop duty frees.

There was covering and trade buying on the decline but it was not aggressive, and there was a disposition to limit new commitments over the weekend. Approximate sales were 12,000 tons. December closed .87c; January, .82c; March, .84c; May, .89c; July, .94c; September, .99c.

In refined local refiners made no change from their 4.25c level, but a Texas refiner announced a reduction of 10 points to the basis of 4.15c. Trade was light and supplied through second hands at around 4.15c.

REVENUE CAR LOADINGS SHOW 38,758 INCREASE

Gains for Week Ended Nov. 19 Brings Total to 575,851 Cars.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—The American Railway Association announced today that loadings of revenue freight for the week ending Nov. 19 were 575,851 cars, an increase of 38,758 cars above the previous week.

A decrease during the previous week, ending Nov. 12, was due, the association said, to election day and Armistic day observance.

Loadings for the week ending Nov. 19 was 77,652 cars under the corresponding week last year and 203,901 cars under the same week two years ago.

Miscellaneous freight loaded during the week of Nov. 19 totaled 191,919 cars, an increase of 4670 over the preceding week but 42,455 under the corresponding week in 1931; coal, 137,908, increase 24,302 and 21,209; coke, 4969, increase 865 and 119 above the same week last year; less than carlot merchandise, 171,250, increase 1342, over the preceding week but 37,783 below the corresponding week last year; livestock, 21,027, increase 2670 above the preceding week but 4520 below the same week last year; grain and grain products, 29,653, increase 4563 and decrease 7219; forest products, 16,134, increase 150 and decrease 5093; and ore, 2991, increase 196 over the week before, but 1910 under the corresponding week last year.

COTTON MARKET CLOSES 1 TO 6 POINTS LOWER

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Cotton futures opened steady, unchanged to 4 points higher, in response to steadier Liverpool cables and trade buying.

Cotton futures closed barely steady, 1 to 6 lower. December, 5.75; January, 5.79@5.81; March, $5.90@5.91; May, 6.01; July, 6.09; October, 6.25@6.27. Spot, quiet; middling, 5.90.

December opened at 5.80c; January, 5.87c; March, 5.98c; May, 6.05c; July, 6.14c; October, 6.29c.

December sold up to 5.83 and May to 6.11 on the early demand, making net advances of about 7 to 8 points on the active months. This bulge met selling which came partly from the South and partly from local or Wall street sources, but offerings were taken on reactions of a few points and the market was steady at net advances of 3 to 7 points before session had gone far.

Southern spot markets were reported quiet with the basis very firm late yesterday. Rains in the eastern and central belts were thought likely to delay the movement and may have helped the tone of the market.

Liverpool cables reported trade buying to fix prices, also covering and buying by Egyptian houses, and there was a little buying here through houses with Liverpool connections at the opening. Cotton shipboard at the end of the week was estimated 197,000 bales, against 192,000 last year.

Liverpool Spot Lower.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 26.—Cotton, 25,000 bales, including 16,900 American. Spot quiet; prices 5 points lower. GRAINS AVERAGE HIGHER ON CHICAGO MARKET

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—Helped by material fresh curtailment of the open interest in December wheat contracts, all grain values averaged higher today.

Business in wheat consisted largely of evening up of December operations, and of spread dealings between December and May or July. The December open interest, which on Sept. 10 totaled 120,000,000 bushels, was reduced to 36,339,000 bushels last night, and was expected to show a further big decrease by today's transactions.

Wheat closed unsettled, ⅛@⅜c above yesterday's finish, corn ⅛@⅝c up, oats unchanged to ⅛c higher, and provisions varying from 12c decline to a rise of 2c.

Grain prices turned upward early today influenced by comparative strength shown by Liverpool wheat quotations and by increased apprehension regarding United States winter crop prospects.

Opening ⅛@½ higher Chicago wheat futures held near the initial range. Corn started a shade decline to ¼ advance and continued firm.

Menace to domestic winter wheat was reported as daily increasing, no rain or snow of consequence having been received for over a week in certain sections previously suffering from drought. No. 2 red winter wheat here was announced as having been sold for immediate shipment at ½ cent a bushel higher than prices quoted for May delivery.

A better tone in sterling exchange appeared to exercise something of a stimulating influence toward increased speculative demand for wheat.

Corn and oats borrowed firmness from wheat.

Provisions were easy, responsive to the course of hog values.

IRREGULAR TREND TO BOND MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Prices moved irregularly in the bond market today with traders and investors generally standing on the sidelines pending the clarification of foreign war loan problems and various domestic uncertainties.

The railroads were only moderately enthusiastic following the report on freight car loadings for the week ended Nov. 19, which showed a gain of 38,758 over the previous week. Commodities were barely steady.

Some foreign obligations were again under pressure, especially British 5½s which added around 2 points to their losses of yesterday in the face of rallying tendencies displayed by the pound sterling. The Australians and Canadians were a trifle easier, as were the Belgians and Brazilians. French 7½s firmed along with some of the Germans.

Railroad liens that responded mildly to traffic recovery figures included those of Allegheny Corp., Baltimore & Ohio, Illinois Central, Missouri Pacific, New York Central and Union Pacific. Slight losses were recorded by some maturities of Pennsylvania, Southern, St. Paul, Chicago and Northwestern and several others.

Some utilities registered fractional improvement. Among these were bonds of American Telephone and Consolidated Gas. Issues of International Telephone and Postal Telegraph were steadier while those of American and foreign power eased.

Industrial loans were somewhat hesitant. Bonds of both Goodyear and Goodrich improved.

United States Government obligations were fairly steady, but rather inactive.

SHORT COVERING BRINGS SLIGHT CURB UPTURNS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26. — Wearing a more cheerful front after nearly a week of steady decline, the curb market today crept to slightly higher levels, largely on short covering.

Not many advances in the active group extended beyond fractional scope, but a majority of the issues traded managed to show some slight gain. Electric Bond and Share had a fairly large turnover but this usually volatile issue held within a small range, slightly above the previous final. Most of the other active utilities picked a slight ground on the day.

Lake Shore Mines, Ltd., again led the way in the mining division, running up nearly a point on a substantial volume. Oils were irregular with Standard of Indiana a shade higher and most of the rest moving inactively below yesterday's finals.

MINISTER WHO CRITICISED M. E. BISHOPS REINSTATED

The Rev. R. G. Smith Makes Public Apology and Asks for Forgiveness.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 26.—A year's suspension on charges of "gross imprudence and high unministerial conduct" was lifted yesterday from the Rev. Rembert G. Smith, once a critic of Bishops and other fellow churchmen, and he was restored to active membership in the North Georgia Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. He made a public apology, asked for forgiveness and was reinstated by a thunderous shout of "Aye."

The Rev. Mr. Smith frequently had criticised Bishops and other leaders of the church for what he termed their political activities, but Bishop John M. Moore said the criticism had nothing to do with the suspension.

"What he said about politics and the Bishops had no more to do with his trial last year than what he might have said about Mussolini," Bishop Moore asserted in presenting the case to the conference yesterday. "The church has no right to try a man for his political views."

The Rev. Mr. Smith was tried by a committee in executive session at the North Georgia Conference in Atlanta last November. The details of the accusations and trial were not made public at the time, the trial committee merely announcing the suspension was for "gross imprudence and high unministerial conduct." The suspension later was confirmed by the church Committee on Appeals sitting at Nashville, Tenn.

Bishops James Cannon Jr., E. D. Mouzon, H. M. Dubose and Moore were the principal targets of Smith's attacks. He accused them of exerting their influence against Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic presidential nominee in 1928.

Greta Nissen Drops Divorce Suit.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 26.—Greta Nissen, movie actress, and Weldon Heyburn, actor, announced today that they had become reconciled and that a mutual consent divorce suit filed in Mexico had been withdrawn.

FRANCE, RUSSIA AGREE ON PACT OF NON-AGGRESSION

Each Nation Promises Not to Aid Third Power in Offensive Against the Other.

PARIS, Nov. 26.—The text of a pact of conciliation and non-aggression between France and Soviet Russia was approved today by the cabinet. Premier Herriot said it would be signed on Tuesday.

The agreement provides that neither country, alone or in conjunction with a third Power, shall resort to arms against the other, and that each shall respect the territories under the sovereignty of the other.

It also stipulates that if either party is the object of aggression of a third Power the other will not aid the aggressor directly or indirectly.

If one party should commit an act of aggression against a third Power, the other party to the agreement can withdraw from the pact.

Soviet Russia has negotiated a pact of non-aggression and conciliation with Poland, and conversations with Rumania have been going on for some time.

There was a commercial treaty with Great Britain, but England withdrew from that arrangement because it was incompatible with the Empire preferences negotiated last summer at Ottawa. The Soviet has a commercial treaty with Italy and special arrangements covering commerce with Germany.

There have been unofficial reports recently of negotiations with Japan for a pact of non-aggression. China recently resumed diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia after a break of several years.

Both nations agree that neither shall enter any international arrangement hampering the commerce of the other or interfere with the granting of credits to the other.

Russia agrees also to refrain from propaganda in France and its colonies.

JOBLESS MAN KILLS WIFE AND SON, THEN ENDS LIFE

Shot Self as Mate's 83-Year-Old Grandmother Enters Room on Hearing Shots.

By the Associated Press.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 26.—Forrest Dyer, 32 years old, yesterday shot and killed himself in the presence of his wife's grandmother, Mrs. Sally Chandler, 83, when the aged woman, investigating two shots she had heard, entered a room of their home near here and found Mrs. Dyer, 28, fatally wounded and the Dyers' 4-year-old son, Joe, dead.

Mrs. Chandler told investigators for the District Attorney-General's office that Dyer, who had been without employment for two years, returned to their home yesterday morning after a week's absence and told her he had "a surprise for Lois," his wife.

The grandmother said Mrs. Dyer and her son were away from home when Dyer returned, but they came back about noon and after lunch went with Dyer to a bedroom to talk.

Mrs. Chandler said that when she attempted to open the door of the room, Dyer slammed it shut. She finally succeeded in opening it, however, and as she entered the room Dyer picked up a shotgun and shot himself through his heart.

TWO BOARDERS HELD IN DEATH OF WOMAN FOUND IN WELL

One of Them Said by Daughter of Victim to Have Married Her.

By the Associated Press.

WEST UNION, O., Nov. 25. — Two men, former boarders in the home of Mrs. Josephine Hawes, 40 years old, whose nude body was found in an abandoned well at Peebles, have been charged with first degree murder for her death.

The body of Mrs. Hawes, a bullet wound in the skull, was discovered Thursday by two hunters. A heavy cord was wrapped tightly about her neck.

Coroner L. M. Purdine expressed the belief her body was placed in the well soon after she disappeared last June 28 in company with two men.

The men charged with her murder by Sheriff Harry Ogle were Virgil Yankee, 22, and Robert Ford, 28. Annie Hawes, 15-year-old daughter of the slain woman, is held as a material witness.

Yankee was arrested at the home of his parents where he had been living with the Hawes girl who said she was married to the man last summer after a hike on foot to Greenup, Ky.

Five of the Hawes children are in the Adams County Children's Home.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 26.—Forrest Dyer, 32 years old, yesterday shot and killed himself in the presence of his wife's grandmother, Mrs. Sally Chandler, 83, when the aged woman, investigating two shots she had heard, entered a room of their home near here and found Mrs. Dyer, 28, fatally wounded and the Dyers' 4-year-old son, Joe, dead.

Mrs. Chandler told investigators for the District Attorney-General's office that Dyer, who had been without employment for two years, returned to their home yesterday morning after a week's absence and told her he had "a surprise for Lois," his wife.

The grandmother said Mrs. Dyer and her son were away from home when Dyer returned, but they came back about noon and after lunch went with Dyer to a bedroom to talk.

Mrs. Chandler said that when she attempted to open the door of the room, Dyer slammed it shut. She finally succeeded in opening it, however, and as she entered the room Dyer picked up a shotgun and shot himself through his heart.

TWO BOARDERS HELD IN DEATH OF WOMAN FOUND IN WELL

One of Them Said by Daughter of Victim to Have Married Her.

By the Associated Press.

WEST UNION, O., Nov. 25.—Two men, former boarders in the home of Mrs. Josephine Hawes, 40 years old, whose nude body was found in an abandoned well at Peebles, have been charged with first degree murder for her death.

The body of Mrs. Hawes, a bullet wound in the skull, was discovered Thursday by two hunters. A heavy cord was wrapped tightly about her neck.

Coroner L. M. Purdine expressed the belief her body was placed in the well soon after she disappeared last June 28 in company with two men.

The men charged with her murder by Sheriff Harry Ogle were Virgil Yankee, 22, and Robert Ford, 28. Annie Hawes, 15-year-old daughter of the slain woman, is held as a material witness.

Yankee was arrested at the home of his parents where he had been living with the Hawes girl who said she was married to the man last summer after a hike on foot to Greenup, Ky.

Five of the Hawes children are in the Adams County Children's Home.

The ship was completely destroyed after oil tanks exploded.

GOOD TASTE

By EMILY POST

Names and Introductions.

Dear Mrs. Post:

I AM a business woman. My contact with customers is often a social one and whenever this question enters into the situation I don't know how to sign my name in writing letters to them. Do I use "Miss" in such cases or do I merely sign "Mary Jones" or "Mary?"

Answer: Put "Miss" in parenthesis: (Miss) Mary Jones. Or if you are sure that they know you are "Miss," sign your letter "Mary Jones."

EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband is named for his paternal grandfather, John Smith. The grandfather died last year and my husband still signs his name John Smith II. Is this correct? We hope to have a son some day to carry on the name. Will his name be John Smith III?

Answer: Correctly your husband is now John Smith, unless he has an uncle of the same name. And the baby will be John Smith Jr. (Not second.)

My Dear Mrs. Post: When addressing a communication to college authorities relative to securing a position on the faculty to whom should I write? Should it be the registrar or the dean?

Answer: Neither. A registrar is written to with regard to entering classes. The dean has charge of the student body. I would suggest addressing such an application as yours to the president of the college, who has the power to recommend you for his educational staff when he meets with the board of governors of the college.

Dear Mrs. Post: When sending a note of congratulations on the birth of a baby, should it be addressed to the mother at the hospital, or to "Mr. and Mrs." and sent to the house?

Answer: Whichever you like. That is, if both are equally your friends, you might write to Mr. and Mrs., but usually you write to the mother.

Dear Mrs. Post: When a gift is sent to a bride after the wedding, should it be addressed to Mrs. John Blank or to Mr. and Mrs. John Blank?

Answer: To "Mrs."

M. L. C.: My cousin and his bride came to visit me. I took them to call on my brother and his wife, who had never met the bride, but knew her cousin. The bride and I were the first to enter the house, followed by my cousin and two other guests. My brother opened the door and I introduced the bride to him. Passed on into the room and introduced her to his wife while he still was at the door receiving my cousin and the other two guests. I was criticised for introducing the bride to my brother's wife, because they said it was his place to do this. Was this wrong at such an informal family gathering?

Answer: You were right, on every count. In the first place, no rule exists which makes it the place of one more than another to make such an introduction. And in the second, observance of a formal rule (had there been one) would be absurd in family relationship. A rule, which adds to smoothness or to beauty, should be observed always. But a rule which would have kept you standing dumb and awkwardly waiting for your brother to appear would better have been broken had it existed!

A. L.: What form of introduction should a young lady use in introducing herself to a young gentleman? Should she say, "My name is Mary Smith," "my name is Miss Smith," or should she merely say, "My name is Smith?"

Answer: If she is a young modern, she says, "I'm Mary Smith." If she does not want him to call her "Mary" (which he might quite likely do), she might say, "I'm one of the Smiths that live on A street." She can't very well say, "I'm Miss Smith," unless she is at least approaching the mid-twenties. Therefore in this day there is no "conventional" reply and she either says whatever impulse dictates, or nothing.

John T. asks: (1) Is it right to shake hands when introduced to a gentleman or lady? (2) should one rise when being introduced to old people?

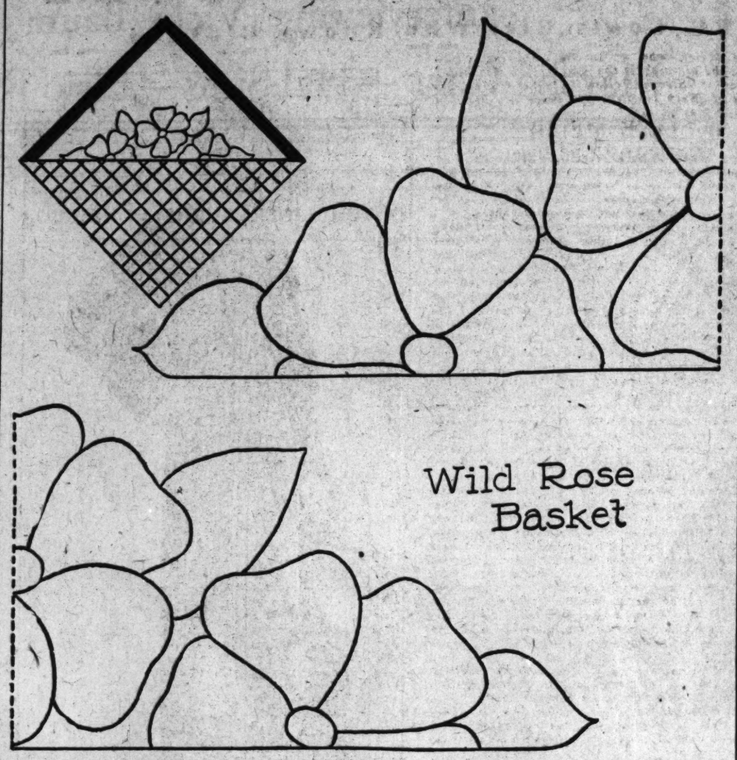

Answer: (1) Always shake hands with a man. According to etiquette, you should wait for a lady to offer her hand to you. But to hold out yours is no great error. (2) A man?—always to everyone. A girl?—yes. An older woman?—not necessarily.

JANE ALAN'S QUILT PATTERN

IN A RECENT survey to discover the most popular quilt patterns among modern quilters, basket designs ranked close to the top, so in response to dozens of requests for a basket pattern that is attractive and different, Jane Alan has designed a quilt of that nature, the first block of which appears today.

Four different block patterns are needed for the finished quilt, according to Jane Alan's plan, although any one of the four designs may be used for a whole quilt, if desired. Today the wild rose pattern appears, with the tulip, daisy and buttercup patterns to be presented in the order named.

Each of the baskets in the finished quilt is alike in that the basket is made of a checked gingham with a plain material to match the check for the handle. Four blocks of each floral design are needed.

For the finished quilt top, eight yards of a plain material for the background, one yard of a fine light brown or blue checked gingham for the basket, half a yard of plain gingham to match the color of the checked material, one yard of plain green and two inches of yellow are needed.

For today's design, the wild rose, one-half yard of plain pink material is sufficient.

The baskets in the center of the quilt are made by cutting 10 and a half inch squares of the checked material diagonally across to make two triangles. The triangular piece of white background above each basket on which the flowers are appliqued, is also the diagonal half of a 10 and a half inch square of plain material.

Each of the petals and each of the leaves in the wild rose design is alike, so but three cutting patterns are needed for today's block, one petal, the center of the flower and one leaf. These should be made by transferring the design to cardboard and allow one-fourth inch for seams when cutting the patches. In order to place the petals and leaves in the basket properly, however, it is wise to transfer the completed design lightly on the basic material as a guide for placing the flowers and leaves.

After the flowers have been appliqued to the plain block, apply a three-quarter inch band of plain color to match the checked material on the two short sides of the triangle as indicated in the diagram, and then sew the triangle with the appliqued designs to a triangle of checked material to form a square.

Make four wild rose blocks. Next week, the tulip pattern will appear.

Jane Alan has compiled a book of 20 Grandmother's authentic, old quilt blocks.

This book, which carries detailed instructions on how to make each quilt, will be sent postpaid for 25 cents, cash or stamps, to cover costs. Address your order to Jane Alan, care of this paper.

Editor's Note—Free pamphlet, giving diagram of a finished checked Basket Quilt, and instructions for setting together, will be sent to those sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Jane Alan, care of this paper.

PARENTS

Confidential Talks With Mothers and Fathers.

by Alice Judson Peale

A Cough Habit Begins

A 4-months-old baby coughs a light little cough and father who is holding her in his arms says, "Oh" in mock distress.

Baby coughs and again father gratifies her by his responsive "Oh." Then baby coughs many times in succession and smiles gaily over it.

Some time later when the baby coughs, father in an experimental spirit again says "Oh" and notices that baby at once begins to cough several times.

The baby now is a year old. Whenever she feels that she is not getting enough attention she begins to cough until someone stops to talk and play with her.

It is easy to see that from this beginning a child might readily develop a cough that later on the family physician would diagnose as "chronic irritation and nervousness," and about which it would seem that nothing in particular could be done.

Whatever gives a child pleasure is repeated. In this instance the baby found by accident that her cough was something which would bring her attention, and it became for her a means of immediate response from the grown-ups who formed an increasingly important part of her world.

It is important that undesirable habits at the very beginning should bring no response of any sort. Ignoring them is the very best way to make the child forget them. Often habits in themselves not pleasurable gain value and become fixed with the child simply because they make adults notice him.

Where the child discovers in the undesirable habit a pleasure independent of the notice it may bring him it may be necessary to distract his attention with a toy or something else which offers competing satisfaction.

EVERYDAY RELIGION

By THE REV. JOSEPH FORT NEWTON

Mark Twain's Sermon

WHEN Mark Twain made his last visit to the Tom Sawyer country a few friends waylaid him in St. Louis and gave him a dinner. It was an evening no one can ever forget. The old man was in a dismal mood, full of sad, sweet memories of long ago. In repose his face was always sad, even when he told his best jokes—his humor like white caps on a deep sea of melancholy. It was a face one could study for a long time—written all over with the hieroglyphics of sorrow, but with lines where smiles fell asleep when they were weary.

After the dinner Mark Twain preached a sermon, saying that he was as reverend as anybody and had a right to preach if he wanted to. He took as his text a story from the life of St. Francis, his best-loved hero, next to Joan of Arc, whom he called "the foremost member of the human race." At 12 years of age he saw a loose leaf from a book fluttering in the street, picked it up and read it. It was all about St. Joan, and it started him studying her life, which finally resulted in his book about her, which all the world has read.

The story he took for his text told how Francis said to one of the Brothers in the monastery, "Let us go into the village and preach today." So they set off down the road, arm in arm, talking together in the ecstasy of the spring morning, pausing now to look into the face of a flower, now to listen to the song of a bird. They went through the village and up the hill on the other side, and then retraced their steps to the monastery gate, without stopping. Whereupon the Brother said to Francis: "But I thought we were going to preach today."

THE REV. J. F. NEWTON.

"Ah, we have preached," said Francis; "we have been happy together in the spring sunlight. We have walked among men, they have seen our joy in God and His world—that is our sermon for today." All of us felt that Mark Twain was thinking of the kind of sermon he had preached, as he had walked up and down the years. We felt, too, that he had preached a good sermon. We thought of Tom, Huck, Becky, Injun Joe, the Duke, and all the rest of the glorious company which he had created for our joy. We remembered his sorrows, and how the death of little Suesy took the light out of his life. Yes, it is easy enough to preach a good sermon, but it is not easy to preach a sermon that does any good.

A Little Water

When broiling steaks or chops in the oven, put just a little water in the pan underneath the broiler. Then the essence from the meat will not drop into the pan and harden there from the strong heat. Instead you will have the foundation for a very nice pan gravy.

SEEN in THE STORES

By SYLVIA

THE wet forces are determined that this shall be a merry Christmas. Every day some new idea in beverage sets makes its appearance. Unique in more than one respect is a radio set which one store displays. It is built like a table radio even to its dial. But when you tune in on a station the door opens revealing a stage all set for liquid refreshments. A miniature wooden barrel has a realistic spigot. Six glasses surrounding the barrel are placed alertly at attention!

An afternoon dress is a shade of gray that seems designed for brown accessories has fabric ribbons looping the loop over either shoulder. The high round neck has a group of pleats at center front to relieve severity. The sleeves are full above the elbow and fitted into tight lower sections. There is a wide stomacher forming a sash which circles the waist and ties in big loops at one side.

White fashions have become so accustomed to black accompaniments that they hesitate about appearing anywhere alone. Take white hats for example. We are hearing a great deal about them—and seeing them, too, in spite of the city's smoke pall. But many of them, although entirely white themselves, insist upon adding black veils. The veils are of gossamer sheerness, frequently starched, so that they stand out defiantly all around the face.

Adjustable necklines which can be worn as high or as low as suit the whim of the wearer provide an ideal use for little talismen pins. These are not more than as big as a dime, but they make themselves seen by being covered entirely with brilliants. Animal shapes appear in the greatest numbers, but there are bowknots and little nosegays to please the sentimentalists.

It is considered chic to wear your most becoming shades in lingerie. Those that once were listed under the one delicate pink tone known as flesh, now are varied to include three or four different shades. So now you match your powder shade with your lingerie, knowing that a negligee, a slip or pajamas always will flatter you whether you are a blonde or a brunette.

Lace blousettes frilly and dainty enough to make a feminine heart flutter are appearing in the stores to add to holiday festivities. There is one style in the Alencon type of lace which has big puffed sleeves, elbow length, a high, round collar edged with fluted lace, and a nifty little jabot placed very high and looking somewhat like a stylish chest-protector. These blousettes are cut so that they may be worn outside the skirt.

A bulldog should be stubborn enough to hold on to a piece of string. Perhaps that is why new string holders are bulldog heads. You hang them on the wall and when you want a yard or so of string, you take it gingerly from the dog's mouth and hope for the best. The notion counters are showing these clever conceits along with some bulldog pin cushions that are made of felt, and have small spools of darning thread for collars.

A little bronze lamp that is so old-fashioned it might have done duty more than 50 years ago has a glass chimney and an adjustable feature so that the light can be made brighter or dimmer. There is another coppery-looking lamp with a round base and a conical shaped shade. Both are the right size for a desk, especially one that will accept its light in an economical sort of way.

A clothes brush or a whisk broom is no longer built exclusively to be used, but to be seen as well. Bristles or straws must be tinted a delicate shade and a handle may be a clown, a doll or a dog, depending upon one's favorite theme. These novelties are inexpensively priced and are popular as gifts.

If a woman would like to be the bright star of an evening I hope some guiding hand leads her to an exquisite gown I saw. It was in that clear, refreshing shade that I call daffodil yellow. Its skirt was long and graceful—so long it almost trained—and its only decoration was a cluster of purple flowers placed at the center front of the low-cut bodice.

Protected in All Ways

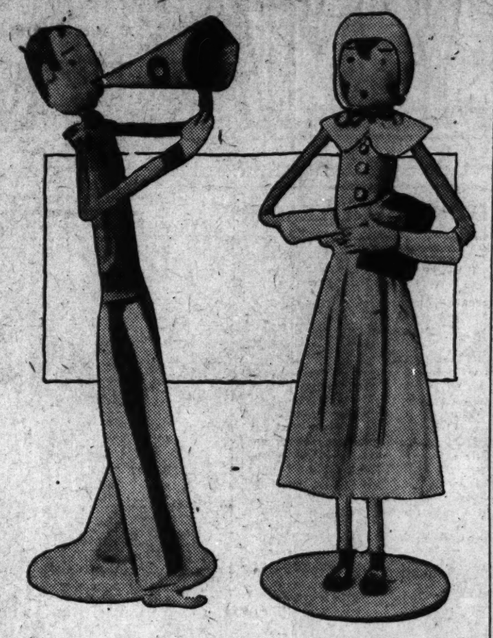

Before the house painter starts in on the outside work, cover the outside of each window with a cleaning powder. It will protect the windows from paint and at the same time give you a better feeling of privacy in the home.

Salt Shakers

The metal tops of salt shakers will not corrode if covered on the inside with melted paraffin. Open the holes with a pin while the paraffin is cooling, leaving the remaining surface covered and protected.

Don't forget that pot of lentil soup now that colder weather is upon us.

That Football Dinner

CO-EDS and mothers of co-eds often like to entertain the night of the big game. When all is said and done, a regular man-sized dinner is about the best form of entertainment for college boys and girls who have rooted themselves into a lusty appetite.

Here is a menu that will make the guests give three cheers for the cook, and has the added advantage of being out of the luxury class. It includes spiced tomato juice, crown roast of pork, apple rings, stuffed baked potatoes, spinach timbales, lettuce and green pepper salad, grape custard sponge and coffee.

To make apple rings, slice 4 red apples crosswise into slices about one-half inch thick. Cut out the cores. Cook the slices slowly in a syrup made of two cups of sugar, one and a half cups of water, one-half cup of vinegar, 10 whole cloves and a stick of cinnamon.

Simmer until the apples are transparent. Then remove the apples and add one-half cup of currant jelly to the syrup. Cook until thick. Pour the syrup over the apples and let cool. Arrange around the roast pork just before serving.

Allow three fresh ladyfingers to each serving for grape custard sponge. Split the ladyfingers in half lengthwise. Spread liberally with grape jelly. Put together again. Arrange three in each dessert dish. Cover generously with chilled boiled custard. Garnish with a little grape jelly.

OF course, you will want to decorate your table for the occasion. The vociferous young cheer leader and the up-to-the-minute co-ed with her large collar and natty cuffs shown in the photograph will lend their crepe paper and spool wire charm to your purposes. Very easily made of crepe paper in your college colors, they amuse everyone and serve also as inexpensive souvenirs of the big event.

For the center piece, you might like a jolly-faced football (made of paper) resting happily in a big crepe paper rose.

Cornmeal Griddle Cakes

One cup corn meal. One cup flour. Four tablespoons baking powder. One-fourth teaspoon salt. One tablespoon sugar. One egg. One and one-quarter cups milk. Two tablespoons fat, melted.

Mix ingredients and beat two minutes. Pour onto hot, greased griddle. When well puffed up and full of bubbles, carefully turn and brown other sides. Serve hot with butter and maple sugar, honey, syrup or dark brown sugar.

Baked Noodles Savory.

Six tablespoons bacon fat. Four tablespoons chopped onions. Four tablespoons chopped celery. Three cups cooked noodles. One cup cooked meat. One cup milk. One teaspoon salt.

Heat the fat in frying pan. Add and brown onions and celery. Add rest of ingredients. Pour into buttered baking dish and bake 25 minutes in moderate oven. Serve in disb in which baked. For six people.

Chiffonade Salad.

One cup diced cooked carrots. One cup diced beets, cooked. One-half cup cooked green beans. Three tablespoons chopped onions. Two tablespoons chopped pimientos. One-half teaspoon salt. One-fourth teaspoon paprika. One-half cup French dressing.

Mix and chill ingredients. Serve on lettuce leaves.

Plum Jam Recipe.

Six cups seeded cooked plums. One cup plum juice. Five cups sugar. One tablespoon cinnamon. One teaspoon cloves. One-fourth teaspoon salt.

Mix ingredients, cook slowly until mixture thickens. Stir frequently. Pour into sterilized jars. When cold, seal with melted paraffin.

Tomato Sauce

Two cups tomato pulp, one tablespoon butter, one finely minced onion, the juice of one lemon, one teaspoon chopped parsley, two cups boiling water, one egg yolk. Brown the onion in the butter, then add tomatoes, boiling water and seasoning. Simmer for a half hour. Just before serving add egg yolk, lemon juice and parsley mixed together. Simmer for just a minute, then pour over meat cakes and serve immediately.

Chicken With Fruit Stuffing

To three cups breadcrumbs, add one-fourth cup melted butter, one teaspoon salt, one tablespoon sugar, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one cup apples, pared, diced and stewed until tender, one-half cup prunes, steamed, pitted and chopped, and one-half cup broken nut meats. Clean chicken, stuff and truss. Place in roasting pan, rub all over with softened butter and roast for an hour to one and one-half hours, basting frequently.

BEHIND THE SCREENS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 25.

LORETTA YOUNG is one of Hollywood's soundest as well as prettiest answers to the question, "Is stardom necessary?"

In her still rather brief career she never once has been foisted upon the fans as a star, and yet from the beginning—when she was 14—she has risen steadily in fan following and ability.

LORETTA YOUNG

Pretty, cool-looking Loretta calls it "luck." In modest terms she traces her good fortune from the day when Mervyn Leroy called her house and wanted her sister, Polly Ann Young, for a role.

"Polly Ann was out of town, so I was sent down as a substitute," she says, "and here I am."

The star of that picture was Colleen Moore, who took a liking to Loretta and "sold" her to executives. Her first big lead was opposite Lon Chaney in "Laugh Clown, Laugh!"

"I was one of 48 girls tested for the part. Any one of the other 47 would have done just as well, if not better—and yet I got it."

THAT'S her way of explaining her success. It was luck, too, she says, which fulfilled her secret wish to play opposite John Barrymore—in "The Man From Blankley's." And luck that gave her the leading role in the successful "Life Begins." "I was very lucky to have drawn such a fine script," she says.

The modesty is a bit excessive, Young fans will agree, and it is more than luck that has brought her where she is. Prettiness, charm, a steady improvement in acting ability, all played their part.

But not to be disregarded is the fact that she has been allowed to progress as a featured player, and not been forced to carry on her slim shoulders the whole burden of a starring vehicle.

LORETTA once said, at a time when rumors were hinting a reconciliation with former husband Grant Withers, or linking her name with various other suitors, that when and if she marries again the day will mark her retirement from the screen. That still holds, and she isn't thinking about retirement—yet.

Katherine Hepburn didn't know it, but her appearance at the preview of "The Conquerors" was the big excitement of the evening. The preview gang clustered around the door until the diminutive new find came out and drove away.

The Beautiful Interior of a South Side Residence

The home was to be sold. The owner asked his agent to sell it. The agent made a trip through the residence, noted its various conveniences and emphasized its beautiful interior in advertising the property in the Post-Dispatch. The advertisement brought many prospective purchasers. It was easily sold.

Telling enough about property to interest buyers is one essential to a quick and satisfactory sale. Property advertised in the Post-Dispatch is read in far more St. Louis homes than any other newspaper, daily or Sunday.

IF YOU ASK MY C
by MA

Dear Martha Carr:

I DO not wish to appear facetious, but might I offer my humble commentary on what so many of your ardent feminine admirers are wont to call "popularity?"

I should say sincerity would be the chief prerequisite but as that seems to be so sadly lacking in the opposite sex I'll pass on to the more mundane qualities.

Dancing ability is essential, naturally. Affability is another and ability to hold a conversation is important.

One thing should be tabu altogether; don't whisper to one another. There's nothing that makes a date gnash his teeth more than that inane giggling and whispering. Don't hold long sorority meetings in the lounges and don't attempt to alleviate the depression by consuming so many of those cylinders containing tobacco. It is readily conceded that you consider your date a "package of cigarette" and a "mediocre chauffeur," but you needn't impress it upon them. And when on the way home try to have enough good taste to stay awake; and when you arrive at your domicile, must you make a stereotyped speech beginning with "Well I had an awfully nice time?"

You will note that I have given a veritable deluge of don'ts. I am quite aware that they will have the psychological effect of reacting inversely, but that is as it should be. And touching lightly upon the subject of amatory advances I might say that I once heard of a girl who had been kissed and retained her popularity under the stigma.

The best advice you could give the masculine gender is that they shouldn't try to understand the opposite sex. Girls should be taken for what they are; you'll be taken, too, but in a different way.

DESDICHADO.

This, I dare say, is what might be called, "biting comment." The girls may all understand it, quite. But the opening sentence seems a trifle obscure. Does the gentleman mean that it is funny for him to comment; or is he apologizing for making funny comments on the subject about which he is so serious? I leave it to the girls.

Dear Martha:

SOME TIME ago you offered to give a remedy for freckles. May I ask that you do so now?

MILDRED.

Make a mask composition of sweet almonds, 30 parts; bitter almonds, 15 parts distilled (boiled) water, 300 parts. You can make a smaller quantity, of course, if you find it serves your purpose. Mix the three ingredients together thoroughly and pound to an emulsion. Strain through cheese cloth and add 25 parts tincture benzoin and 15 parts lemon juice.

The "mask" is made by spreading the resultant mixture, thinly, and evenly, over the tanned or freckled face. Let it remain on, at first only 10 to 15 minute periods—longer as the skin accustoms itself to the immediate effects of the treatment.

When first used, the mask may produce some slight irritation of the skin; in which case it is advisable to discontinue the treatment until the disturbance disappears. Meanwhile, bathe the irritated parts with fresh sweet milk.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

DO YOU think it all right to write to my old boss in an out-of-town place, asking if he has an opening in his firm?

Where could I inquire about addressing letters at home? PAT.

There is no reason why you could not write him a business letter or a friendly one, either, if you know him well, making application for work. That is the only way to get work.

Look up the letter companies in the classified section of the telephone book. And go to the shops downtown, who may be sending out Christmas literature.

I also doubt if he has any relatives, or there would be some young people he could enjoy, and, with his means, help educate.

Anyone with money, ought to be busy now doing a lot of good. Why not adopt a family this winter? He need not go to the slums either. There are many families who are self-respecting and only the victims of circumstances. How my heart has ached to help little schoolmates of my boys—barefoot they are, and with no undercloth-ing. Yet it is all we can do to keep up our household. I'd love for them, my boys, to have advantages—music, expression, etc., yet we can't afford it.

I wonder too, with others actually hungry and cold, if it would be right to spend it that way. If we had it. Give to the Charity fund—yes! But let me say to the selfish one, GO PERSONALLY on some errand of mercy! Oh, try giving happiness to someone else. BEHIND THE SCREENS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 25.

LORETTA YOUNG is one of Hollywood's soundest as well as prettiest answers to the question, "Is stardom necessary?"

In her still rather brief career she never once has been foisted upon the fans as a star, and yet from the beginning — when she was 14 she has risen steadily in fan following and ability.

LORETTA YOUNG

Pretty, cool-looking Loretta calls it "luck." In modest terms she traces her good fortune from the day when Mervyn Leroy called her house and wanted her sister, Polly Ann Young, for a role.

"Polly Ann was out of town, so I was sent down as a substitute," she says, "and here I am."

The star of that picture was Colleen Moore, who took a liking to Loretta and "sold" her to executives. Her first big lead was opposite Lon Chaney in "Laugh Clown, Laugh!"

"I was one of 48 girls tested for the part. Any one of the other 47 would have done just as well, if not better—and yet I got it."

THAT'S her way of explaining her success. It was luck, too, she says, which fulfilled her secret wish to play opposite John Barrymore—in "The Man From Blankley's." And luck that gave her the leading role in the successful "Life Begins." "I was very lucky to have drawn such a fine script," she says.

The modesty is a bit excessive. Young fans will agree, and it is more than luck that has brought her where she is. Prettiness, charm, a steady improvement in acting ability, all played their part.

But not to be disregarded is the fact that she has been allowed to progress as a featured player, and not been forced to carry on her slim shoulders the whole burden of a starring vehicle.

LORETTA once said, at a time when rumors were hinting a reconciliation with former husband Grant Withers, or linking her name with various other suitors, that when and if she marries again the day will mark her retirement from the screen. That still holds, and she isn't thinking about retirement—yet.

Katherine Hepburn didn't know it, but her appearance at the preview of "The Conquerors" was the big excitement of the evening. The preview gang clustered around the door until the diminutive new find came out and drove away.

The Beautiful Interior of a South Side Residence

The home was to be sold. The owner asked his agent to sell it. The agent made a trip through the residence, noted its various conveniences and emphasized its beautiful interior in advertising the property in the Post-Dispatch. The advertisement brought many prospective purchasers. It was easily sold.

Telling enough about property to interest buyers is one essential to a quick and satisfactory sale. Property advertised in the Post-Dispatch is read in far more St. Louis homes than any other newspaper, daily or Sunday.

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

by MARTHA CARR

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for a personal reply.

Dear Martha Carr:

I DO not wish to appear facetious, but might I offer my humble commentary on what so many of your ardent feminine admirers are wont to call "popularity?"

I should say sincerity would be the chief prerequisite but as that seems to be so sadly lacking in the opposite sex I'll pass on to the more mundane qualities.

Dancing ability is essential, naturally. Affability is another and ability to hold a conversation is important.

One thing should be tabu altogether; don't whisper to one another. There's nothing that makes a date gnash his teeth more than that inane giggling and whispering. Don't hold long sorority meetings in the lounges and don't attempt to alleviate the depression by consuming so many of those cylinders containing tobacco. It is readily conceded that you consider your date a "package of cigarette" and a "mediocre chauffeur," but you needn't impress it upon them. And when on the way home try to have enough good taste to stay awake; and when you arrive at your domicile, must you make a stereotyped speech beginning with "Well I had an awfully nice time?"

You will note that I have given a veritable deluge of don'ts. I am quite aware that they will have the psychological effect of reacting inversely, but that is as it should be. And touching lightly upon the subject of amatory advances I might say that I once heard of a girl who had been kissed and retained her popularity under the stigma.

The best advice you could give the masculine gender is that they shouldn't try to understand the opposite sex. Girls should be taken for what they are; you'll be taken, too, but in a different way.

DESDICHADO.

This, I dare say, is what might be called, "biting comment." The girls may all understand it, quite. But the opening sentence seems a trifle obscure. Does the gentleman mean that it is funny for him to comment; or is he apologizing for making funny comments on the subject about which he is so serious? I leave it to the girls.

Dear Martha:

SOME TIME ago you offered to give a remedy for freckles. May I ask that you do so now?

MILDRED.

Make a mask composition of sweet almonds, 30 parts; bitter almonds, 15 parts distilled (boiled) water, 300 parts. You can make a smaller quantity, of course, if you find it serves your purpose. Mix the three ingredients together thoroughly and pound to an emulsion. Strain through cheese cloth and add 25 parts tincture benzoin and 15 parts lemon juice.

The "mask" is made by spreading the resultant mixture, thinly, and evenly, over the tanned or freckled face. Let it remain on, at first only 10 to 15 minute periods—longer as the skin accustoms itself to the immediate effects of the treatment.

When first used, the mask may produce some slight irritation of the skin; in which case it is advisable to discontinue the treatment until the disturbance disappears. Meanwhile, bathe the irritated parts with fresh sweet milk.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

DO YOU think it all right to write to my old boss in an out-of-town place, asking if he has an opening in his firm?

Where could I inquire about addressing letters at home? PAT.

There is no reason why you could not write him a business letter or a friendly one, either, if you know him well, making application for work. That is the only way to get work.

Look up the letter companies in the classified section of the telephone book. And go to the shops downtown, who may be sending out Christmas literature.

My Dear Mrs. Carr:

I READ your column with interest because it contains so much of "Life" in it. But since my life is rather well-ordered, I never thought of writing to you. However, I do feel that I want to answer "J. R. R." I don't doubt that he is lonely and possibly would be happy if he married again. I also doubt if he has any relatives, or there would be some young people he could enjoy, and, with his means, help educate.

Anyone with money, ought to be busy now doing a lot of good. Why not adopt a family this winter? He need not go to the slums either. There are many families who are self-respecting and only the victims of circumstances. How my heart has ached to help little schoolmates of my boys—barefoot they are, and with no underclothing. Yet it is all we can do to keep up our household. I'd love for them, my boys, to have advantages—music, expression, etc., yet we can't afford it.

I wonder too, with others actually hungry and cold, if it would be right to spend it that way, if we had it. Give to the Charity fund—yes! But let me say to the selfish one. GO PERSONALLY, on some errand of mercy! Oh, try giving happiness to someone else! Although I am sure that a loved one would always be missed, but a very rich and full life could greatly fill the empty space. Will he try?

A LOVER OF PEOPLE.

These two answers to "J. R. R.," the widower who wrote in asking for advice on the course to pursue in enlarging his social circle (not asking to make personal acquaintances) are the only ones out of 165 letters sent in response to his request, which contain anything constructive. The others are very kind—all from ladies wishing to keep him from being lonely—object matrimony. Even if I could bring about these introductions as requested, which we NEVER do, the gentleman would be so surrounded and submerged, I am afraid he would long for his former lonely estate—unless of course, he believes in the old saying, "There is safety in numbers."

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM at the time of life when I should not be worried. I have three girls, the oldest 16 years old, the second, 15. The oldest is going to business school and the second to high school. About two weeks after school started, the second quit school.

I was very angry at this daughter. I wanted her to finish high school, but she said she would rather work. She worked this summer, taking care of some children. After she stopped school she went to work and quit about a week ago.

All the while she was working I never asked her for a penny and she never offered me any, although sometimes I didn't have car fare. And now that she is out of work again, she wants me to give her spending money. I cautioned her when she was working always to put some aside. She gets mad and tells me she didn't ask to be born and lets her girl friend tell her how to treat her mother. I haven't had much schooling myself. I had to keep house for my father and seven brothers.

WORRIED MOTHER.

I am afraid you are to blame for letting this young lady get so far out of bounds when she was very small. That is the time to teach respect and to enforce it, if need be. However, having given your daughter the opportunity to finish school (probably by denying yourself many things) and she was so foolish as to throw it away, you should give her so little that she will feel the pinch and go to work once more.

It is a pity to have these things come up between a mother and her children. It doesn't do much good to quarrel or nag, however. Quietly ignoring her demands and trying to teach her what she has missed and is missing, probably will have more effect.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

HOW can you get rid of a howling cat—or remove the howling? It is bad enough for a fellow to be out of work, without having someone calling him a "bum." If you haven't guessed it by now—it's my intended mother-in-law.

I have tried more than a dozen ways to get a job, but it seems useless, so what shall I do? I have been barred from my girl friend's house. I didn't want to make a lot of trouble, so I left. I am very much in love with the girl and she with me. If you can't help me I'll have to do something. But I'll bet my bottom dollar that if I had the $1,000,000 that Ella Cinders don't know what to do with, the Cat would quit howling. OUT.

Well, at least, your adversity has not yet robbed you of a sense of humor—and that is something!

You don't say what kind of a job you are looking for. You know "just any kind" is sometimes hardly worth looking for. Make a bee-line for the kind to which you are best fitted. Its never "useless"; although we all understand the unusual conditions. Waiting, like "Macawber," for a million "to turn up," is wearing on the disposition enough to want to kill the cat. Try hard again to get the job and maybe pussy won't scratch.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

"DO the poor really get what is sewed?" asked Mrs. G. W. "I would like for them to get it as my work is done at quite a sacrifice."

You bet the poor get it! Nobody else but! The 30,000 or more families now being assisted by the relief agencies of St. Louis and St. Louis County are the only ones getting the garments, and Red Cross cloth. These families are known to and are being helped by the relief agencies of the Citizens' Committee. The finished garments and cloth, where it can be used, are turned over to the Clothing Bureau of the Citizens' Committee. There it is drawn on by the following agencies: Red Cross Home Service Section, St. Louis Provident Association, St. Vincent de Paul Society, Jewish Social Service Bureau, St. Louis County Welfare, Salvation Army, Bureau for Homeless Men and Women, Children's Aid Society. More than 125,000 yards of the Red Cross allotment of 600,000 yards has already been utilized. By the way, any woman who wants to sew, whether a member of a sewing organization or not, may report to sewing mobilization headquarters at 1700 Olive street and we'll set her to work. The National Congress in turning the cloth over to the Red Cross did not give us any money—nothing but the cotton, so all the work must necessarily be volunteer.

PAUL S. BLISS,
Executive Secretary.

PAJAMAS in the MODERN MODE

Another Article by a St. Louis Girl Who Knows Clothes

Miss Jane Meier, who wrote the following article and posed for the pictures, is the daughter of Mrs. Adolphus G. Meier of "Sleepy Hollow," De Soto, Mo. She is a graduate of Mary Institute and made her debut in St. Louis three seasons ago.

By JANE MEIER

THE modern woman with a great deal of leisure time; the business woman, the debutante and school girl, all find their wardrobes incomplete without several of the various types of pajamas.

In the photograph to the left is a sailor ensemble, a combination sleeping and daytime pajama particularly suitable for the young girl or college student. When used for sleeping, the jacket is removed, and on arising may replace the kimono or negligee. The suit is made of soisette, a washable, material making it practical as well as inexpensive. It is white, faced in bright red and blue, and the appliqued anchors are of blue to match. The short bolero coat, the lines of which are very simple, is made in blue. This is only one of the many variations of the sailor pajama to be found, and all are attractive.

In the picture to the right is shown signal red corduroy lounging pajamas, well adapted for lounging anytime during the day or evening for both women and young girls. It follows the trend of styles for dresses, as must all pajamas. The broad shoulder effect is produced by raglan sleeves, the rather high V-neck, the wide girdle with a large self-trimmed buckle and the plain slenderizing effect from the waist down, all tend to add to the attractiveness of this model.

The more formal pajama made of crepe is used for bridge or for a small dinner party. It takes the place of the informal evening or afternoon gown when in one's own home. In this model is to be found the more prevalent fashions of the hour—the leg of mutton sleeves, the high V-neck and the sash which is very long and can be arranged to suit oneself by crossing it in front and tying it in the back. The pajama has the high waistline of Empire period, or it can be worn as pictured, brought forward and tied in a large soft bow. As is often the case with lounging pajamas, this model gives the desired effect of a long afternoon dress.

EVEN more formal are the hostess pajamas used for afternoon teas, cocktail parties and formal dinners. They should be very long with perhaps a short train. They may have either very full sleeves or none at all. The general effect is that of a soft flowing evening dress. They would be unusually smart in chartreuse or American Beauty red.

One is given a large choice of materials in choosing one's pajamas. Materials that will meet every need and also very important, every allowance and budget. Prints, flannelettes, soisettes, broadcloths and silks are used for sleeping pajamas. Terry cloth, corduroy, velveteen, silk, satin and transparent and chiffon velvet are all suitable materials for lounging purposes.

Pajamas are ultimately for comfort, and they also afford an excellent opportunity to express one's individual taste.

My Food and My Figure

as Told to Hannah Stein

By JANE COWL

JANE COWL.

UNLIKE most people we know these days who diet to keep their girlish figure, Jane Cowl reverses the process and eats well to keep shapely and strong.

"I cannot go out a great deal and keep fit," she said when we saw her at home resting up on a holiday. "In the last few years I found it necessary to send my regrets to about 75 per cent of the invitations I received every week.

"Anyone in the limelight could spend nearly all day at affairs of one kind and another. And take it from one who knows, the guest of honor is thoroughly exhausted when she gets home. Consequently, I must decline most of the invitations where I am expected to speak, or just to 'appear.' And if I didn't, I would have no energy left for my work."

Jane Cowl finds acting so strenuous that she must conserve her strength and eat well so as not to get too thin.

"I usually take three meals a day," she said, "and tea at 4. I must have my tea. I eat plenty of fruit and vegetables and starch and proteins, distributed throughout the day. And I mustn't forget to tell you that I have dinner in bed.

"This is a habit I formed to rest up properly before a performance. You mustn't forget that each time makes its own record of merit, because the audience one evening will not be content with the critics' praises of the day before. They pay for their own enjoyable evening, and so I must always remember that I have to do as well today as the day before.

"People can eat and relax at the same time, you know. It isn't an indulgence I recommend to everyone, but it's helpful to one who needs the rest."

The result is that she goes through a performance on the stage so simply, so nonchalantly, that one never would suspect that she is giving off so much energy. Her deep, rich voice never falters even for a moment, and her nervous system is under excellent control.

Monday—Dolores Costello.

Chic Accessory

Ensembles Modish

THE accessory ensemble is the acme of chic this season. The bags, belts, gloves and shoes chosen for a costume reflect one harmonious scheme of color and fabric. An antelope bag calls for antelope gloves and shoes of the some hue. Buttons on the coat match the fastenings on the frock, and both are often allied in color and material to belt clasp, earrings, or the pert pin ornament on madame's hat.

The bag often is the keynote of the accessory ensemble, since it offers almost endless possibilities for combinations.

With a black wool frock having white pique touches, one smart New Yorker wears a black antelope belt with a white antelope plastron in front and carries a black antelope pouch bag lined in white.

A brown velvet afternoon frock is accompanied by a brown suede bag and gauntlet gloves, and a blue wool sports suit appears with a bag and scarf made of blue, white and red scotch plaid wool.

Baked Carrots

Two cups cooked mashed carrots, two tablespoons chopped green peppers, one tablespoon chopped onion, one-half cup cream or meat stock. Brown onions and peppers in butter and add one tablespoon flour. Add stock, or cream and when smooth pour over the carrots. Cover with breadcrumbs and dot liberally with butter. Bake in the oven until a nice brown.

Elbow Injuries

IT IS well known that children are liable to suffer falls and to injure their ankles, knees and elbows.

At times, elbow injuries are likely to be followed by serious results, particularly when the injury is in the nature of a fracture.

One of the important complications of elbow injuries in children is what is known as ischemic paralysis, the type due to an interference with the venous return of blood in the affected limb.

This complication may arise from several conditions, such as hemorrhage about the injury, pressure due to some displaced fragment of bone, or occasionally, from pressure due to tight bandaging.

The nerves, too, are subject to injury—particularly what is known as the ulnar nerve, when the inner portion of the elbow joint is hurt.

Still another complication following injuries in the elbow is the locking of the elbow joint, and the formation in the region of large bone masses.

This may be due to the tearing away of the periosteum or covering of the bone and to hemorrhage. New bone grows to a disproportionate extent, and so cripples the joint that normal movement is impossible.

Injuries about the elbow should be handled with great caution. Prompt medical attention should be secured and tight bandaging as well as violent and unnecessary movement of the injured elbow should be avoided.

It should be borne in mind, also, that the complications described may arise even when the injury has been accorded the very best medical and surgical care.

The appearance of ischemic paralysis, nerve injury or locking of the elbow joint following an injury, cannot usually be attributed to improper surgical or medical handling.

It is, however, a fact, that the sooner after injury medical treatment is instituted, the better are the chances for avoiding complications.

Woolen Stockings

It is advisable to buy woolen stockings a size too large to allow for shrinkage. Wash them in lukewarm water and soapsuds, being careful to keep the water the same temperature throughout the process. A little soap in the final rinsing water will help to keep that soft, fluffy texture. If you enjoy the warmth of woolen stockings but they "pick" your legs, wear a pair of thin silk ones underneath the woolen ones. When you come into a warm house or office, the woolen stockings may be slipped off.

Remove at Once

Never leave the invalid's tray in the sick room for any time after he has finished with it. Take it out of sight at once, as frequently the sight is nauseating to a person who had had more or less to force what he has eaten.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

by P. HAL SIMS

P. Hal Sims is universally acclaimed the greatest living contract and auction player. He is captain of the renowned "Four Horsemen" team of four, and has won eighteen national championships since 1924.

Encouraging a Slam Over a Jump-Raise.

CONTINUING yesterday's discussion of the first kind of encouraging bid—naming a second suit—we will take a two-suiter opening hand. The bidding has been one spade, three spades:

Sp. A Q x x x
His. A Q x x x
Di. Q x
Cl. x

HAL SIMS

With this hand, you must sign off by bidding four spades, as your one and a half primary tricks in hearts formed part of your requirements to open the bidding. To bid four hearts, you should hold a clear outside trick, since there may be finesse to take in spades. Your partner must hold two aces and the king of one of your long suits to justify a slam bid. Holding these, he should bid, over four spades: (a) four no trumps if he has the king of Hearts, or (b) five spades if he has the king of Spades. In either case you can then take it to six spades. If he goes on after your minimum response, your excellent distribution for suit play should make the slam contract almost unbeatable.

Sp. A K x x x x	Di. A K x x
His. x	Cl. Q x x

I would bid four diamonds. If he now says four hearts, you know there is a duplication, and must sign off with four spades. But if he bids five clubs you should bid six spades—his high cards are likely to be A K of clubs and the queen of spades. If his clubs are A J 10 x, then he must hold the ace of hearts. The danger is that he may hold three little diamonds and K x in hearts—but if the heart ace is not over the king, you can throw one of your small diamonds on that king and the other on the long club: an even money chance well worth taking. Again, the opponents may not open hearts, and then you can throw the heart on the long club and surrender a diamond trick.

The second kind of encouraging bid is a jump-response in no trumps. This characteristically denies possession of a second suit on which to base slam-play, but affirms excess values in terms of primary tricks. Since partner's response of three spades proclaimed a similar lack of serviceable secondary suit, you must not expect any low cards to be established in the play of the hand except, naturally, in your main suit. Be pessimistic, therefore, in encouraging a slam under these conditions. You should be able to count your losers at this very point if a slam is worth trying. To make the four no-trump reply you should hold a high honor in every suit, with four clear primary tricks and a queen or so besides.

Sp. A K x x x	Di. K Q
His. A x	Cl. Q J 9 x

Over the three spades response, bid four no trumps. If your partner has no more than an ace and a king, this contract—or five spades which with a minimum he is likely to prefer—cannot be in real danger. If he has two and a half primary tricks, six no trumps or six spades can hardly be defeated. In a tournament, your partner should incline to the former; in rubber play, the latter would perhaps enable you to proceed sooner to the next deal.

In these upper registers of the slam-zone, where very precise counting of your losers is essential, you will realize why my table of primary trick valuations is so simple and so uncompromising. I try to eliminate guessing on big hands. Karn, Von Zedtwitz, Wernher and I could work together 10 hours a day for 10 years without finding a legitimate way to obtain this precision if we were compelled to give K Q J the same primary value as A K or if W J 10 had to count the same as an ace.

Monday—More on encouraging a slam over a jump-raise.

Martha Carr's Opinions on Personal Problems
In the Post-Dispatch Daily Magazine

LISTEN, WORLD!

by Elsie Robinson

How Real Are You?

ALWAYS you are puzzling over yourself and your life. You are dissatisfied. There's a feeling of emptiness. Why are you so uncertain inside yourself? Why have you so little power over other people?

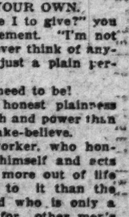

You can solve the riddle for yourself, partner, if you'll honestly answer one question:

HOW REAL ARE YOU?

HOW MUCH IS YOU; HOW MUCH IS MAKE-BELIEVE?

How much of the honest, original stuff is there in this Self which bears your name and meets the world? How much is synthetic or borrowed goods?

"But what difference does THAT make?" you cry in bewilderment.

ELSIE ROBINSON

It makes all the difference in the world. It makes the difference between success and failure outside you; between growth and stagnation inside you.

Only the REAL STUFF in your personality has authority. Only the thoughts which you think for yourself can give you any confidence in yourself. Only the deeds which you decide for yourself can give other people any confidence in you. The rest of your act may be charming and polite, but it will fool nobody, and it will give you no lasting peace or power.

So begin to take stock. HOW much REAL STUFF have you?

Your ideas, your opinions, your prejudices—did YOU create them? Are they the fruit of your own thought, your own struggles, your own experiments, your own rebellions, your own sacrifices and hardships?

Or have you inherited them as part of your family viewpoint?

Have you borrowed them because they seemed smart or pleasing?

Worse yet, do you trim your words and mold your actions to suit the pressure of the moment? Do you do the thing you really believe, or do you do the thing that seems expedient and profitable?

Do your expressions spring from courage, or from cowardice? Or are you just a copy-cat?

It's more comfortable to be a copy-cat. It's more safe to be a coward. And it's much less work to borrow than it is to build. So if you're just looking for comfort and safety and ease, go on copying, go on borrowing, go on hedging.

BUT IF YOU WANT REAL POWER AND REAL PEACE, BE YOURSELF!

Stop trying to copy "a line" or "put on an act." Yes, I know; you were told that such things would work, and you've spent most of your life trying to make them work. But you were told wrong. They won't work.

IF YOU WANT TO GET SOMETHING OUT OF LIFE, YOU MUST GIVE SOMETHING TO LIFE; SOMETHING THAT IS HONESTLY, BRAVELY YOUR OWN.

"But what have I to give?" you say, in discouragement. "I'm not very bright. I never think of anything new. I'm just a plain person."

That's all you need to be!

One ounce of honest plainness carries more punch and power than a ton of tricky make-believe.

The simplest worker, who honestly thinks for himself and acts for himself, gets more out of life and gives more to it than the noisiest blow-hard who is only a sounding board for other men's ideas. Even his mistakes are more honorable, and give him more lasting satisfaction, than the other man's successes.

IF YOU WANT TO LIVE—IF YOU WANT TO GET ALL THE TREASURE OUT OF LIFE—BE REAL!

A NEW ROMANTIC SERIAL

By ROB EDEN

CHAPTER THIRTY-FIVE.

DOCTOR HANFORD motioned to a chair, and Fleur sat down.

"Nice of you to come in. I had my nurse phone the store, but it was so late I thought you might have gone."

"She caught me just in time." When Miss Randall had called she merely told Fleur that Doctor Hanford wanted to see her on her way from work. She had hung up before the girl could ask her why. She was curious. Hanford seldom sent for her. She knew he had been out to see her mother the day before while she was at work, but, according to Mrs. Bennett, he had said nothing new.

"Is it about mother or father?"

"Both," Hanford was smiling. "I was at Hillcrest this afternoon, and Bennett and I settled everything. I thought you should know; that's why I sent for you. I've some calls to make this evening, so I couldn't drop by the flat."

"Mother seems the same"—Fleur's face darkened as she took off her gloves. It was quite true that Mrs. Bennett hadn't improved. To the girl she seemed weaker than she had been when Dr. Hanford had been called the first time.

She seldom dressed during the day, and when Paul and her daughter came home at night they found her lying on the couch either reading or running through her solitaire deck.

Fleur had the whole responsibility of the meals. Breakfast she got before she left, lunch she planned also before leaving, dinner she managed when she came from the store. She was worried now because she was late, and Paul might not know what was in the kitchen.

It was 6:30 when she had reached Hanford's reception room, and she waited 10 minutes before Miss Randall told her he was free to see her.

"She'll always be the same, Fleur, unless she does as I say. It's her fault she hasn't improved. She still refuses to exercise. I scolded her yesterday again, but I knew the scolding wouldn't do any good. I've scolded her before. She's quite hopeless—but that's what I want to talk to you about."

SHE waited while Hanford answered the phone, and gave directions to a patient.

"Now, then, I talked to your father this afternoon, and he understands the situation. I finally told him your mother had been ill"—

"What did he say?" Fleur's hand flew to her throat. The news might have hurt him. They had been so careful to keep it from him.

"He was strong enough to stand it, but I had all I could do to keep him at Hillcrest. Finally the only way I kept him there was to tell him he could leave early next week"—

"So soon!"

Hanford frowned. "It's too soon, but he'll be all right, I think. He's improved rapidly this week—much more rapidly than I expected. He had a good constitution to start with.

"Well, he's coming out next week, Fleur—Monday probably if we can arrange it that soon—but he's not coming home. He's going to Canada to a small place I have near Victoria, and he's going to get good and strong before he comes back here.

"She Must Go."

"He's going to stay there for six months out in the open, doing the chores of the place. He's promised me faithfully he'll stay six months, and when he comes back he'll be a new man—fit to get out and work. There won't be a chance of another breakdown no matter what happens. And your mother is going with him!"

"Mother!"

"Yes, I insist on it, and when I explained Lora's illness to him, he insisted on it, too. It's the only way we can get her out of doors, exercising as she should. She'll be plenty busy there, too, cooking and taking care of the cabin. She'll be so busy she won't have time to fret and worry. It'll be her salvation."

"She won't go—"

"She'll have to go, Fleur. There's no way out. She's to go out to Hillcrest tomorrow afternoon, and John will explain everything to her. I wanted to, but he said he must."

"It's Unnecessary."

"It's all unnecessary, Doctor Hanford. She doesn't need to go. She won't want to go, anyway, but she needn't go—"

"Someone must go with your father, and she's the one," Hanford was disappointed. He'd thought Fleur would highly approve of his plan.

"You see—" Fleur faltered, and looked away, "you see, I'm going to marry Gary Crewe, and all this won't be necessary then—"

"You're going to marry Crewe?"

"Yes." Her voice was small and weak. "Mother wants me to, and it's the only way that she'll be really happy. She hates all this—poverty so—it is hard for her. She's been miserable—"

"Your mother didn't know yesterday that you were going to marry Crewe. I was there and she said nothing about it—"

"I haven't told her. She doesn't know—" She felt his hand on her wrist and heard the creak his chair made when he moved it closer to her.

"What about this boy who has been taking you out to Hillcrest every Sunday? Tom Dorin? Isn't that his name? You introduced me to him once."

FLEUR was silent.

"I had an idea you liked him, Fleur. I was sure of it. Your father spoke to me about him yesterday, wanted to find out all about him. I had to admit I didn't know much, but I said I'd find out."

"Please"— Why did he have to mention Tom's name?

"Listen to me, child, and answer me quite truthfully. I don't want any lies. Are you in love with Crewe?"

"Does it matter?" Wearily, but she didn't raise her eyes. They were fastened to the rug, glued there.

"You've answered me. That's all I want to know. This is a ridiculous sacrifice on your part if you don't love Crewe. A needless one. You've your own life to live, Fleur. Did you ever consider that? Your own life and a good many years to live in it. And I'm just selfish enough to want you to live it right"—

"A Lot of Harm."

She tried to pull her hand away but he wouldn't release it. He went on, speaking slowly in his low, resonant voice.

"Besides, this marriage with Crewe won't do your mother a bit of good. Oh, it will make her happy, I've no doubt. She'll forget she's been ill and all that. But in the long run it will do her a lot of harm.

"She's got to realize that she hasn't any money. She hasn't realized that yet. She's been living on hope this summer and this fall, the hope that something would happen to give her back what she had.

"She hasn't any right to have the hope, and she hasn't any right to expect you to wreck your life with a foolish marriage to give her back some material glory. Don't you see the mistake you'll be making? I wish I had known about Crewe when I went to Hillcrest this afternoon. I would have told your father"—

"I don't want him to know"—

"Of course not! You're afraid of what he would say. I'm ashamed of you, Fleur. I thought you were so strong and so brave, and I was so proud of you. I've watched you from the start. I've seen how hard it was for you—I know you carried most of the burden.

"I could have helped. I could have given you a loan to tide you over, but I didn't. What good would it have done? I think I did the kindest thing I could by taking no notice at all. You're a lot like your father, Fleur. He would have done the same thing you did, if he had been able.

"He's going to start next week doing what you have done—if you'll let him, but even if you don't, even if you marry Crewe, I've a notion he'll do it all the same. For six months he's going to be a caretaker on my place, and I'm going to pay him for his work—he suggested that.

"I was willing to have him go up there to stay, but he wouldn't stand for that. And he's not going to get much money. He won't take more than $40 a month because he says he's not worth any more. I don't blame him. I wouldn't take any more if I were in his place. That's the salary I usually pay a caretaker.

"Take It Easy."

"He's going to take it easy at first because I'm going to make him, but in a few months he'll be building me a barn and putting in a supply of wood for the winter. There's a forest to be cleared—and it's no small forest.

"He told me this afternoon that all his life he'd wanted to get in the woods, so he's planning to enjoy himself. I'll get my money's worth out of him. And you don't like the prospect?"

"It isn't that I don't like it. I'd planned to ask Gary to let father use his yacht for six months. Mother would enjoy that—"

"As you like, Fleur, but I'm only telling you that for Lora's own good, she should go into the woods with John. She'll come out in six months a well, happy woman, just as John will come out without a nerve in his body."

"Mother never would be happy that way."

"IF she had to, wouldn't she? You forget, Fleur, that Lora, besides being your mother, is John's wife. It's her duty, her right to go with John, to help him get well.

"She's shirked her responsibility so far—she's put the whole burden on your shoulders. You've made yourself a new life, a new girl since April. She's done nothing but sink deeper into her discontent.

"It's not fair to you, my dear. It's not fair to any fresh generation to have to lean on an older set one. I'm a great believer in every generation's showing what it can do by itself for itself. This would be a better world if there were no inherited wealth.

"You don't know now what a mistake you'll be making, but you'll know later, when it's made, and instead of being grateful your mother will be more bitter, more domineering because she has to receive from you.

"For you to marry Gary will no more solve the problem of Lora's life and future than for you to borrow money at the bank with no security to pay back the loan. It's a gamble, that's all. My way is sure, but hard. You're making something, somebody of Lora by doing it. Your way will continue her life as a parasite. See now?"

Fleur wouldn't see. She was shaking her head when she left the office.

At the flat building Lucille was running up the stairs. "Oh, Fleur, you're wanted on the phone. I was just going up to get you," she said breathlessly.

"It's the man with the nice voice—you know who I mean."

Fleur knew. Lucille always described Gary that way. The man with the nice voice. He was back from his fishing trip.

BEGINS HERE TODAY.

FLEUR BENNETT is going to marry GARY CREWE, even though she loves TOM DORIN. She likes Gary, and he offers wealth, luxury, position for her family. Gary has often asked Fleur to marry him, but she didn't consider him seriously until MRS. BENNETT insisted that Fleur owed it to her and to PAUL, Fleur's brother, to restore them to the wealth they had always enjoyed before the crash which swept away the Bennett fortune.

At Hillcrest sanitarium JOHN BENNETT is recovering from the collapse brought on by his financial ruin. His health is improving rapidly and he is impatient to be on his feet again. Fleur hasn't worried him about family affairs under orders from DR. HANFORD, their physician.

It is hard for Fleur not to confide in her father because they have always been such pals. . . . And there is no one else to whom she can tell her woes except Tom. Now that she has decided to give up Tom, she is alone.

Fleur hasn't told Gary yet that she has decided to marry him. When she first called him, he was on a fishing trip, so she left word for him to call when he returned.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

SONS, not CAREER, CHIEF CONCERN of VICKI BAUM

Author of "Grand Hotel" Stopped Writing During Their Babyhood—Discusses America and Intention of Becoming a Citizen.

By S. R. McCULLOCH

OUT of a welter of new experiences, chaotic impressions, changing scenes, life goes on for Vicki Baum, as thrilling, as interesting, as when she first began to write "Grand Hotel," destined to bring her international fame.

In her diversity of interests she has found the secret of perpetual youth. Nothing is too trivial to escape her attention, nothing too inconsequential to fail to excite her ready interest.

So she conceded Wednesday as she prepared to leave her Hotel Chase suite to lecture before the Wednesday Club on "Looking at Life." For she looks at life every day, stores away impressions, some day, perhaps, to be interpreted in a novel dealing with life in the United States.

"Ah, but it may take years to write a book about America," she cautioned as she obeyed a photographer's request and moved toward the window, "because it takes a long time to get acquainted with America and I hate people who are in such a hurry to write they don't stop to verify their impressions. These people who go to a country for six months and then attempt to write about it—poof."

She broke off, turned to the photographer.

"One moment, please," she asked, "let me get my best side."

Carefully she posed, left profile toward the lens, blonde hair contrasting with black and white silk dress. But a whimsical smile revealed it wasn't so serious after all, not half so serious as getting off her every-other-day letter to her two sons at a Los Angeles boarding school.

FOR in private life the German author is the wife of Richard Lert, general music director of the Berlin State Opera, and is the mother of 15-year-old Wolfgang and 12-year-old Peter. Already, she disclosed, she has taken out her first citizenship papers and plans to live in Los Angeles.

"My husband will come there, too," she added, "as soon as he can get established; although, for a musician, that takes time. I haven't dared ask him whether he intends to take out citizenship papers."

Seating herself on a divan, she caught the interviewer's glance upon a copy of "Ballyhoo" and the "New Yorker."

"You think, perhaps, 'Ballyhoo' is vulgar?" she said, "well, I don't think so. To me, it is a healthy reaction because America is overadvertised. Everybody is forced to buy things. It is a nation of salesmen. Everybody sells—who buys?"

Telling of her grand tour—replete with experiences of the fabric of such a novel as "Grand Hotel"—she said she was "overwhelmed by its friendliness" and is impressed by the willingness of the masses to learn.

"But Americans want to learn easily," she commented, "without the methodical pains we Germans take. They won't take trouble but they have an insatiable desire for knowledge—most any kind."

DURING her lecture tour, which will span the country and already has occupied six of its allotted 10 weeks, she visited scores of towns and cities during the recent presidential campaigns.

"But I am only bewildered," she confessed, "I can't understand your politics. To my mind, there is no difference between Republicans and Democrats. Both parties are of the bourgeoisie. In Europe, we have class distinctions. The rich are aligned against the poor. But I know this much—in your country as well as abroad the end of capitalism is near."

Interrupted for a moment by the telephone, she spoke briefly into the transmitter, agreed to make a radio talk after the lecture for the United Relief Campaign, came back shaking her head in perplexity but determined not to "just read off anything they give me; no I will write my own, at any rate."

"I have an idea," she exclaimed, "why not suggest relief Christmas seals or labels? That is, I would send you a gift, let us say. On the gift would be a label and the label would say that I had given for you so much for the relief of the poor. Would not that be good? Stickers might be sold for 50 cents—and what a fine thought they would convey to go along with the gift."

Unemployment has deepened the shadow of destitution all over the world, she conceded, but—

"Isn't this a grand time to be alive? It is, despite the struggles of the younger generation. It's no longer a play generation; they have to work or struggle just to find work. But the present day generation is making history, living in a transitional time, worth in the end the cruelty of personal difficulties.

"You know, I always stick to the younger generation. In fact, anyone who wouldn't couldn't have much hope."

MISS BAUM paused, hesitated, then resumed:

"I don't want to be critical—but the only thing I mind in America is prohibition. Not that I drink. It so happens that I don't. But American people drink all the time.

"Why, I didn't think that an intoxicated girl could exist until I paid my first visit to America last year. In Vienna, my birthplace, and all over Europe only the most depraved classes of women become intoxicated.

"But in the United States all classes seem to drink. Maybe they do it to be smart. I do not know. But certainly it is not clever.

"And the terrible gin—that is bad stuff. I see people drink 12 cocktails. One would make me ill. Wine, now, that is not dangerous, good wine is fine. But in America it seems that there must be gin and whisky everywhere.

"Oh, I am so ashamed to see people with hidden bottles. They act like children. They put them under the table and ginger ale on top of the table. Then grown-up people begin to talk nonsense.

"There is no proper conversation. They say to me, 'You are my friend' 100 times in one evening. I get disgusted."

UPON the completion of her tour Miss Baum will remain in New York several weeks assisting in the dramatization of "Life Goes On," another of her successful novels. It will be known probably, she added, as "The Divine Drudge." She then will return to Hollywood, where she is under contract to write scenarios.

"There is more hard work done in Hollywood than any place in the world," she declared, "and the stars and those who really amount to anything there go to bed early and get up early. The so-called 'Hollywood parties' are mostly imaginery; of course, there are hangers-on about the fringe of any place like that but the people who count are the ones who work.

"Yes, of course, motion pictures are improving. They have achieved a lot. Just compare, for example, the average picture of today with the feature of even three years ago. Of course, Hollywood has to deliver trash for the masses as every department store does. But it creates fine things, too."

Miss Baum, a forthright realist who is not ashamed of sentiment, said she was "through with Grand Hotel; never want to hear about it again," disclosed she plans to publish a translation of one of her former German books advocating birth control, to be known as "Living Through" and also, I ride, although I'm not particularly fond of horses and was hurt when one threw me last spring in New York."

VICKI BAUM.

Miss Baum said her principal hobby is dancing. A pupil of Mary Wigman, German danseuse and originator of a school of interpretative dancing, she expresses herself emotionally in the dance. For relaxation, she is fond of ballroom dancing.

TELLING of her writing methods, she said she has written ever since she was old enough to hold a pencil, starting with short stories. When she is working on a novel she obtains strict seclusion and writes only at night, with no attempt to turn out a prescribed number of words an evening. Before she earned a living with the pen she was a harpist—now she says she "hates the harp, that stupid instrument"—later becoming editor of a magazine.

Despite the popular conception that she reaped a fortune from "Grand Hotel," she disclosed that the book, play and picture, which was an outstanding boxoffice success, netted her but $23,000. Unwise contracts with publishers and translators forced her to surrender most of the proceeds while managers and various agents took most of the rest.

"I have to work very hard to make a living," she added as the hour approached for her lecture, "but I tell you truthfully that when I write I never think of making money. I have been unlucky that way; but I have gained experience; learned of the world of business.

"After all, that's part of life."

MY Beauty Hint

By JANET GAYNOR.

JANET GAYNOR

TO keep my complexion good I use a honey treatment night and morning.

I cold cream my face, rub it in and remove it with a soft cloth. Next I wash my face with soap and warm water.

Then I apply the honey and pat it in for five minutes. Next I wash it off with cold water and apply an astringent. The honey removes impurities and leaves my skin in excellent condition.

Nut Bread

With the new nuts in market we cannot help but make some delicious nut bread utilizing them. Two cups graham flour, two cups white flour, one cup sugar, two teaspoons soda, one teaspoon baking powder, one teaspoon salt, one cup chopped nuts, two cups sour milk, two tablespoons melted butter. Mix ingredients and turn into a greased loaf cake pan. Let rise for 15 minutes, then bake for 30 minutes in a slow oven.

Deviled Crabs

Blend two tablespoons of butter and two of flour in a saucepan and add to it one cup of milk. When smooth add one tablespoon chopped pimento, one teaspoon dry mustard and one teaspoon salt. Remove from fire and add one teaspoon lemon juice, one teaspoon minced parsley and two cups shredded crabmeat. Turn into buttered crab shells, sprinkle each one with buttered crumbs and bake until a nice brown in a hot oven. Garnish with a thin slice of lemon and strips of pimento.

New Rubber Gloves

Sprinkle the insides of the new rubber gloves with baking soda or cornstarch. They will slip off easily when the job is finished.

Making the Jelly

THEY all started gathering the the apples at once, although, of course, Willy Nilly did most of the work.

He was very quick and it was easier for him to work than it was for the animals. True, Flotilla Botilla did a great deal.

At last they had gathered enough apples and they set to work to put them in a big tin on the stove where the apples cooked slowly for quite a long time.

Then they strained the apples and put them in glasses to get good and firm. Top Notch had brought many extra glasses from his store.

"We should really have covers for the glasses," Willy Nilly said, "but perhaps we can do that after the jelly becomes hard enough. Then we can put them away on the top pantry shelf."

"Where are we going to put them now?" Flotilla Botilla asked.

"We might put them on the lower shelf in the pantry right by the window," Willy Nilly said.

But first they all tasted a little of the jelly that had been left over.

"It's delicious," said Rip, the dog.

"Its scrumptious," said Willy Nilly.

"It's yum-yum-yum good," said Flotilla Botilla.

"Won't we have a good time this winter with all this jelly to eat!" Willy Nilly exclaimed.

"We've really done a fine job, and something is accomplished."

They were tired after the jelly making, but the winter ahead looked very pleasant with such a fine supply of jelly for their dinners and suppers and parties.

Lemon Taffy

One and one-half cups brown sugar, three-quarters cup water, four tablespoons butter, two teaspoons lemon juice. Mix ingredients and boil until the mixture forms a soft ball when tried in cold water. Pour onto a butter dish and when cool enough to handle pull until it becomes a golden color. Cut into pieces with scissors. Fun for the kiddies on the next rainy day.

More Protection

If you have an argument concerning the overshoe question each time it rains, give the youngster's shoes two or three coats of shellac on the soles. It will help prevent the water from going through the leather and add wear to the soles.

Bathroom Care

The only way to avoid unpleasant work in the bathroom is to go over it each day and thus avoid any accumulation of soil on the white enamel. It will take just a few minutes of your time and will soon become a daily habit.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE
» by WYNN «

For Sunday, Nov. 27.

NEW moon, 7:44 p. m., E. S. T., promising a month of hectic dealings with foreign nations; financial problems; employment and health improvement. Today: avoid fevers, both body and brain: steer around danger all day.

Obey the Law.

All is law and order, with the possible exception of human beings and their sometimes pathetic choices. Right or wrong, we have the power of choice. We can decide to act and think against the law, and take the consequences. I am not talking about little man-made laws, but of the laws of right living that are laid out before us in the great book of nature, in the seasons of the year, in the signs of the Zodiac, and in the planets, those hardly known symbols and pointers that will show us what and why we are, if we will only pay attention to them. When we feel well, when we are successful and happy, it is because we are living in harmony with The Law, not because we have bribed It to like us or do us favors. We can all be happy; all we need is to obey The Law.

If Today Is Your Birthday.

You may not always be able to get along well with those in power, if this is the anniversary of your birth; learn to bide your time and understand your own strength before you oppose authority. You can be right always and usually strong. Your year ahead requires care and caution all the way. Danger: March . to 17; April 17 to May 12; and Oct. 4 to 17, 1933; be wary.

FOR MONDAY, NOV. 28.

BETTER before mid-afternoon than after, although that doesn't mean it is extra fancy. Evening; take run o' the mine and try to get along with folks. If you stir up hunches, set 'em aside to cool awhile before trying to use 'em.

Use Your Emotions.

During the past several weeks we have referred to the emotions as being above the intellect, but we have not had much to say about them. Let us now attempt to get their position clearly in mind, in order that we may use the marvelous powers that reside in our feelings, instead of in many personal cases, being used by our emotions. All over the front page we find constant reminders that our social and educational and religious training is not as successful as it might be in preventing outbursts of uncontrolled emotion. This is chiefly because of taboos, the origin of which would surprise many, for they were originally intended to keep people in ignorance of the power they possess, in order to permit continuation of certain types of rulership.

If Today Is Your Birthday.

You can build yourself up into positions of prominence and importance if you plan wisely and act constructively, if today is your birthday; but it would not be your best bet to attempt too many solo flights into untried realms. Your year ahead is one of conflict with authority, unless tactful. Danger: March 1 to 14, April 26 to May 15 and Oct. 5 to 13, 1933.

Tomorrow.

Deal with opposite sex; make the whole day constructive and good.

Snow on the Evergreens

Time taken to knock the snow off the evergreens before it gets too heavy is well spent, as an overloading of snow on them means breakage.

Thumbnail Reviews of the NEW MOVIES
By Nie

AMBASSADOR—Ben Lyon, Zasu Pitts, James Gleason and Irene Purcell in "The Crooked Circle," a mystery meller played very enjoyably as a fast moving farce. Stoopnagle and Budd, of radio fame, are on the stage in person.

LOEW'S—A horror thriller of the great Gobi Desert—if you know where that is—called "The Mask of Fu Manchu" with Boris Frankenstein Karloff, Lewis Stone, Karen Morley and Myrna Loy battling all sorts of creepy things to gain possession of some old relics.

ST. LOUIS—Continuing the run of "The Conquerors," a history of the wide open spaces with Richard Dix, Ann Harding, Edna May Oliver and Guy Kibbee carrying on from youth to old age.

FOX—Janet Gaynor and Charley Farrell in a regular Gaynor-Farrell sweetheart story. This time it's a film version of Rupert Hughes' rock bound New England coast drama, "Tess of the Storm Country." Blanche Sweet, one time well known movie star, is on the stage with a Fanchon and Marco show.

MISSOURI—"Little Orphan Annie" bursting right out of the comic strips with Mitzi Green as the little heroine and old May Robson as Mrs. Stewart. It's a great show for the kids. George Raft, who looks like the lamented Rudolph Valentino—well, anyway, something like him—and Mae West, who used to have a hard time getting her stage drammers past the police are in the Missouri's other feature, "Night After Night." This one is NOT for the children.

AMERICAN—No better picture has ever been shown than the German film, "Maedchen In Uniform" which goes on twice daily and which is to be held over all next week.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

What is the record for apple pickers in the county and the nation?

We have heard of no official contests of this kind.

What appointive governmental positions will be available under the new administrations? What are the salaries? M. E. H.

No such list is available. As a matter of fact, most Federal jobs are now filled as a result of examinations for fitness by the Civil Service Commission, and the worker cannot be removed except for cause. The latest available statistics gave 616,837 as the number of Government employes under Civil Service Commission rules.

What is meant by bonded whiskey? G. J.

It is whiskey which has been placed in a warehouse under Government supervision and cannot be withdrawn until the Federal tax has been paid. "Bonded 1887" means the spirits were placed in the warehouse in that year.

There are three deeds of trust on my home. If I am not able to continue payments, can the parties holding the deeds of trust garnishee my wages? B. R. X.

If you signed promissory notes, as presumably you did, your wages could be garnisheed in case the sale of the property did not return enough money to reimburse those from whom you borrowed. You would have to be sued, and judgment given, before your pay envelope could be touched, however.

Ham Scuffle

Make a sauce of two tablespoons flour, two tablespoons butter, salt, pepper, four raw egg yolks, the juice of one lemon, two tablespoons minced onion and one and one-half cups milk. When smooth add six tablespoons finely chopped cooked ham. Remove from fire and add the stiffly whipped whites of the four eggs. Pour into a buttered baking dish, sprinkle with buttered crumbs and bake about 30 minutes in a moderate oven.

TODAY'S PATTERN

Moulded Slip.

THE newest lingerie has the gracious silhouette that follows the lines of the newest frocks, as should be. The simplicity of this slip, with its few seams and darts and its fitted lines, makes it the most appealing one we've seen in ages. Notice, too, the generous hem. Ideal for crepe or wash satin.

Pattern 2465 may be ordered only in sizes 32 to 46. Size 34 requires 2½ yards 39 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with this pattern.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred), for this pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. Be sure to state size wanted.

The choice of a smart, sensible and economical winter wardrobe becomes very simple with the aid of the Anne Adams pattern catalog. This beautiful book contains 32 pages of select Anne Adams models for every winter need and ever so many delightful suggestions for Christmas sewing. Send for your copy. Price of catalog, 15 cents. Catalog and pattern together 25 cents. Address all mail orders to St. Louis Post-Dispatch Pattern Department, 243 W. Seventeenth street, New York City.

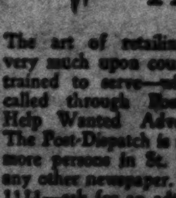

Raisin Muffins

One cup flour, one cup breadcrumbs, one and three-fourths cups milk, two eggs, one tablespoon melted butter, three teaspoons baking powder, a pinch salt, one-half cup chopped raisins. Cover breadcrumbs with milk for a few minutes, then add sifted dry ingredients, beaten eggs, raisins and melted butter and mix well. Turn into greased muffin pans and bake from 20 to 30 minutes in a fairly hot oven.

Cream of Carrot and Pea Soup

Serve carrots and peas at a previous meal and the soup may be made of the leftover vegetables. Press two cups of carrots and peas mixed through a strainer. Blend together two tablespoons butter, two tablespoons flour and add two and one-half cups milk or half milk and half chicken or veal stock. Cook until smooth, stirring constantly, then add the vegetable puree. Season with salt, onion salt and pepper and serve.

Better Store Help

The art of retailing depends very much upon courteous help trained to serve—who can be called through Post-Dispatch Help Wanted Advertisements. The Post-Dispatch is read by far more persons in St. Louis than any other newspaper. Call MAin 1111—ask for an adtaker.

BRITISH CABINET DIVIDED ON DEBT PLAN

If U. S. Insists, Baldwin and Thomas Are Said to Favor Paying Installment—Chamberlain and Simon Opposed.

FRANCE TO WAIT TILL ENGLAND ACTS

Plan Decided Upon at Conference—Herriot Reported Wanting to Meet Obligation If U. S. Collects From Britain.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—Almost the entire British Cabinet will be in London tomorrow for informal conferences preceding the Cabinet meeting Monday which is scheduled to pass on Britain's reply to the United States note refusing to suspend the $95,550,000 war debt installment due Dec. 15.

Sir John Simon, the Foreign Secretary, arrived by airplane today from Geneva. Prime Minister MacDonald, who is spending the week-end at Chequers, where he is studying the debt question, plans to return to his Downing Street residence tomorrow night, and most of the other Cabinet members also will cut short their week-ends.

Treasury officials already are preparing data on which the British note will be based. In general the Government proceeded in the belief that a method still could be found to pass the December payment.

The pound sterling showed some appreciation today, closing at $3.22¼. Yesterday it registered a low of only a fraction above $3.20.

Reports were widely current tonight that the Cabinet is divided on the question of whether to pay or default on the December obligation if the American Government finally insists upon payment.

Lineup in Cabinet.

Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Sir John Simon were expected generally to take the position that payment is impossible and that Britain should so inform the United States. Stanley Baldwin, Lord President of the Council and leader of the conservative majority in the Cabinet, and J. H. Thomas, Secretary for the Dominions, were expected to favor payment.

Leading Ministers of the Cabinet will meet with Prime Minister MacDonald tomorrow night. The Cabinet as a whole will pass on the new note Monday morning and it may be on President Hoover's desk some time during that day.

The British contention that world exchanges are likely to be upset or even demoralized if payments are made, probably will be stressed in the new note, it was said in Government circles. It also was expected that an attempt would be made to show that payment would hurt the United States as much as Great Britain.

Source of Money.

If payment is made—and conservative voices in London were quoted in newspapers as saying it will be made, if demanded—gold may be obtained from £140,000,000 gold note coverage, in the Bank of England's vaults.

There has been no budgetary anticipation of payment, however, and in that event a further drop in sterling exchange value and an increase in British taxes is regarded by newspapers as certain.

J. L. Galvin, writing in the Sunday Observer, will say "as regards the next installment and that only we mark the distinction—we are convinced that if America still insists that the next installment of $25,000,000 be forthcoming Dec. 15 this country by hook or crook must pay on that date."

His article will say that date, if payment is made, would be a Black Thursday . . . and the last date of its kind on the calendar of this country."

Inventors' New Quest.

Baron George Ranken Askwith, industrialist and arbiter in many trade disputes, said in an address at Rugby he hoped the "business of inventors" would not have to be devoted during the next few weeks to "inventing synthetic gold to pour down the throats of those people who wanted to get it out of this country."
